Greeting

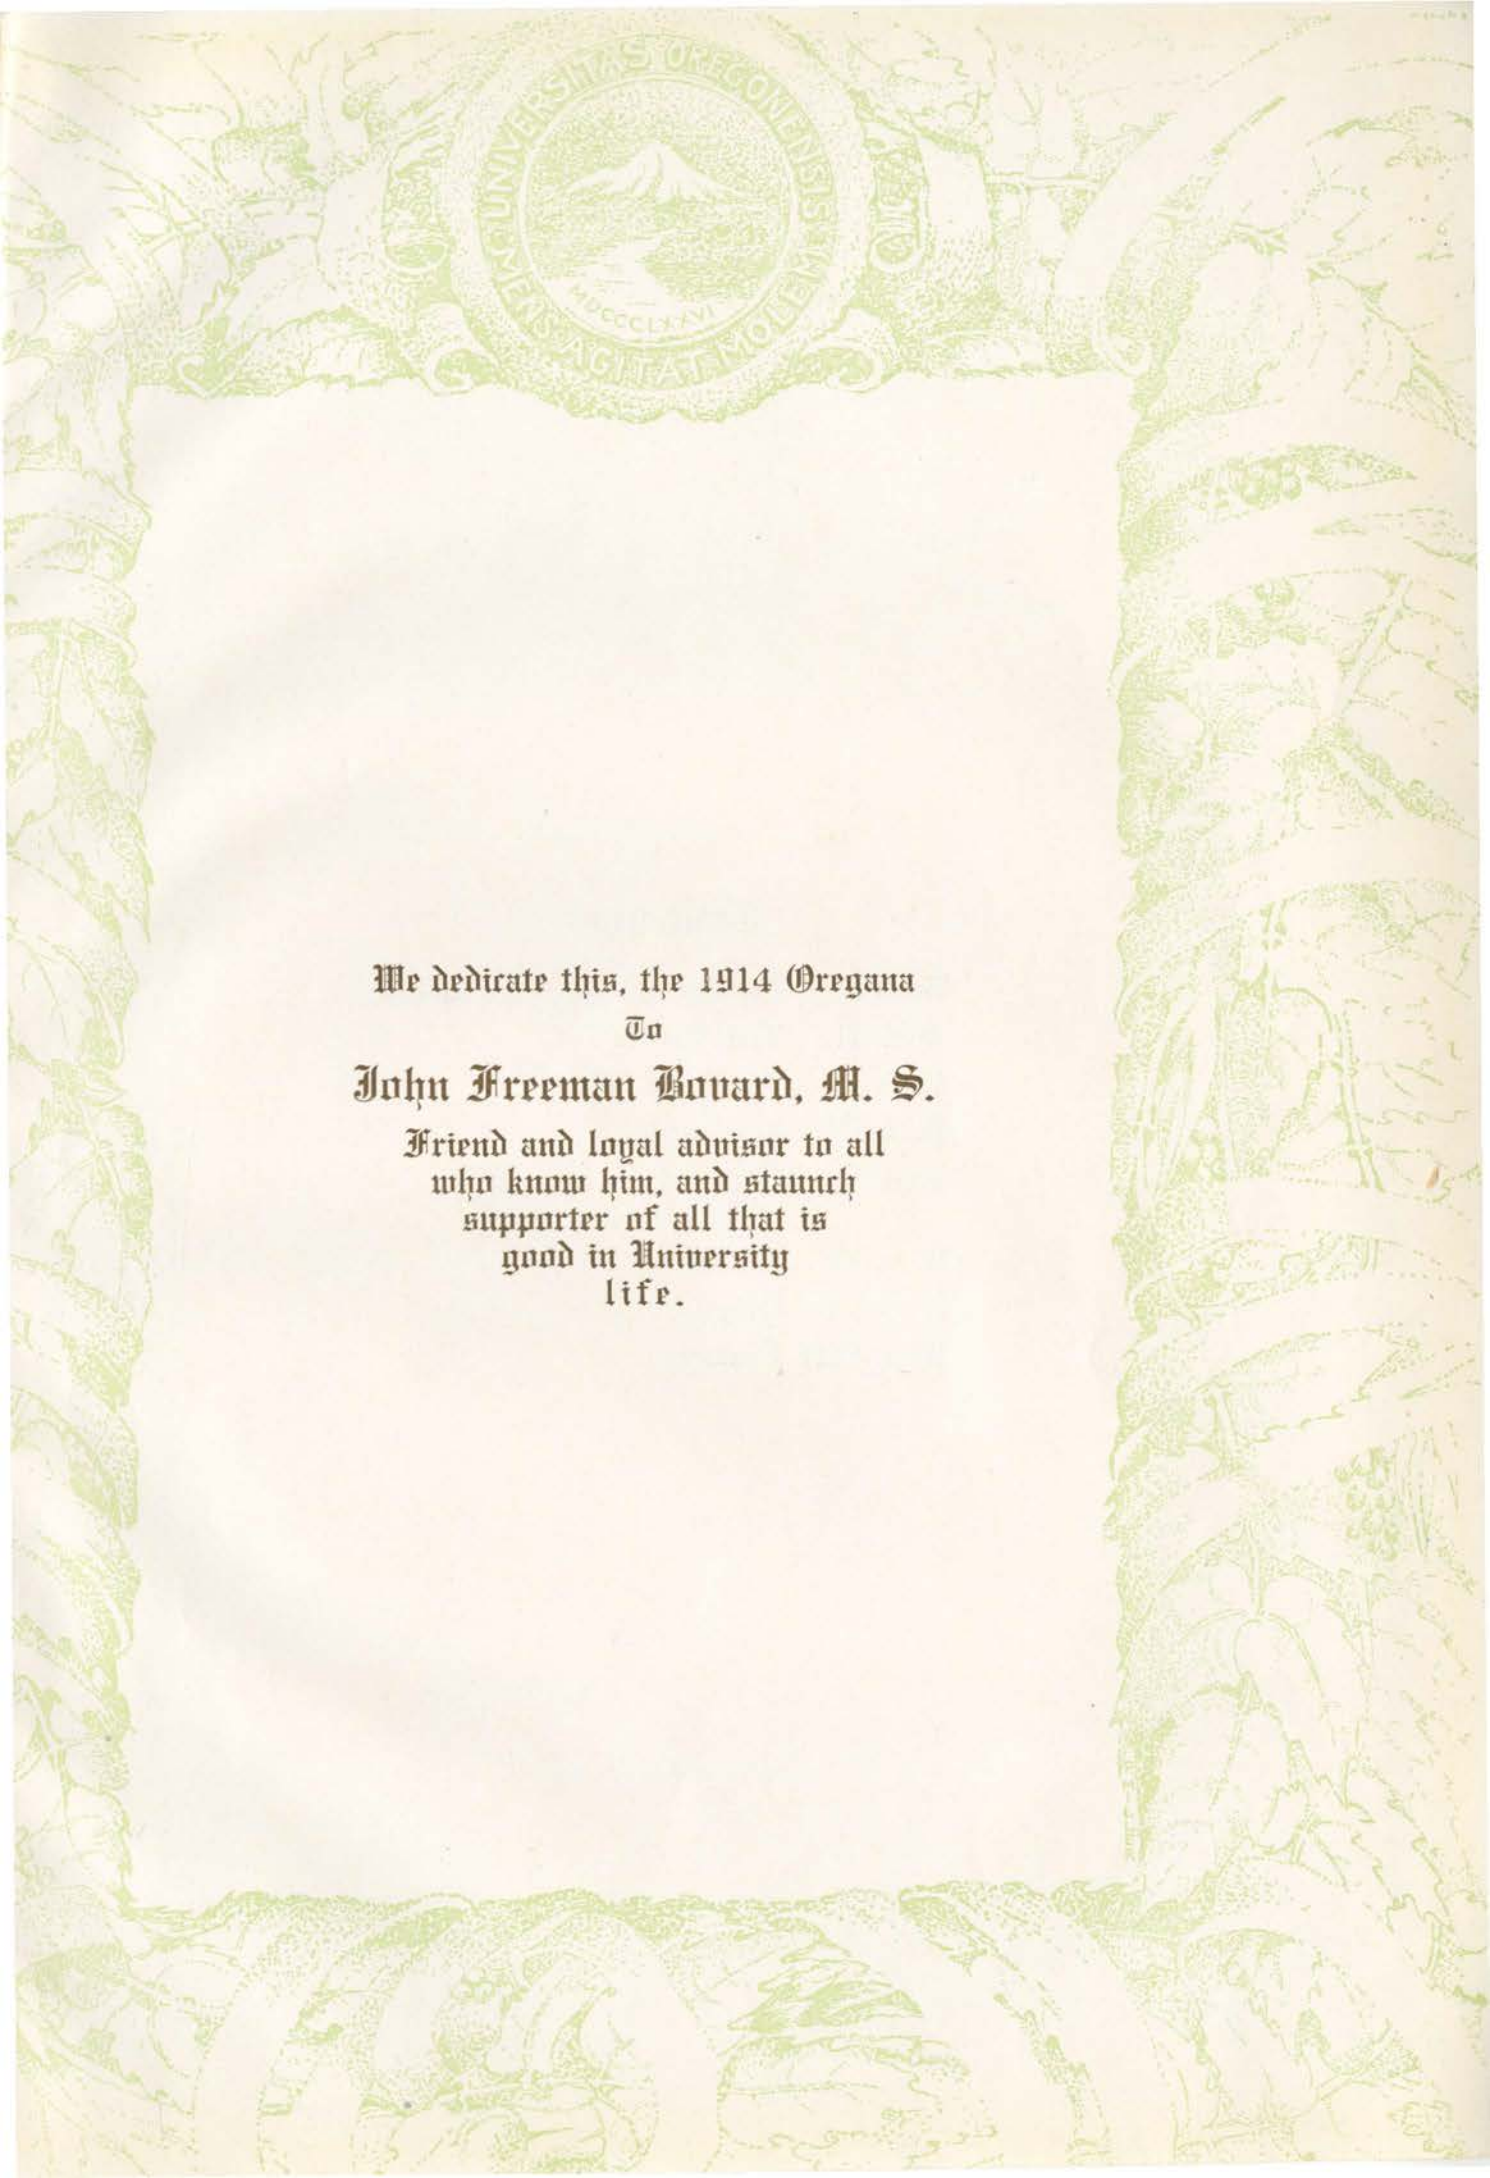

The Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen Oregana is before you. In it we have earnestly attempted to record the events of our college life.

We realize that we have not reached perfection, and if we have left too much for the memory, remember that we have tried to be considerate of future editors and managers.

If you find anything in these pages which will give you pleasure and at some future time remind you of "Old Oregon," we are satisfied.

The page features a decorative border of grapevines and leaves. At the top center is the seal of the University of Oregon, which includes a mountain, a river, and a tree, surrounded by the text "UNIVERSITAS OREGONENSIS" and "MDCCLXVI".

We dedicate this, the 1914 Oregana

To

John Freeman Howard, M. S.

Friend and loyal advisor to all who know him, and staunch supporter of all that is good in University life.

The Outlook for the University

THE passage of the Millage Bill by the last legislature, giving the University an assured income beginning with 1915, together with the special appropriations made for the years 1913 and 1914, places the University in a position to make sure and rapid advances during the next few years. New buildings can be added, additional equipment provided, and broader work undertaken by the University as a whole.

Rapid growth in numbers has never been a principal object at the University. It has always been felt that adequate preparation at entrance and excellence of work during the college course, are of vastly more importance than mere bigness in numbers. Yet it is true that the enrollment has steadily increased, more than doubling within the past five years, and it is now certain that all the resources of the University will be taxed to the utmost to take proper care of the students who are preparing to matriculate.

The appropriation of $175,000 for buildings at the University means a very material addition to the working plant. One new recitation building, to cost $100,000, will greatly relieve the congestion in the present buildings, and the additional unit to be added to the Electrical Engineering building, at a cost of $15,000, will provide adequate floor space for the installation of a considerable amount of new electrical equipment. A fire-proof addition to the Library building, costing $30,000, to be used as a stack room for books, will take care for some time of the $10,000 worth of new books to be added annually to the University Library. The Men's Dormitory will be repaired and enlarged, and Deady Hall, the first building erected on the campus, will be completely remodelled inside.

It is expected that the beginnings of a new campus will be made on the south side of Thirteenth street. The old athletic field will be abandoned, to make way for new buildings, and a new athletic field will be constructed on the thirty-five acre tract adjoining the campus at the southeast. This field will provide an abundance of room for football, baseball, track, tennis, and other forms of outdoor sport. It should ultimately become one of the best athletic fields in the West.

The Medical Department of the University, located in Portland, has also profited by the new appropriations. A fund of $45,000, in addition to fees, will be at the command of the Medical School during the next two years for maintenance and equipment. The school will occupy the unique position of being the only medical school in as vast an area as that embraced in the Pacific Northwest. Its rating is already "Class A" with the American Medical Association.

Not only does the University expect to add new buildings and equipment and to strengthen all its departments at Eugene and in Portland, but it also hopes through its Extension work to make its influence felt throughout the state to the very remotest sections. Practically every department of the University will offer courses by correspondence, in which thousands of students will be enrolled, as is now the case in Wisconsin. In addition, lectures will be kept in the field to meet groups of students in the large centers, and to stimulate community activity in all forms of civic betterment. Meetings of a week's duration will be held in towns willing to co-operate in the movement, and programs will be presented dealing with such topics as sanitation, park systems, water supply, city accounts, play grounds, and education. Ultimately, the University of Oregon should be able to emulate the example of the University of Wisconsin in "putting the whole state to school."

With a rapidly growing state, a fine basis of high schools, and adequate funds now provided for maintenance, a future of magnificent promise seems to be opened before the University.

Senior History

THE class of 1913 has occupied a unique position in the University in many ways. In the first place we have the distinction of being the last class that was ever hazed, and the first one that ever wore the official "Frosh" green caps, in addition to being the first class that had to repress its highbrow inclinations by having to forego dress suits at all formal dances.

This is almost enough for one class, but there is more. In the second place, during our first two years in college, we were followed by a hoo-doo, the unlucky "Thirteen." Because our hazing caused the hurried departure of a few Sophomores from college, our name became a hiss and by-word to all the Upperclassmen, we lost out in athletics, our bonfires would not burn, and our Freshman dance was conspicuous by the adhesive tendencies of the floor and its financial failure. In fact, the whole student body held us up as models of what a class should not be.

However, in the class of 1913, Shakespeare's quotation, "Sweet are the uses of adversity," etc., holds true. During our school year we battled manfully with the hoo-doo, until we emerged brilliantly victorious, with the "Thirteen," which was once our evil genius, now our patron saint. From that time until now our progress has been both steady and rapid. In all branches of athletics we have men who are without peer on the Coast, while both our men and our women have distinguished themselves in Oratory, Debate, Journalistic work, Glee Club, and Dramatics.

In our Sophomore year we won the interclass football and basketball championships. In our Junior year we had the credit of being the originators of the Underclass Mix, which has proven so successful and popular. We also put out by far the biggest and best Oregonian the college has ever had, and managed a completely successful Junior Week-End, which not only paid for itself, but left us money in the treasury.

This, our last year, however, has been the most brilliant in our career. We are all well represented in every college activity. We now have, under the guidance of two Seniors, a thrice-a-week, standard sized college newspaper, instead of a twice-a-week, undersized sheet. Also it was due to the work of the Seniors that the Constitution of the Student Body was transformed from a chaotic mass into a workable instrument.

These are but a few of the many things that the class of 1913 has done; modesty forbids us enumerating them all. We feel that we can be justly proud of our class, the more so because we are "self made." From modest, retiring Freshmen, we have made ourselves self-reliant men and women. It is an experience which we will value as one of the greatest benefits of our education, and when you hear of fame having been brought to any of our number in the future, put it down that our Patron Goddess, "13," is still behind us working overtime.

—EDWARD F. BAILEY.

Junior Summary

"SOMEONE had to be the first to swing off a day coach back in that memorable fall of 1910, and once off, to wend a tiresome, carpet-bag beladen and be-weighted way up Willamette and Eleventh to the Campus; someone had to be the first to mistake the High School for the University, Kincaid Field for the Registrar's Office, Eta Beta sorority for the Dormitory; someone had to be the original goat, the banter of the sophisticated, the laughing stock of the pioneer. Who that first martyr was is immaterial, we take it. We all had to wend that same joyous way; subject ourselves to the same sympathetic stares of the initiated; mutually feel the fading of Skomokoway High School into the dusk from which there is no return. In such manner did the Class of '14 knock on the University door; to gain admittance and humbly begin its existence in the midst of a new-found but ignoring brethren."

We were not long in waking from the sting of insignificance and straightforth bent our efforts for the glory of Oregon. Result: In that year, the Reign of Green, we came off with two Football men, one Basketball man, four Track men, and five Baseball men. But that is not all; our men were interested in the Glee Club and Debate, and won laurels there.

Enter the Sophomore. When Oregon called we answered and that year gave to Football four letter-men, to Basketball two, to Track two, and to Baseball seven, together with our contributions to Glee Club and Debate.

This, our Junior year, our men responded as before, and we have to our credit seven Football letters, four in Basketball, and we will be in the midst of the Track and Baseball frays.

Let us not forget the women of our class. Directly they have fought for Oregon in Debate and for their class in Basketball; indirectly they have always been present to stimulate us to better and greater action.

During our three years here on the banks of "The Old Mill-Race" we have made many friends; spent many pleasant hours in play; gained more or less knowledge; and have met with experience worth untold sums of money. We are glad we came.

Senior Law Class

THE happenings of but three short years are collected on this page; events which are familiar to us all. No history can be necessary to bring to the mind of any member of this class that evening in the old Multnomah County Court House, our class being the last class to assemble, as Freshmen, in that ancient and historic building, being the 18th day of September, 1910, when we all gathered for the first evening, prepared to solve the mighty problems and tangles of the jurisprudence of the United States and the State of Oregon.

There was nothing unusual to mark the advent of the '13 law class, and the history of the class is uneventful, and while it does not make an interesting narrative, it is evidence of a period of peace, harmony and industry. Little did any member of the class conceive, or realize, what a brilliant finish we would make, in the closing moments of the most successful class in the history of the school.

Our first experience as an organized class came soon after school convened. The Student Body had just been organized, and we as Freshmen were the first class to be initiated into the mysteries of the Student Body, and happy and pleasant are the recollections of every member of the class of the good fellowship shown by the members of the Senior and Junior classes on that occasion. Prior, however, to becoming members of the Student Body, the Freshman class was organized and the officers for the first year were elected.

The Junior year of the class opened with but few vacant seats, and a number of new faces. It has always been said, that the second, or Junior year, was the most difficult to master, and we all seemed to realize it, and while we did not always know the lesson, still we all had a general idea of what subject we were studying. In our second or Junior year, it was noted with a great deal of interest and satisfaction to the members of our class the rapid strides which the Law Department of the University of Oregon was making in establishing a higher standard of education.

The Senior year opened with but few changes in the membership, and each member of the class seemed more eager than the other to gain as much knowledge as possible so that he might be better fitted to start out in the practice of his chosen profession and make a success in life. The Senior year passed only too quickly for us all, and the time has now come when the tie, that binds us all as students must be broken and we must all take our place on the great stage of life, where every member will have his part.

The higher we go, however, the more pleasant it will be to gaze back on the three years ending in 1913, and many will be the cherished memories that cluster around them.

—FRED C. SUREN.

Senior Law Class

JAMES F. ALEXANDER

Φ A Δ

From Oklahoma. Student Body President 1912 and 1913. Answers Roll Call by "Heeyo." Has always taken an active part in the welfare of the Class.

J. BURKE

Believes that much learning shows how little mortals know. A profound student of jurisprudence.

CHARLES C. BECHTOLD

Φ A Δ

He believes that the Lawyer's Profession is good if practiced in the spirit of it; it is damnable fraud and iniquity when its true spirit is supplied by a spirit of mischief-making and money-getting.

EDWARD O. BUNDY, A. B.

Teaches by day and studies law by night.

CHARLES S. J. BANKS

From Congo, Africa. Favorite pastime is trying to act as Cross Examiner, the Judge being the embarrassed party.

ROBERT J. KLOSTERMAN

Yah; from der Faterland, but came over when young. Has a habit of studying hard just before examinations, and is the first one through in examinations.

JAMES C. COOPER

Believes that law is a sort of hocus-pocus science that smiles in your face while it picks your pocket.

CHESTER S. CAPLINGER

Φ Δ Σ

Sergeant-at-Arms Senior Class 1913. "Long-fellow." From the wind swept plains of the Inland Empire.

PAUL W. CAMPBELL

Believes there is a great deal of law learning that is dry, dark, cold and revolting.

THOMAS B. COLLINS

We do not know much of him, but he has made a good impression.

HARRY W. DAHLEEN

From the University of Minnesota. Believes that law is like a mouse trap; easy to enter, but hard to get out of.

SAMUEL J. DONALDSON

Concurs with Blackstone that law is the embodiment of the moral sentiment of the people.

JACOB FELDMAN

His definition of a lawyer: "A man who rescues your estate from your enemy and keeps it for himself."

JOHN C. FOX

He lives up to his name. When the Judge thinks he has him cornered, he makes his getaway.

AARON M. FRANK

Believes that no man can be a sound lawyer, who is not well read in the laws of Moses.

WALTER F. FRAZIER

A student of humanity and law, whose inquiring mind has impelled him to circle the globe and pursue his course.

THOMAS L. GARLAND

Likens the law unto two persons who kindle a fire at their own cost, to warm others but sings themselves to cinders.

MRS. THOMAS L. GARLAND

Senior member of the firm of Garland and Garland. Will be the first woman to be admitted to bar since Woman Suffrage went into effect in Oregon.

GEORGE C. GRAHAM

From Kilmarnock, Scotland. Class Poet and Class Representative 1913. A wee brae laddie, with a burr on his tongue. Class Poet 1913.

DONALD M. GRAHAM

Φ Α Δ

A great mind will never give an affront nor bear it.

MARTIN W. HAWKINS

Born in Champion, Michigan, always a Champion and continued his exploits in Sweden, before the whole world.

JOHN M. HICKSON

Φ Δ Φ

Hints that good laws make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong.

ALBERT J. KNIGHT

Believes in the Golden Rule and always keeps his hand on his OWN pocket book.

LELAND J. KNOX

A sedate young man, who wants to eliminate the prayer from the Senior Graduating Exercises.

GEORGE A. LATIMER

Φ Δ Φ

The man that made the "Bridge of the Gods" famous. Prefers acting to the law any day.

CHESTER A. MARTIN

Φ Δ Φ

Class Vice-President. Says that the plaintiff and defendant in an action at law, are like two men ducking their heads in a bucket, and daring each other to remain longest under water.

LYDIA A. MAY

Says that science of jurisprudence—the pride of the human intellect, with all its defects, redundancies, and errors, is the collected reason of the ages.

LEROY M. McDUFFY

Φ Δ Σ

A philosopher who says that laws are like cobwebs, which may catch small flies, but let wasps and hornets break through.

WALTER T. McQUIRK

Φ Δ Σ

Class Secretary. Says that his future wife will be the Court from which there is no appeal.

CLYDE M. MORRIS

Always quiet, but always awake.

EMIL NELSON

From Minnesota, but no relation to "Knut." He left the old country to come to Oregon.

RASMUS A. NIELSEN

From Denmark, has been a tailor, but form now on his favorite suit, will be a law suit.

LOUIS T. O'BRIEN

Treasurer Senior Class 1913. When he becomes Municipal Judge, will reserve the Rock Pile for the Orangemen. Strong for the "Home Rule."

W. FORBES PATTERSON

Patterson agrees with the great Scotch Philosopher, John Doe, that lawyers on opposites sides of the case are like two parts of shears, they cut what comes between them but not each other.

MERVIN RANKIN, A. B.

Believes that accuracy and diligence are much more desirable than Gold.

WALLACE REDMAN

The Junior Class

WITH the advent of the class of 1914, the Law School took on a new lease of life, stepping forth from the rut of twenty-seven years of comparative inactivity, and taking its place among the standard law schools of the country. For twenty-seven long years the school had been one in name only. I use that expression, inasmuch as the only tangible evidences of a school were the faculty, course of instruction, and text books. The recitation rooms consisted of court rooms in the old County Court House.

The rejuvenation was brought about in 1911. This was hastened, perhaps, by the destruction of the old Court House. The faculty, looking towards the future, secured permanent quarters. The numbers of the incoming class necessitated its division, and after consulting the wishes of the students the faculty arranged for an afternoon session, thereby taking the Law School out of the category of night schools.

During the present year, the class has been a big factor in school life. Early in the fall we did our duty by the "Frosh" by administering the customary lambasting at the Student Body initiation. During the fall the class gave two dances at Christensen's hall, which were very pleasurable affairs. Later in the year we expect to do the honors by the Seniors, with a banquet at a local grill.

It is being whispered around the school that the day is not far from hence when we shall move into our own school building, on our own campus. Whether we do so or not, we are all boosting and pulling for a bigger and better Law School, which will be second to none on the Coast, and a credit to the University of Oregon.

—SETH L. SMITH.

The seal of the University of Oregon is located at the top center of the page. It features a circular emblem with a mountain range in the background and a sun or moon in the foreground. The text around the emblem reads "UNIVERSITY OF OREGON" at the top and "MCCCLXXVI" at the bottom. The seal is flanked by decorative flourishes.

The Associated Students

UN Friday evening, October 18, 1912, the Associated Students' Body celebrated its third anniversary by initiating the Freshman class. Conveyances were provided for and the "Freshies" were conducted from the school to a hall rented for the purpose, where they were properly initiated into that bourne from which but few are expected to return. The attendance was large, the frivolities great, and after an hour or so of general jollification, we settled down to business and elected the officers for the ensuing year and adjourned with a promise that the coming year would be a fruitful, a happy and a prosperous one.

We have tried to make good, and while the Association has only been in existence three years, we have been instrumental in permanently establishing a moot court department, a basketball and baseball team have been organized, and we have the promise of a winning team for this season. By the way, this is the first time the Law Department has turned to athletics of any kind, and we are anxiously awaiting the result.

Through the efforts of the Student Body the law students have been given an opportunity to get better acquainted with each other, and this year more time has been given to monthly smokers, at which time prominent attorneys of the city are present and speeches are made on topics of general interest to the young lawyer. The meetings have been well attended, and many a good time experienced. At these meetings we have had an opportunity to discuss matters of general interest to the students as a whole, and when we were of the opinion that some particular thing would be beneficial to the University, we brought our influence to bear on the faculty and usually our demands were granted, and let it be said we were always given respectful consideration.

JOHN G. SCHROEDER, JR.

Debate and Oratory at Oregon

In debate Oregon lost her stride for a season, but regained it again this year. To date she has three clear cut victories, over Stanford and Washington, in the Coast triangular, and over Utah, in dual debate. The season will close with the Oregon-Washington co-ed debate, scheduled for May 16. The Oregon team is working hard to preserve the perfect record.

Oregon debaters long ago set a high mark for the present and future generations to measure up to. Previous to 1907, Oregon had, on an average, broken even with all opponents; but in that year Veatch and Gallóway, by defeating Washington, Idaho, and Utah, brought home the championship of eight states. In 1908-09, Oregon was unsuccessful, but came back in 1910 and 1911, winning all debates. In 1912 she again lost, but in the present year returned the honors which had been temporarily dropped.

Likewise, Oregon has maintained an enviable record in inter-collegiate oratory. Since 1906, she has scored three firsts and five seconds in the state league.

Two new oratorical contracts were entered into this year to take the place of the old inter-state contests between Oregon, Washington, and Montana: the first a conference league, composed at present of Whitman College, Washington State College, Oregon Agricultural College, and the University of Oregon; the second, a dual oratorical and extempore speaking contest between Oregon and Washington, which has not yet been held. Oregon expects to give a good account of herself in these contests.

What promises to become the classic intra-collegiate debate on the Oregon campus is the annual Freshman-Sophomore debate. It is expected that these class debates will develop Varsity material for inter-collegiate contests and lend a stimulus to forensics.

Honors in debate are primarily the result of application and hard work. Any average person can be successful in debate if he will combine with his intelligence a reasonable amount of study and thought. Oregon has enough hard workers to bring victory again next year. Nothing less will suffice, for beyond the individual benefits which the debaters themselves derive, there lies the effect which forensic victories have in overcoming the opposition of hostile taxpayers.

BERT W. PRESCOTT,
Debating Coach.

Glee Club Tour

The day after Christmas dawned bright and clear and with it, according to the orders of Manager Geary, the anxious songsters of the University of Oregon Glee Club gathered in Portland preparatory to the first concert in Astoria.

The train pulled into Astoria to the tune of Oskey Wow Wow. In the afternoon the young ladies of the "Nebes Club" entertained the boys with a reception and dance in the Weinhart Astoria Hotel Parlors.

Although the tenors said that the piano was high, and the basses were sure that it was at least one note low, the concert went off alright. Apperson said that half past ten was too early to go to bed and that he would like to have the program made longer. Dobie decided that the only difference between a mocking bird and a crow was that one could sing tenor and the other could not.

The next place to worship at the shrine of public opinion was Portland. The Club serenaded the inmates of the county jail. The expression on the faces of the men showed that they did not appreciate the joke. Many Alumni and supporters of the University listened to the concert which was given in the new Lincoln High School Auditorium. The management saved $15.83 because some of the men lived in Portland and consequently stayed at home while there.

As the private car stopped at Hood River, Chet Huggins donated a box of apples, which was the backbone of the eats until Heppner, the next stop, was reached. Here Koehn and Crawford induced their friends and neighbors to give the Club a good enthusiastic crowd. After the concert the High School gave a reception. Here it seemd that Grady and Rolfe both liked the looks of the same girl. Rolfe got up in time for breakfast.

Pendleton received the Club with open arms and gave Jerard a medal for singing a Round-up song. Several other members expect to move to Pendleton. No train until 4:45.

La Grande smiled serenely upon the boys New Year's morning, and through the efforts of Gene Good and other loyal supports of Oregon, the attendance surpassed that given to any previous club.

Fortmiller Jerard Grady Stanard

Through a kind invitation extended by Mr. Curry to the Club, part of the boys enjoyed a visit and a much needed bath at the Hot Lake Sanitarium, while the remainder of the boys went on to Baker to visit friends or to enjoy the pleasure of a real skate on ice. Manager Geary was asked for at least seven bottles of liniment. Train lebt at 12:30.

Bradshaw's smiling face welcomed the meadow larks at The Dalles. The High School consented to listen to a short demonstration of the wares to be sold at the theatre that evening . Jerard meant an old lady friend. Professor Bowman was very sore because Stanard and Jerard overslept, missed their street car and consequently the concert was fifteen minutes late.

Hood River next came to the eyes of the warblers. The friendly, warm-hearted greeting of the University's many loyal supporters and Grad's stimulated the boys to their best efforts. Miss Florence Avery, accompanied by Miss Eva Brock, gave the first solo to be given by a lady in connection with the Men's Glee Club. Home and a new semester.

After two weeks rest the Club was in good shape to sing at Corvallis. The best of treatment and support possible was given by the students of our Agricultural College. This made a glorius finish for one of the most successful and pleasant Glee Club trips in the history of the University.

—Bob Fariss.

Woman's Athletic Association

The first athletic organization ever to be perfected in the University in the interests of women's athletics is the Women's Athletic Association, which was organized during the past year. The purpose of this association is to encourage athletics among the women of the University and to develop a physically more efficient Oregon woman.

At present the organization contains approximately seventy members, including the membership of the Canoe Club and Tennis Club. The latter club will continue under its old rules and regulations respecting try-outs and the silver cup, which is yearly awarded, being a part of the larger organization in name only. In time it is intended to include all sports for women within the association, but this year it will be extended only to tennis, canoeing, golf, baseball, archery and walking.

THE TEAM AT PULLMAN

THE VARSITY

Review of 1912 Football Season

The 1912 football season was characterized by remarkably inconsistent playing by the different teams of the Northwest. At times even Dobie's champions faltered and lost their stride which caused the wise ones to continually expect the "Peerless One" to meet his Waterloo, and while their expectations came perilously near being realized, yet the Washington team again managed to finish in first place, leaving the rest of the teams in a tangle of percentage of games won and lost that defies solution.

CAPTAIN WALKER

Oregon was the most consistently inconsistent team of them all. The team, composed as it was of a good squad of men, flashed forth at times with a style of play that, if maintained, would easily have won the championship, but always a slump occurred, characterized by indifferent play, which resulted in disastrous defeats at the hands of weaker teams. However, this can partly be explained.

The Oregon coaches this year faced three serious difficulties. The necessity of finding a quarterback, the unfortunate injuries which continually occurred at inopportune moments, and the difficulty which the players seemed to have in meeting the faculty requirements in their studies. Time after time, just as the team was beginning to work smoothly, changes became necessary, until close observers and loyal supporters from out of town who were unacquainted with local conditions, protested that too many changes were being made. In order to attain its greatest efficiency, a football team must be composed of men who have become so accustomed to each other through continual practice together, that they have a complete knowledge of each other's style of play. This knowledge results in confidence and unity of action. Because of the conditions before-mentioned, this was impossible during the past season. The disastrous Whitman game, when it was necessary to play with a back-field who had scarcely ever practiced together, is a good example of this.

The larger part of the criticism or praise of a football team is usually directed at its coach and trainer and as their reputations are at stake, they are naturally desirous of putting out a winning team. Consequently they are impatient when anything threatens their success. Too much praise cannot be given our coaches and trainer for the splendid manner with which they met and overcame all obstacles. Few men would have faced difficulties as trying and at the same time seemingly unnecessary with the same cheerful, resourceful, spirit as did "Pink" and "Bill" this year. Only Capt.-Elect Bradshaw those that were intimately connected with their work knew of the time spent in re-arranging the men and plays to meet new conditions, or in the hospital, trying to get an injured man into condition for work as soon as possible without risk of a permanent injury. But anyone who was so favored as to witness this cannot help from being grateful for the good influence of such a splendid example.

Main Pinkham Moores

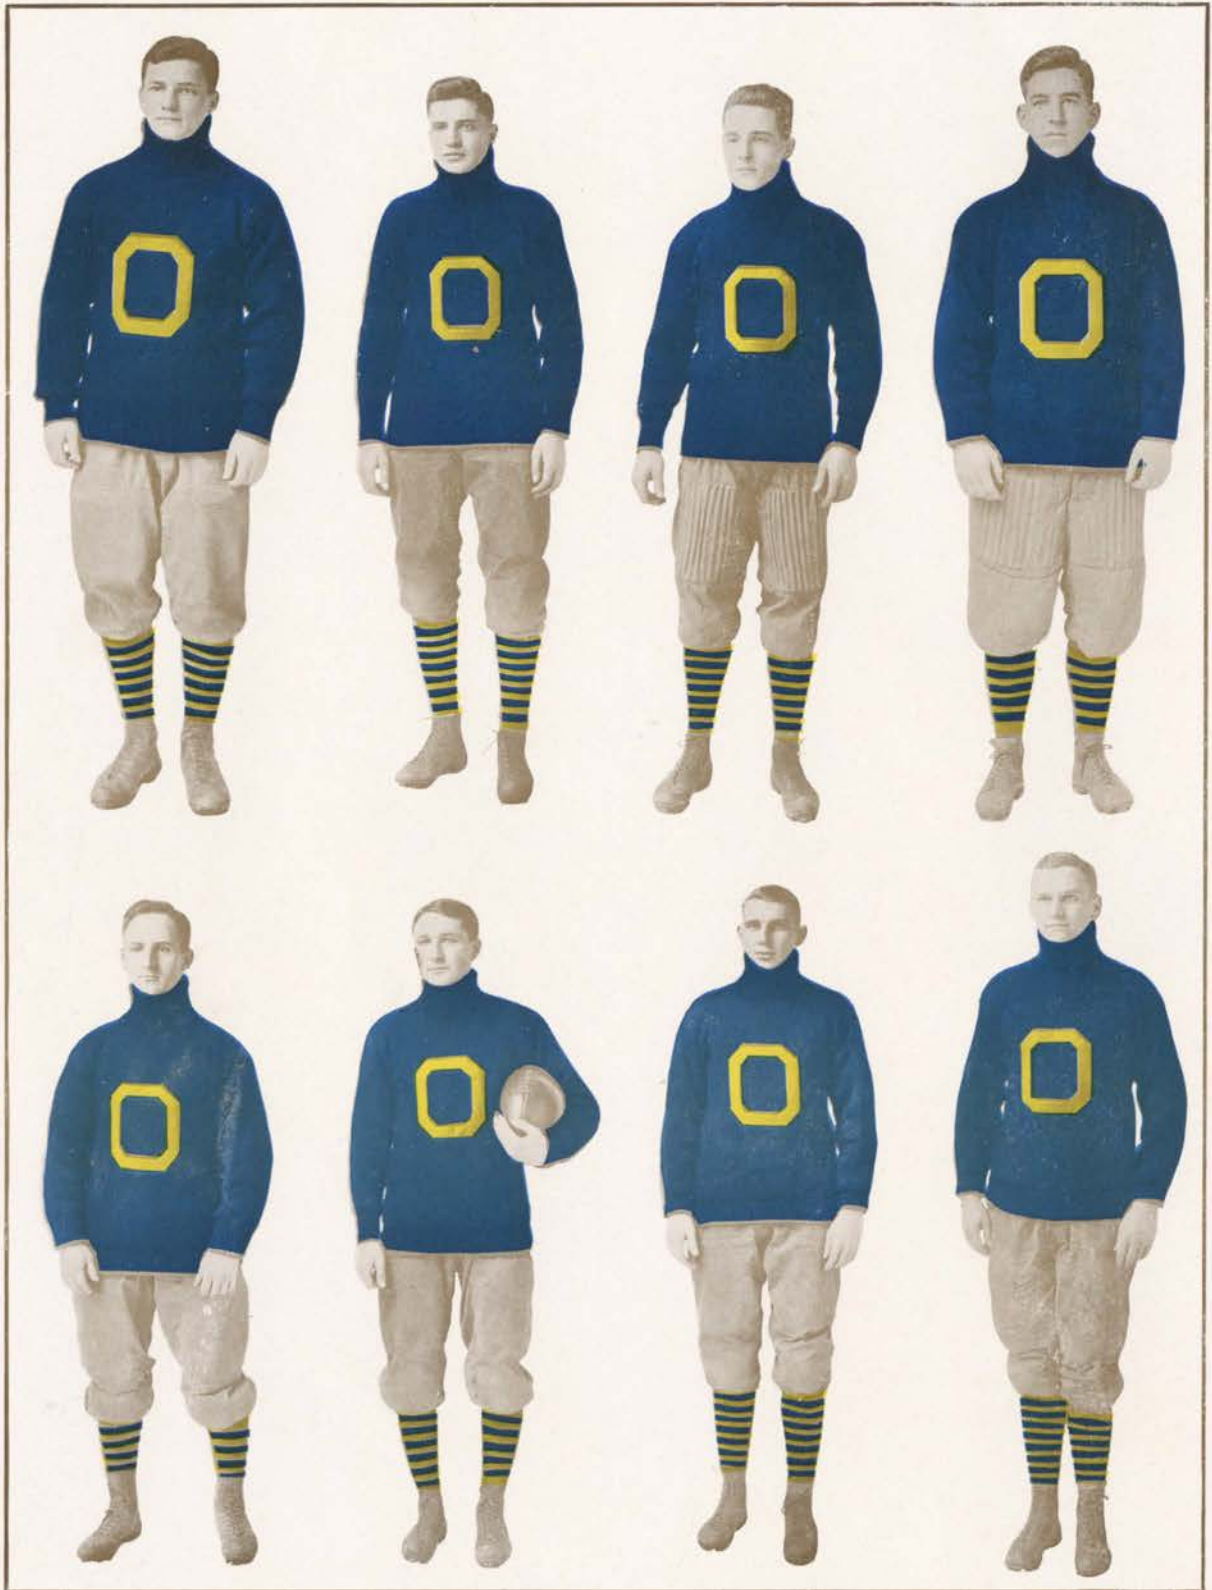

The climax of the Oregon season came with the O. A. C. game at Albany. It was a wonderful demonstration of pure Oregon spirit and sportsmanship—a spirit and sportsmanship which aroused admiration from everyone and caused every Oregon supporter to feel proud to be connected with such an institution. Our team had been badly defeated just one week before, many of the best men were injured, and by comparative scores it seemed inevitable that we should be defeated, yet when the generous offer of Albany people made the game possible, every Oregon man rose as one and said, "Let's play them, anyway." At once a new spirit filled every man and after a week of hard practice our team went onto the field at Albany as near a perfect machine as could be asked. Imbued with a true fighting spirit by the loyal support of alumnae and students alike, they played a game which is above criticism. It was a team composed of Oregon men, coached by Oregon men, and supported in a wonderful fashion by Oregon people. A fine tribute was paid us in the subsequent newspaper accounts of the game when they said, "Oregon spirit wins again." And the best of it all is that it was the truth.

Now that the season is over, our thoughts naturally turn to our chances for success next year. Conditions here make it impossible to retain the graduate coaching system that was employed last year with such promising success. Instead we are to have Mr. Bezdeck, a man whose coaching ability is well-known all over the country. With all but four of this year's team back in the harness next year, Mr. Bezdeck will have a splendid squad from which to select a team. Supported by the same indomitable spirit which has always predominated at Oregon, it seems a certainty that we will be able to add more victories to our athletic history after the next season is over.

—Dean Walker. BILL HAYWARD

The O. A. C. Game

Oregon 3, O. A. C. 0, at Albany, November 23, 1912; the lemon yellow's tenth victory over the Aggies—another triumph for the "Oregon Spirit." That's the story.

On a certain chair arm in a recitation room on the campus, there is scratched in the wood the score and the date of that game. So in the minds of the students that struggle is carved in fond remembrance—the University's greatest gridiron victory.

Perhaps Oregon "came back" and perhaps she didn't, that crisp November day. No one bothered about that. The single thought of the five hundred students who poured from the excursion train twenty minutes before the struggle began, was to win, and win all the way. To ascribe the victory to "Oregon Spirit," hand part of the praise to the man in the bleachers. He was a factor that day.

The game—that is history. The moment Referee George Varnell blew his whistle after the first down, it was a mere matter of time. Eleven men who had been waiting for this thud two months were not to be denied their victory. Outplayed, in practically every department of the game, the team from the Oregon Agricultural College put up a stubborn defense, worthy of the mettle of Pinkham's men. The elevens see-sawed back and forth the entire hour, with the edge always with the lemon yellow.

Just before the sun began to set in the west, Carl Fenton, Oregon guard, darkened the hopes of the Corvallis contingent, and illumined the University of Oregon's record for 1912, by booting a place kick over the Aggie's goal late in the second half.

Oregon played safe then, as the game was won. A mighty shout arose—and a scramble for the gates commenced—when O. A. C. was beaten that November afternoon.

THE BLEACHERS

Baseball Review for 1912

The Varsity nine finished the 1912 season with a clean string of victories and the Northwest Intercollegiate Championship tucked snugly away in their bat sack.

The team, under the tutelage of Captain Jamison, got to going good in the early part of the season, and, journeying to Salem, batted out their first victory from Willamette by a score of 7 to 6. Although practice for a time was seriously hampered by rainy weather, the team managed to win two easy victories from the Oregon Aggies, the first game resulting 3 to 0, the second, 5 to 2.

W. S. C., who had defeated the University of Washington, was the next team to cross bats with the Varsity. Two games were played during Junior Week-End, and two more scalps were added to the growing string of victories.

O. A. C. played two return games on the campus and were defeated by the scores of 5 to 4, and 5 to 2.

The last game of the season was played with the Multnomah Athletic Club in Portland, the clubmen falling an easy prey to the Varsity Champs.

The men taken on the trips were, catchers, Cobb and V. Motschenbacher; pitchers, Welch and Peet; first base, Jamison; second base, Newland and Bigbee; third base, Anunsen; short stop, Roberts; left field, Chandler; right field, Fenton and Barber; center field, Mount.

Capt. Chandler

Next season, with only four or five old men back, we will have to depend almost wholly on Freshmen in College to fill the vacancies left by such men as Jamison, Peet, Cady Roberts, and Ty Cobb. Of the new men in sight the most promising for Varsity material seem to be Lyle Bigbee and Bill Tuerck, the later of Lincoln High, for pitchers; Ans Cornell, the Midget Varsity Quarterback, who is touted by the Washington High School contingent to develop into one of the fastest infielders in College. Herb. Thacher and Kenneth Reed are catchers of no mean ability, while "Josh" Billings, of Olympia, is expected to give Carl Fenton a tussel for the initial sack. Taking it all in all, the prospects for a good team this season are very bright.

Track Review for 1912

Oregon fared well in track last year,—the Pacific Coast meet at California, May 4th, gave us the second place over Stanford, the Northwest Conference was won, and two men were selected to represent America at the Olympic meet in Stockholm.

Oregon captured the dual meet with O. A. C. at Eugene, May 25th, by a score of 97 to 42. The A. W. record for the 880 was broken by McClure to the tune of 1.59 1-5. Following up this lead, Bill Hayward's proteges then went north to Seattle, and on May 25th, took a lopsided score from the U. of W.—86 to 54. In this meet Neil set a new Northwest record for the javelin with a throw of 164.9 feet. June 5th, was a red letter day for the University of

McCLURE

Oregon. Over the wire flashed the news that McClure and Hawkins had been selected as members of the American track team to compete in the Olympic games at Stockholm. Along with this came the word that Oregon had won the Northwest track championship by a score of 57 points,—a lead of 34 points over the U. of W., our nearest competitor.

The season this year opens with many of the old men gone,—only a few of the "stand bys" are back in college. They will be Huggins, McClure, Boylen, Neil, Bailey, Kay, Miller, Bridwell. A goodly number of new men have appeared to gladden the heart of Bill Hayward,—Windnagle, Barber, Allen, Foster, Holt, Blackaby, Pack, Kiser and Cook.

There have been four meets scheduled for the oncoming season,—an indoor meet at Portland with Columbia University, U. of W. meet at Eugene, the O. A. C. meet at Corvallis, and to end the season the Conference meet at Walla Walla.

Oregon seems to be weak in the sprints and the hurdles. However, several strong men are on deck and Bill hopes to strengthen the team in these departments before the season is over.

—Walter McClure.

Review of Basketball

Forwards—Dean Walker, Tom Boylen, Don Rice, Irwin Brooks.
Center—Carl Fenton (Captain-elect).
Guards—Robert Bradshaw, Clifford Sims (Captain).
Utility—Ernest Vosper.
Coach—William Hayward.

The Basketball season of 1912-1913 introduced a new Northwest Championship team. The race was expected to be between U. of W., O. A. C., and U. of O., but from the start W. S. C. played ball and until they had the championship assured, they lived up to the term of "Champions."

Oregon started the season with four veterans, ex-Captain Jamison being the only man of last year's five who was lost to the college by graduation. With a week's practice, Oregon defeated Idaho in two early season games, 31-6 and 25-15. In these games Oregon had three new men, Brooks, Boylen, and Rice, who without a doubt were the lightest men in the conference. In turn Oregon defeated M. A. A. C., 27-11, and the Corvallis Military five two games, 24-13 and 33-21.

Oregon's invasion of Washington and the Inland Empire was very unsuccessful, due to injuries and the requirements of a very heavy schedule. The results were as follows:

Oregon, 10; U. of W., 25.
Oregon, 10; U. of W., 25.
Oregon, 19; U. of Idaho, 15.
Oregon, 17; W. S. C., 26.
Oregon, 11; U. of Idaho, 16.
Oregon, 12; W. S. C., 25.

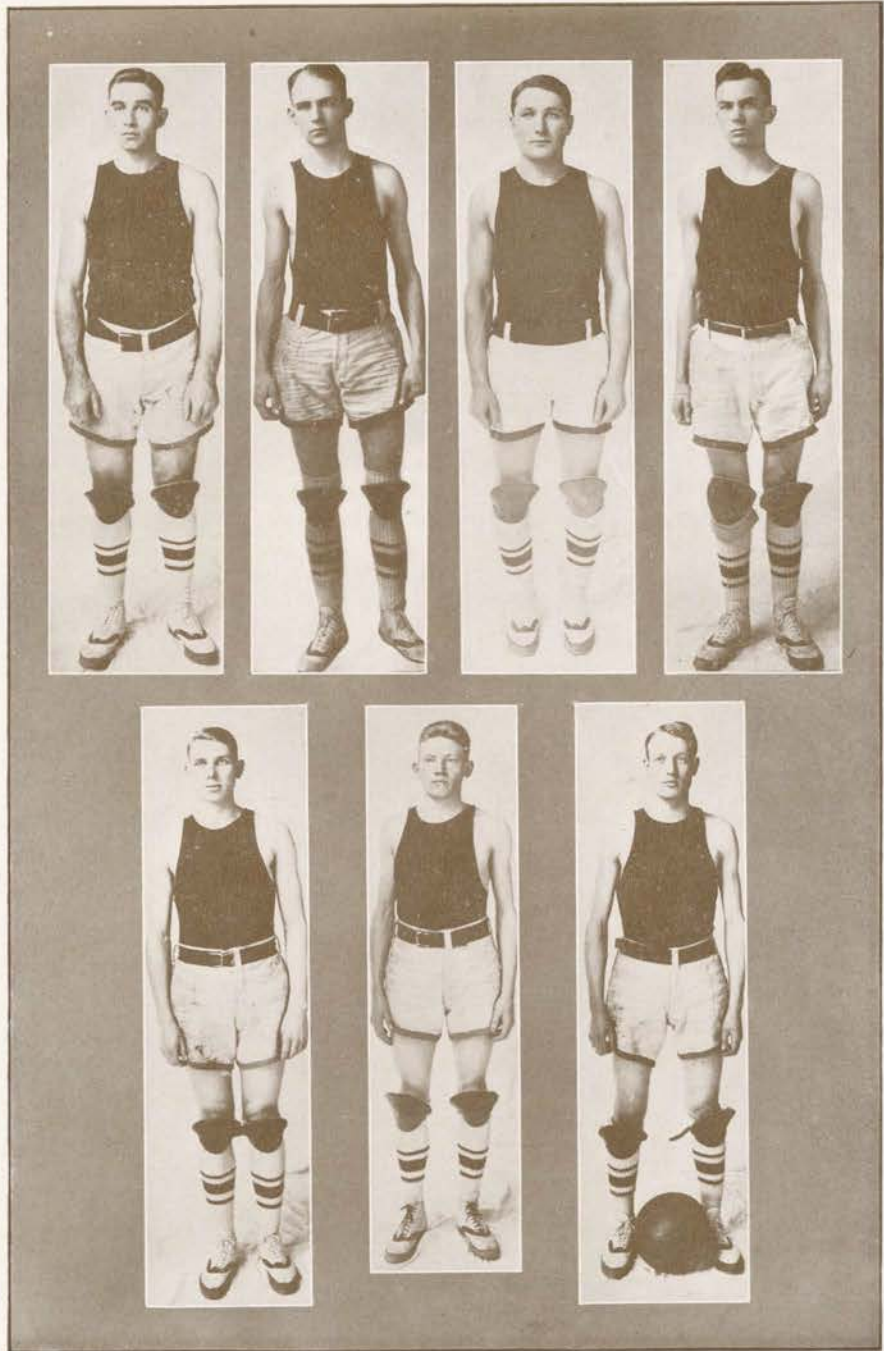

Then came the invasion of the Oregon Campus with the following results:

Oregon, 16; U. of W., 23.
Oregon, 15; U. of W., 28.
Oregon, 19; W. S. C., 17.
Oregon, 20; W. S. C., 24.
Oregon, 9; O. A. C., 20.
Oregon, 14; O. A. C., 12.

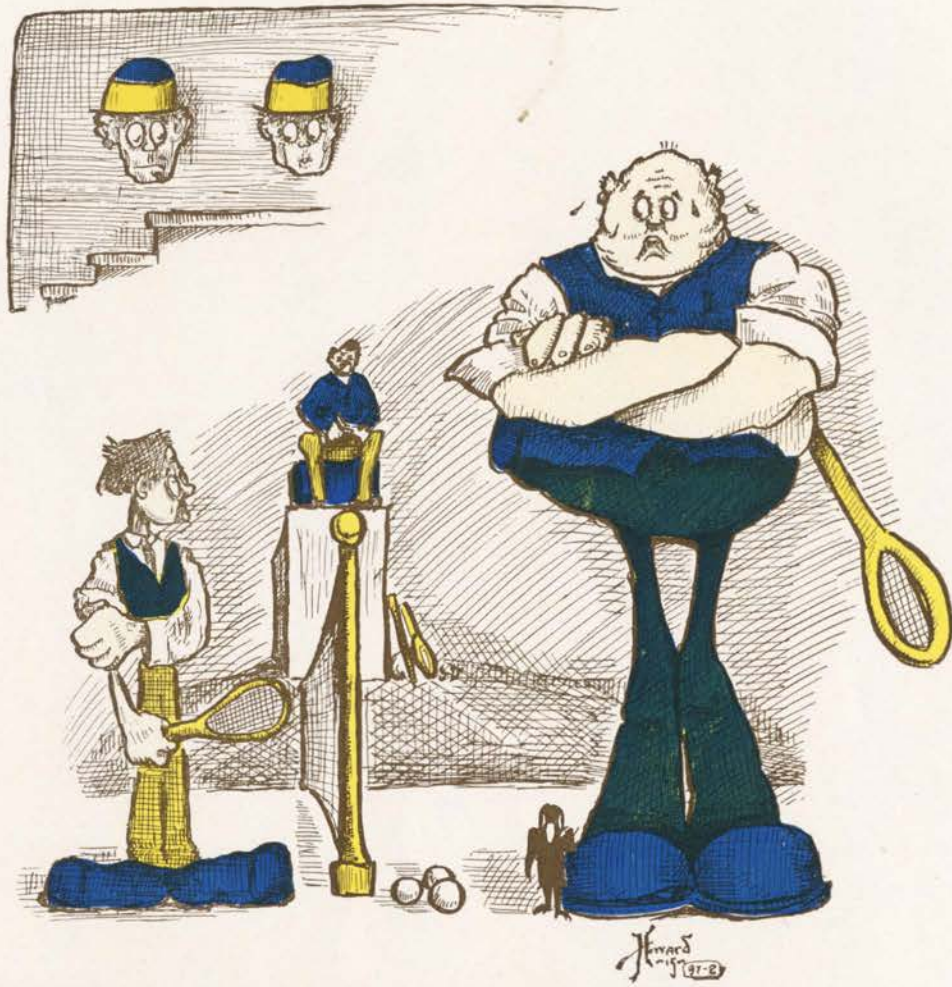

On the trip to Corvallis the team was accompanied by a band of Oregon rooters, organized under the leadership of Yell Leader Abe Blackman. Oregon won the first game, 21-13, with due regard to the rooters and the stellar playing of Bradshaw. O. A. C. won the second game, 13-8, thus leaving the state championship question unsettled.

Fenton was named in some of the selections for the All-Northwest team. With the exception of Dean Walker and Captain Sims, who both graduate in the spring, Captain-Elect Fenton will have practically the same team for 1913-1914. Interest is growing in favor of this popular indoor game and with the wealth of material that is being gradually developed, Trainer Hayward should have no trouble in selecting a winning team for 1913-1914.

The tennis season of 1912 was, on the whole, quite successful. Although unable to win the Northwest championship and repeat the performance of the 1911 champions, yet the work of the Varsity team was of such a high order that the University may well be proud of its conduct.

Early in the season Oregon met and defeated the Multnomah Athletic Association, the Varsity annexing all of the matches played.

The Oregon team, composed of Captain Harry Stine, of Monmouth, Vincent Yaden, of Klamath Falls, and Irwin Brooks, of Portland, journeyed to Seattle and were defeated by the University of Washington on May 24 and 25, the Washington men capturing three of the five matches.

On the opening day of the tournament Captain Stine of Oregon was pitted against Captain Hart of Washington. Their playing was very even during the early stages of the game, but in the latter part Captain Stine had things all his own way and defeated the Washington captain 6-4, 6-3.

In the match which followed, Yaden of Oregon faced Adams of Washington. In this contest Adams was the aggressor and defeated the Oregon man 6-2, 6-2.

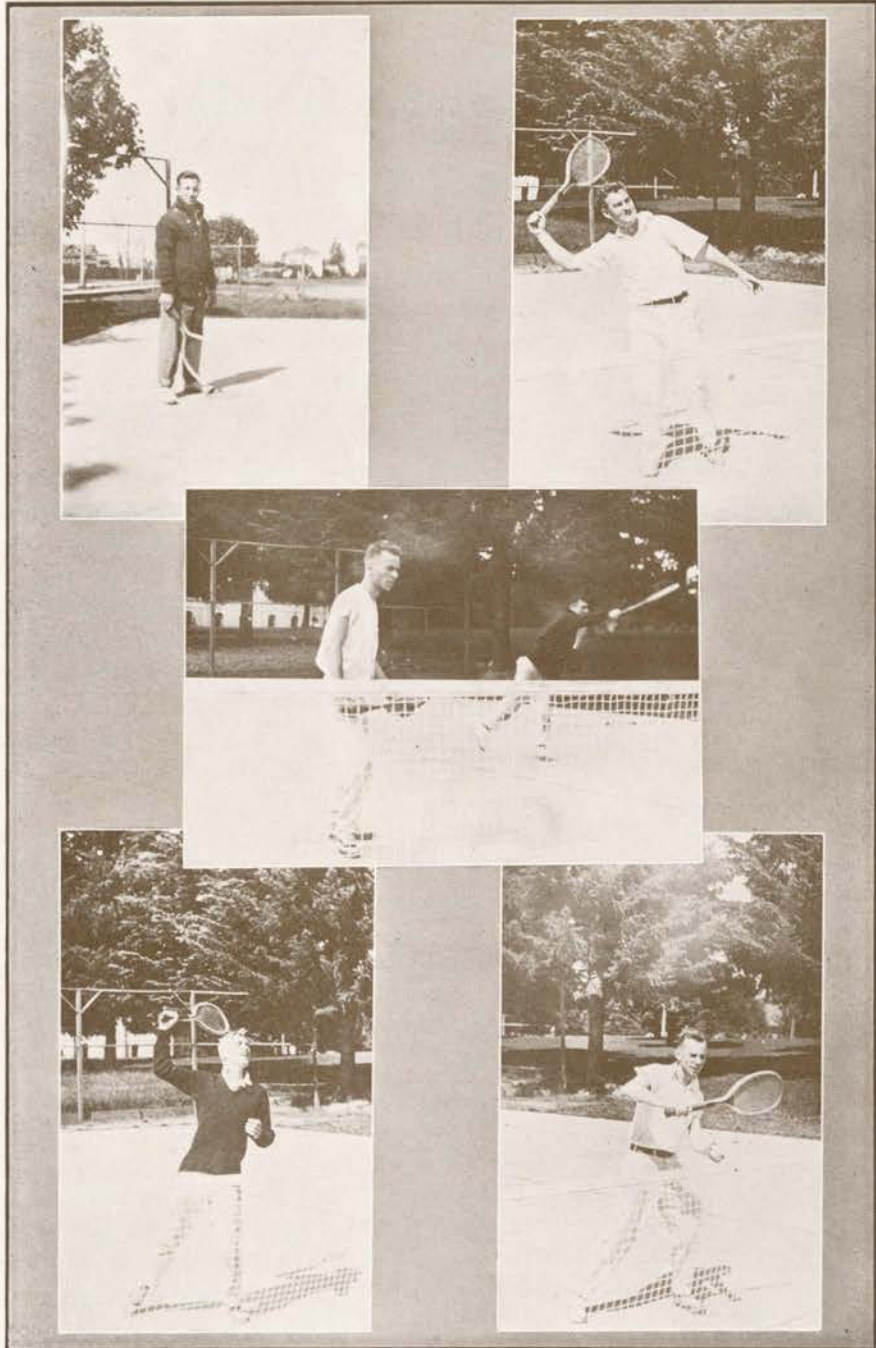

The real contest of the tournament, however, occurred between Brooks of Oregon and Shannon of Washington in the last match of the singles. The Washington racquet wielder succeeded in winning to the tune of 7-5, 6-4. The fact the the last game of the second set went to a "deuce" nin time before being won by the Washington man shows the closeness of the match.

Play opened on the following day with Captain Stine and Brooks facing Captain Hart and Shannon in the doubles. It took five sets to decide the morning match, Oregon winning three of the five sets. The scores for the morning's play were 6-2, 6-4, 6-8, 1-6, 6-3.

The championship now depended upon the result of the afternoon match, since the two teams were tied, each having won two matches. In this contest Washington, through brilliant work and finished team work, defeated the Oregon men and won the championship of the Northwest, the final score for the torunament being Washington 3, Oregon 2.

Commencement

At the close of the college year, when the last examination is over, and after the last worry is lifted from the shoulders of the under-graduate, comes the happiest and most inspiring season of all college days, Commencement.

MAY POLE DANCE

A fitting termination of college days for the Senior, it is a proper and even more enjoyable ending of the college year for the Underclassman. Commencing at a season when the natural beauty of the campus is at its height, when all objective features of university life are at the summit of their pleasure-inspiring qualities, the formal and festive events of that final week present to the student a scene which time can never erase.

Each day has its special attraction, every evening is marked with an impressive closing. Baccalaureate Sunday follows immediately after final examination week. Sunday morning presents Villard Hall packed to its limits. At the opening chords of an immense orchestra, a long file of Seniors, headed by the members of the faculty, begin their march through the lower halls, slowly up to the reserve sections in Villard Hall, which have been transformed into a veritable maze of evergreens and flowers. For the first time the student realizes that he is about to take his last look at the group of young men and women whom he has learned to respect and love. Throughout the program which follows, he begins to realize what it means to himself, to the Seniors, and to the University, to have the body of young graduates enter upon the life for which they have been trained.

The first festive event of Commencement week is the Picnic Breakfast on the campus, at eight o'clock Monday morning. Each class has a separate portion of the campus, and here Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors, group together in a delightfully informal lunch. Immediately following this are two interesting matches between the Alumni and tennis and baseball teams. Good feeling and friendly rivalry are ever-present. After luncheon the Alumni Association hold their annual business meeting. At 2:30 the annual Campus Play attracts a large crowd. Under the trees west and south of the plot of campus adjacent to the pond furnishing a roomy and natural place for the entertainment. The evening is given over to the Faculty Musical Concert, which is the musical treat of the year.

Tuesday morning is occupied with the meetings of the Board of Regents and Alumni Association, and the afternoon with a reception to the entire student body and visiting alumni by the President at his residence. At seven o'clock the University Glee Club gives an open air concert on the

Wednesday morning the commencement address is given in Villard Hall, and the Seniors step out at its close newly-made Alumni and former Oregon students. At one o'clock a big dinner is given in the Men's Gymnasium, to which all Alumni are invited. On this occasion everyone joins in having a good time and exchanging reminiscences of by-gone days. The climax of Commencement Week, in which all participate, is the Alumni Ball in the evening. Here the last good time of the year is enjoyed and the last farewells are said.

BREAD LINE, JUNIOR WEEK-END

Junior Week-End

Mix a lot of preppers, some brand new summer gowns, a few of Bill's high steppers, and some would be acting clowns. A half a day of labor, some eats served up in style, a little stroll with her, then around the Gym in file.

That's Junior Week-End. And the fading strains of that old song, dear to the heart of every alumnus, "Oh Those Days at Oregon, They Are the Best of All," never seem to contain so much real, genuine meaning as when the last dying note of the Prom, officially closes another Junior Week-End.

Anyway, as it would seem after the most successful of all of the annual spring carnivals, that given last year by the class of 1913. Fortune seemed to be walking hand in hand with the management of the activities of those four days, even from the first ball pitched in the opening baseball game, to the final glide at the Promenade—everything combined to put every atom of rightful meaning into the phase, it was a success. Even the Weather Man, that Big Bogie of nearly all of the preceding Week-Ends, had probably been pledged before the "rush" was over, on account of his nice manners.

Baseball—yes the Varsity took two games from Washington State College. Tennis? Certainly. All of the matches with the Multnomah Athletic Club were added to the collection of victories scored. But least some of the misguided young men from the High Schools of the state get the idea that there was no man by the name of Bill Hayward, the Oregon track team easily defeated the O. A. C. collection of sprinters, jumpers and et cetera.

But in the meantime University Day, with all its attending vicissitudes,—and exhibition of true Oregon Spirit. There was a lot of cement walk to be laid, so Walls and his crew of worthies did that. The shop roof and Kincaid fence were not quite tidy enough to satisfy Pan-Hellenic house rules, so Michael did that. Ed Hines took pity on the Mary Spiller girls, so he fixed up their walk, while Chet Moores got a good start toward digging another Panama Canal sometime, by seeing that the Mill Race was properly purified for the Canoe Carnival that afternoon.

And that Canoe Carnival. The failure of years sort of gave this attempt a good running start, with the result that under the auspices of the Canoe Club, the first real aquatic meet was held in the Race opposite the campus. From the standpoint of interest or competition it was a success.

But just before the splashing, the women of the University were responsible for the feature of the Week-End,—their lunch served to all of the visitors and working men of the University. Under a perfect May sun, with the entire campus resplendent with an array of color, and spirit resounding in each Oregon yell that the rooters gave, this "feed" was held. The democratic spirit prevailing, the feeling that a morning had been spent in profitable labor for "Old Oregon," and the presence of the hundred young people who would soon be there as active participants, made the gathering a notable occasion.

Saturday was reviewing day for the pride of every high school in the state, large or small. His mother's darling, his father's pride, the near champion and record breaker, rubbed elbows—as long as they could, and listened to the howling expressions of approval from the Week-End worshipers of every little visitor from Pedunk Corners.

The Prom,—the usual crush and rush to get "our" girls a partner was the climax. Those unable to stand the strain of course didn't go, but they were the exception. It was hot, but the music was sweet—and the memories fresh of the best ever Junior Week-End.

The 1912 Inter-Fraternity League opened with ten organizations in the field: Delta Sigma, Oregon Club, Alpha Tau Omega, Avava Club, Dormitory, Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, Acacia, Phi Gamma Delta, and Sigma Nu.

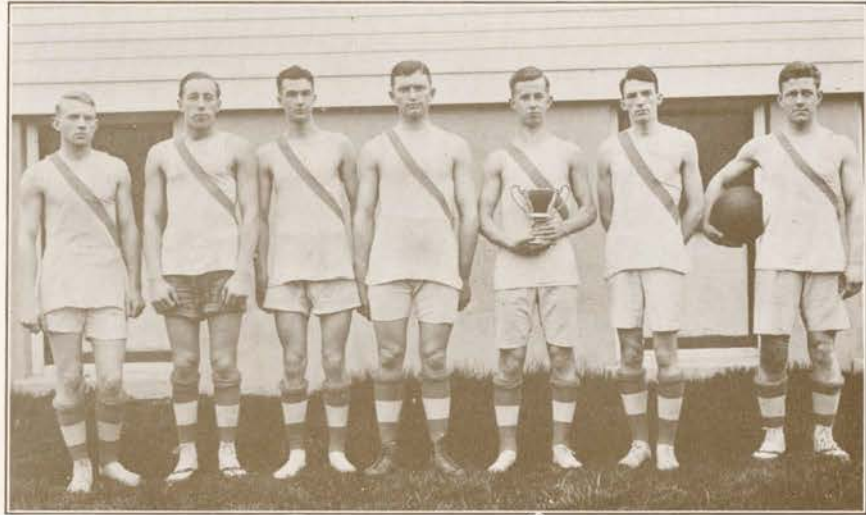

With a record of four victories and no defeats, the Phi Gam team won the League championship and the silver cup which was offered to the winner. The games were divided into series, the losing teams in each series being eliminated. By this method the teams were dropped until the only remaining survivors of the final series were Kappa Sigma and Phi Gamma Delta. In the contest which followed to determine the victor the Fiji tribesmen succeeded in vanquishing the Kappa Sigs by a four to eight score.

The following men played on the Fiji team: Word, Meek, Dorris, Jones, Grout, Gray, Cake, Hill, Shattuck. Grout was awarded a silver cup for having the highest individual batting average in the League.

At the conclusion of the inter-class basketball games interest was turned to the inter-fraternity series which immediately followed. The teams were quite evenly matched and it was impossible to make any certain conjectures as to who would win the silver cup until the final game was over. Through a process of elimination the different teams were Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Chi. These two teams met on January 25th, preliminary to the Oregon-Multnomah game, and the struggle which ensued was one of the keenest ever witnessed in inter-fraternity contests. It was not until the second half of the game was well under progress that the Fijis took a lead, which they succeeded in maintaining until the end, defeating the Sigma Chis by a score of 21 to 12. The winning team was composed of Fisher, Gould, Lindsay, Grout, Meek, George, and Hidden.

The following organizations were represented in the League: Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Nu, Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Delta Theta, Oregon Club, Dormitory, Kappa Sigma, Avava, Sigma Chi, and Zeta Phi.

Inter-Class Basketball

VOSPER BIGBEE STREET GOULD
WATSON PARSONS BOYLEN

In the inter-class basketball series which were held in December, the representatives of the Sophomore class succeeded in winning the championship, repeating the performance of last year's Sophomore team. The games were conspicuous by the absence of close scores. This, however, cannot be taken as a criterion of uninteresting games, for in many of the contests there was but little difference between the scores of the opposing teams until the latter stages of the game. The two highest teams at the end of the series were the Sophomore and the Junior teams. These two met on December 11th, to decide the championship, the game resulting in a victory for the Sophomores by a score of 12 to 7. The members of the successful team were: Parsons, Boylen, Vosper, Bigbee, Street, Watson, and Gould.

The inter-class contests have proven very valuable in developing Varsity material and stimulating interest in the great American indoor game.

Freshman Basketball Team

DAVIS SIMS BROWNELL BIGBEE BURGARD WHEELER GORMAN

Besides playing in the Inter-Class series, the Freshman Basketball team played two games with Washington High School, both here and in Portland, and defeated them in both instances. In the game played upon the local floor the first year men ran away from the prep school basket tossers and won by a score of 40 to 28. Shortly afterwards they journeyed to Portland and met the Washington men on their own floor. This time they did not succeed in rolling up as large a score as in the previous game, but took the contest by a score of 30 to 17.

The usual U. of O. Freshman-O. A. C. Freshman game was not played this year because of the inability to make satisfactory arrangements.

The men on the squad were: Wheeler, Burgard, Brownell, Sims, Bigbee, Davis, and Gorman.

Inter-Fraternity Handball

COLLIER CALKINS

This year for the first time in the history of the University a handball tournament was pulled off. Although the game has been played by the students for years, and although the University is fitted with an excellent handball court, heretofore no opportunity has been given to the devotees of this sport to show their proficiency in this activity.

Out of the nine organizations entering in the preliminaries, four were eliminated, leaving the Zeta Phi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Oregon Club, and Dormitory. Most of the games have been close and interesting and have given a great stimulus to participation in this sport by the students.

The final game was played between the Oregon Club, represented by Andrew Collier and Russell Calkins, and the Dormitory, represented by Allyn Roberts and Kenneth Reid. The game was played before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd that ever witnessed a handball game at Oregon. The Oregon Club won the cup by a sensational finish in a deuce game.

Inter-Class Football

The season's usual Sophomore-Freshman Football game was played on Kincaid Field, October 12th, immediately after the Oregon-Willamette game. The result being a 12-0 victory for the Sophs.

This is one contest in which history repeats itself without exception. Since the inauguration of this annual fray the Sophomores have always won; in fact, it is one tenet of the unwritten law at Oregon that the Sophomores shall win on this occasion, and true to tradition the Oregon Babes were humbled by their Superiors, the Sophomore who had gone before.

One purpose of the annual wolloping of the Freshmen is to bring them into the proper understanding of their relationship to the Universtiy. This game, as well as the Under-class Mix, teaches the Freshmen that they are merely first year students, and that their's is the lowest position, and thoroughly impresses them with the conviction that one year of college life fits the Sophomore to dominate the brain and brawn of inexperienced "preppers." Further the humbling of the Frosh, the game is listed as the annual football comedy of the year. The spectacle of from twenty-two to forty of the finest specimens of manhood to be found in the Under-classes, attired in as many colored and variegated uniforms, struggling for supremacy, makes one realize that vim, force, and "pep," are not lacking qualities of the under-classmen's make-up.

The game this year, as usual, was hotly contested. In the last quarter each team was re-enforced and used from fifteen to twenty men on a side, the Sophomores using from one to five balls on punts and forward passes, as the exigencies of the moment seemed to demand. Needless to say, the strict interpretation of the official rules was a measure relegated to the dim distance. But through it all the best of spirit prevailed, and the Freshmen took their medicine like men. Certainly the memory of the contest will linger until next fall, when the "Babes" of today will do unto those of 1917 as they have been done to.

Freshmen—Fee, Ware, Ruinquist, McLennon, Kiser, Aitchison, Olsen (Capt.), Allen, Simkins.
The game resulted in a score of 12-0 in favor of the Sophomores.

Inter-Sorority Basketball

Bess Young
Nina Miller Grace Hartley Olive McShain

After a series of hotly contested games, the team representing the Oregon Club won the championship of the Inter-Sorority League by defeating the representatives of Kappa Alpha Theta in the final contest of the season. The rules provided that two defeats eliminated a team from the League, which resulted in the elimination of all except Kappa Alpha Theta and the Oregon Club. Much interest was displayed in the final contest, as it was not known who would be the victor until the final whistle was blown. The sororities which composed the League were: Beth Rhea, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Lambda Rho, and Oregon Club.

Girls' Inter-Class Basketball

McDowell Smith Miller Peterson Moffat Graybill Fenton

The inter-class games were pre-destined to be exciting because of the determination of the Freshman girls to wrest the cup from the Juniors, who had been successful in winning it twice. The first game, which was between the Seniors and Juniors, resulted in an easy victory for the latter. On the following day the Freshman team succeeded in defeating the Sophomores by a good margin. The real struggle of the series, however, occurred in the Freshman-Junior game the next day. In a game characterized by hard playing on the part of both teams, the Freshmen were victors, thereby giving them the cup. The most spectacular feature of this game was the field basket-shooting by Florence Moffat. The members of the winning team were: Charlie Fenton and May Smith, centers ;Virginia Peterson and Nina Miller, guards; Florence Moffat and Louisa McDowell, forwards.

The Under-Class Mix

From the spectator's point of view the second annual Freshman-Sophomore Mix, staged under the auspices of the Junior class, was more successful than the one held last year, in as much as it was better managed and conducted in a more expeditious manner. Preliminary preparations for the event had been made by each class, the Freshman even going as far as to hold a night rehearsal on Kincaid field a few nights before the contest came off.

The Sophs upheld the supremacy of their class, and incidentally college traditions, by taking the first men into tow with a total score of $72\frac{1}{2}$ to $12\frac{1}{2}$ for the Frosh. The wearers of the green won their only first on grandstand decorations, the rest being won by the Sophs, except the pushball contest, which was declared a draw.

Before a grandstand and bleachers filled with students and outsiders, who had come to witness the contest, the line of Freshmen, preceded by Hyde's Band and a mule of the real Maude type, entered the field and went through their performances, which consisted of class yells and the formation of the class numerals.

As soon as the Frosh had retired from the field, the Sophomores filed through the gate, headed by a contingent of fifty of the feminine members of the class. This feature struck the fancy of the judges and the 1915 shouters were awarded the event.

After this victory, the second year men had everything their own way. The sandbag contest was the first field event and after a spirited contest they managed to add ten points to their score by putting four more sacks over the line than did the Frosh.

Following the sandbag scramble came the relay race. Although the Freshmen obtained a lead at the start they were unable to maintain it and were soon overtaken by the Sophomore runners, giving them the race.

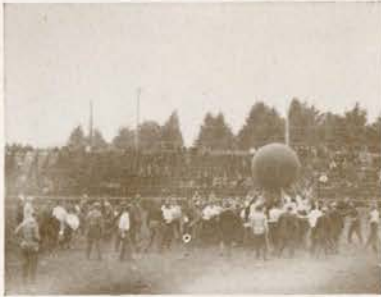

The real contest of the day came immediately after the relay, when the two classes lined up on each side of the pushball in the center of the field. After twenty minutes of stubborn fighting, during which several attempts had been made by the Sophomores to gain an advantage over the "green" ones by resorting to the tactics which were used so successfully last year, the contest was called a draw, with the pushball resting not far from its original position.

The final number on the program was the tug-of-war over the campus pond.

For a while it appeared as though the first year men had the advantage, but finally the Sophomores through a wonderful show of strength, so the subsequent newspaper accounts of the contest said, jerked the Frosh team into the water, followed shortly after by their fellow-classmen. This victory added to the Sophomore side of the scoreboard carried the day for them by a big margin.

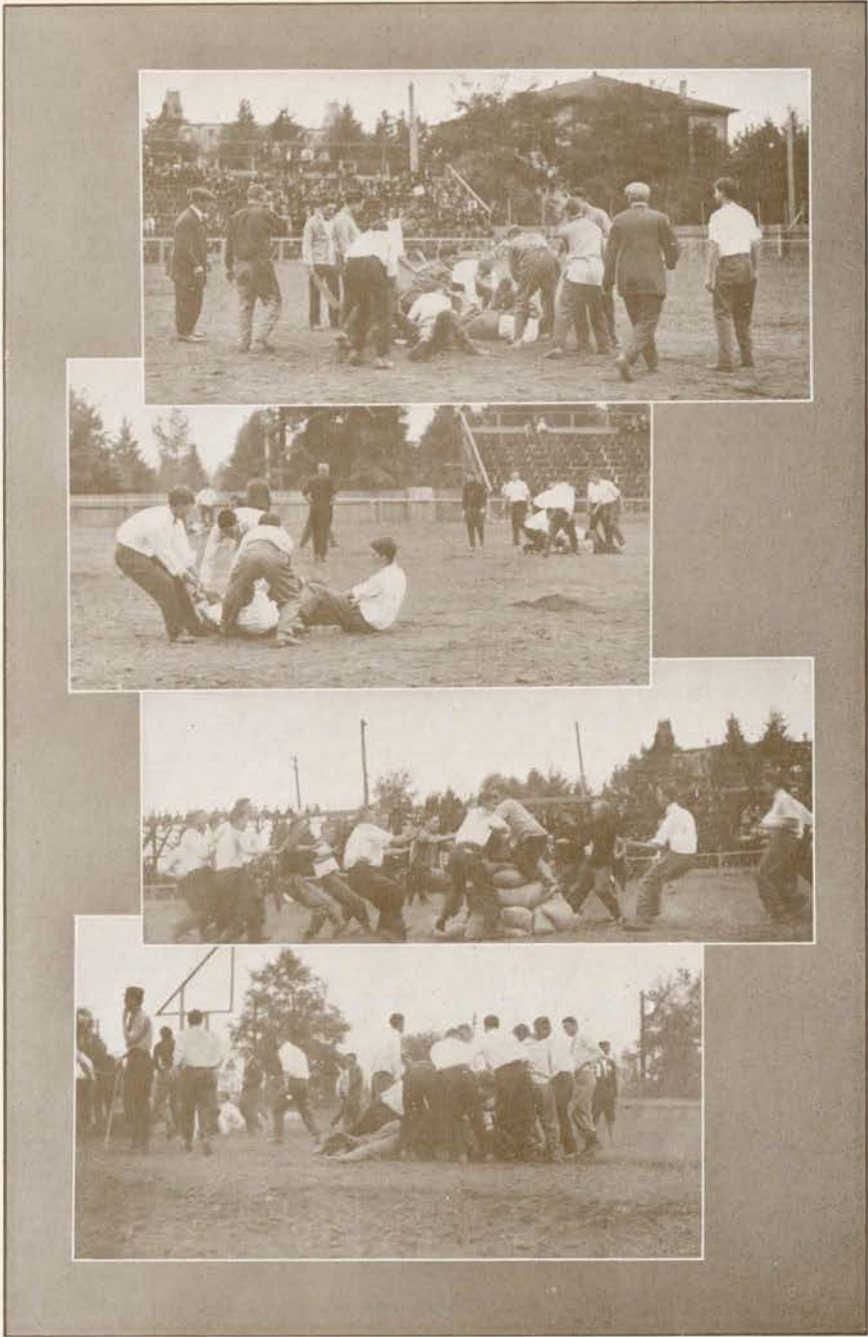

The feature of the afternoon performance was the kidnapping of the Frosh President by Chief Vosper's police patrol. Under the pretext of conferring with the officials in charge of the Mix, the leader of the 1916 cohorts was inveigled to forsake the safety of the grandstand and go out upon the field, where he was picked up by the patrol wagon, which had arrived ostensibly for the purpose of removing a couple of Sophomores who were conducting themselves in an undecorous manner. An attempt was made by the Frosh to rescue their luckless leader, but the rush was stayed by Chief Vosper's men, assisted by the male portion of the Sophomore class.

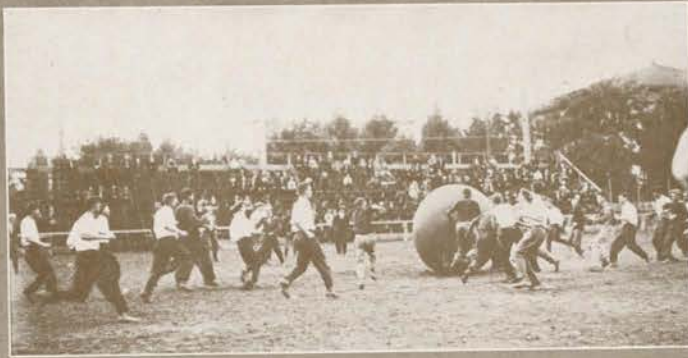

The Mix closed with the best of feeling prevailing between both classes, the Freshmen looking forward to the time when they hope to be able, through previous experience, to reverse the tables.

WOMEN HAVE TRACK MEET

CURSE OF SOCIETY MUST GO

Homer Maris Wins Individual Cup

Dress Suit Put Under Ban by Emerald

The second annual Women's Indoor Track Meet, held in their gymnasium the other night, was a giggling success. We were going to say it was a howling success, but with our customary discretion chose the more ladylike word. The Freshmen won the meet with a total of 13,648 points, as against only 11,927 points for the Sophomores.

The competition for the individual cup, offered by Dr. Stuart for the most perfect woman, was very keen. Homer Maris was the winner, with a total of 1,835 points.

According to custom, the most stringent measures were taken to shield the athletes from the corrupting gaze of mere man. Sentinels were posted at a suitable distance from the building to give warning of the approach of masculine invaders. The Amazon squad stood on guard at the door, armed with hat pins.

The long distance talking contest proved most exciting. Miss Lucia Macklin won in a close finish from Miss Ethel Tooze. The gum chewing contest was a vic-

The crusade being waged by the Emerald against that curse of society, the dress suit, is attracting widespread attention. Already the press and pulpit of the country have taken up the cry. "Down with the dress suit!" Everywhere we are being commended for our brave stand against this atrocious evil.

The Emerald sleuth was on the job at the Sophomore dance, and as a result he secured some conclusive evidence. By actual count, there were only 26 Sophomores in attendance at their own class function. What was the reason? Who dares insinuate that some of the tory for Miss Helen Mamilton, over Leola Ball. In the endurance tests, Gretchen Sherwood easily took the Cake, but when it came to lifting the Waite, Bess Cowden proved invincible.

At ten o'clock the cry of "a mouse!" brought the meet to an abrupt close, and the audience hurriedly departed, declaring it had spent a perfectly delightful evening.

members preferred a quiet evening in Springfield to the dance? No, it was the terrible ignominy of appearing without a dress suit which caused them to languish away in other haunts.

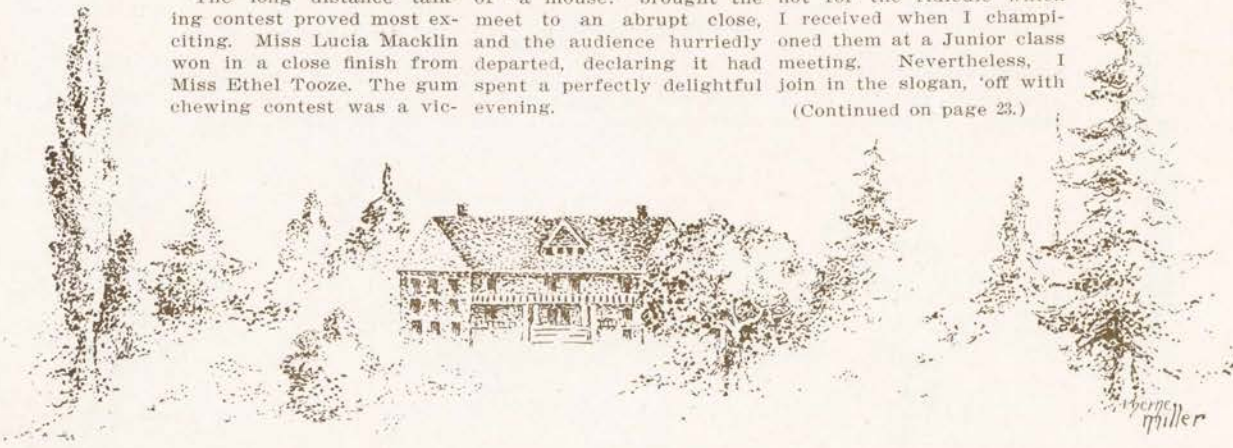

To show the sentiment of the campus, we have interviewed a few recognized authorities.

"By all means let us abolish dress suits. My objection to them is based on aesthetic grounds. I find it almost impossible to rag correctly in a dress suit. It seems to interfere with the freedom of movement so essential to the proper interpretation of that terpsichorean art."—President "Fat" Bailey, '13.

"I am heartily in favor of this reform. The dress suit is a most inconvenient article of attire. The pockets are not large enough to hold a can of tobacco, and they bulge out too much when filled with the makings. At the last dance I attended I was forced to pass two intermissions without a cigarette. God speed you in your noble work."—"Bill" Heusner.

"I am in favor of legislating against the dress suit and substituting some more simple apparel. I would suggest corduroys, were it not for the ridicule which I received when I championed them at a Junior class meeting. Nevertheless, I join in the slogan, 'off with

THE EMERALD'S POLICY

The Emerald has been criticised by the rougher element for not taking the student's side of various questions which have risen during the year. These rowdies are so audacious as to suggest that student opinion should have the first consideration in outlining our policy.

We might listen to the advice of the rabble. We might champion their cause, when it is just, instead of standing in with the powers that be. We might make the Emerald live and progressive. We might do these things, but we won't. With all the fervency at our command, we hurl back a defiant "No!"

We'd rather start up a nice, quiet crusade against dress suits at the class dances, or in favor of admitting men to girls' games, or agitate some other burning issue that nobody cares about, anyway. It's much safer, and it always makes a hit with the faculty. But as for taking a definite, fearless stand on any question which is vital to the students—mercy, no!

Therefore, in reply to the inquiry, "Where do we stand?" we again declare that we don't stand anywhere. We prefer a nice, comfortable sitting posture,—on the fence, if possible.

The Emerald hereby announces a star reporter contest. We feel that our brilliant and hard working staff deserves some encouragement. Sometimes a reporter becomes dissatisfied because, after he has worked hard for three years as a cub, some new man who has a drag with the interests beats him to a big job. This is the wrong view to take. We should learn to obey our superiors without complaining.

It is no disgrace to be a reporter. Many of our most eminent journalists have started at the foot of the ladder. Horace Greeley was once a reporter; so was Richard A. Dana; so was "Bones" Allen. Therefore we are going to offer two magnificent prizes to the reporters who bring in the most meritorious stories during the next two weeks. The first prize will be a ticket of membership in the Y. M. C. A. The second prize will be honorable mention from the Managing Editor.

In order that everything will be exactly on the level, we name the following impartial judges: Karl Ont-hank, "Bones" Allen and Prof. Allen. Any member of the A. T. O. fraternity is eligible for the prize.

Get busy, ye faithful!

"I am in favor of abolishing dress suits, because they are undemocratic. I am strong for this democracy stuff; in fact, that's how I got my job."—President Fred Hardesty, '15.

"I wish to add my word of protest against the dress suit. I never wear one, and I advise my fellow-Freshmen to follow the same rule."—President Robert Prosser, '16.

Question—Why does Wilson wear red, white and blue suspenders?

Answer—To hold his trousers up.

Once there were three frogs, who fell into a can of cream. The first frog sank to the bottom immediately and was drowned. The second frog gave a few kicks and then gave it up also. But the third frog kept on kicking. When the milkman opened the can he found this persevering frog sitting on a roll of butter which he had churned by his efforts.

BIG FEATURE STORY

By Bones Allen

The scene of this remarkable happening was the drinking fountain in the library, and the heroine was a co-ed. Always use co-ed in a feature story if possible—all we clever writers do it.

The co-ed was thirsty. What did she do? She walked right up to the drinking fountain and took a drink. She actually did. And then she said, "My, but it's hard to drink out of these drinking fountains." Ha, ha.

DIVISION OF SCHOOL YEAR INTO FOUR SEMESTERS IS PRINCIPLE REVISION

POSTED ATHLETES CONSIDERED

Will Advise Transition of English Into English-Four Days Given for Island Trip.

The most important matter to come before the Faculty meeting Thursday evening in Villard Hall was the proposed revision of the college calendar.

To this end a committee of three will be appointed next week by President Campbell to take the matter under advisement.

Several changes have been proposed, among them is one which is in force at the University of Chicago, by which the college year is divided into four semesters, any three of which the students may attend, and any one of which a member of the faculty may take for a month.

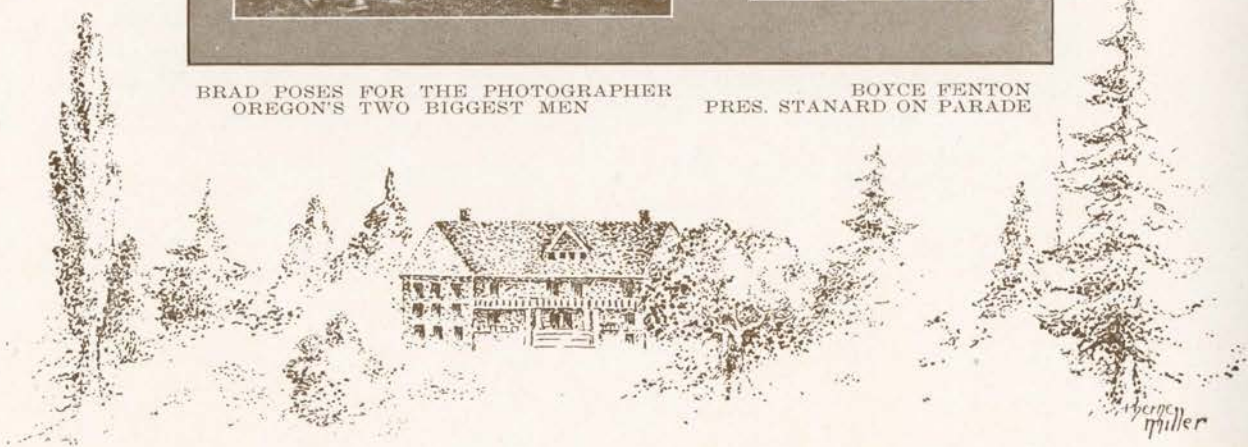

It has also been proposed to open and close the school year one month earlier than at present, thus making the summer vacation extend but ten of those games have been played in Portland, the exception being 1903 and 1909, when the teams

SENIOR BASKETBALL TEAM

INTER-CLASS AND INTER-FRATERNITY BASKETBALL RULES

1—The arena for these combats shall be of sufficient size to facilitate flying tackles. Providing, however, that it will not be so large as to make possible the escape of the pursued.

2—The floor shall be of Stone's brand of hard maple, in order that "hard" games may be played.

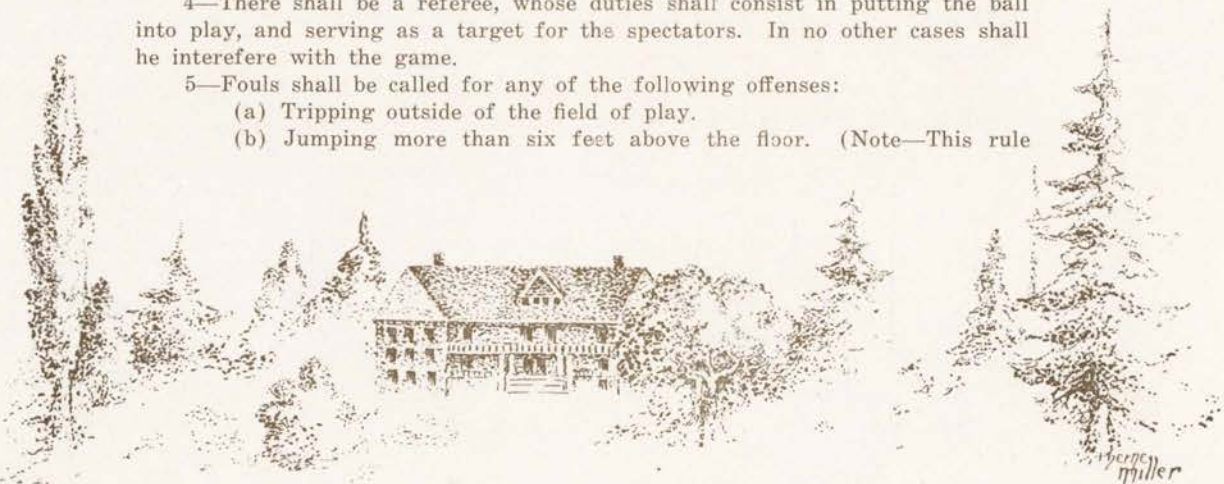

3—The accoutrements shall include nothing heavier than eight-inch armor plate. Spikes are barred from all contests, because of their effect upon the floor. Providing, however, that this shall not be interpreted as to mean the exclusion of brass knuckles.

4—There shall be a referee, whose duties shall consist in putting the ball into play, and serving as a target for the spectators. In no other cases shall he interfere with the game.

5—Fouls shall be called for any of the following offenses:

(a) Tripping outside of the field of play.

(b) Jumping more than six feet above the floor. (Note—This rule

Herbert Miller

is made so as to prevent the contests from assuming the aspect of an aviation meet.)

(c) Kicking in clinches.

(d) For more than half of the spectators participating in the game.

6—The Athletic Association shall provide for an ambulance, which shall be in constant attendance at all games.

7—Medical assistance (see picture) shall be near at hand at all times.

8—Eligibility: To be eligible, each player shall have won his letter in football, shall not have received more than ten posts in any one semester, and shall have no relatives at ringside.

The Ten Commandments

1. House rules are binding on all girls residing in the house, and on all guests of the house. Regular boarders, like Glen Storie, Herman Oberteuffer, Edsall Ford and Dean Walker, excepted.

2. All girls must be in the houses, and all men out of the houses at ten-thirty on all nights except Friday and Saturday, when the hours will be eleven o'clock. If it happens to be later, come in the back door.

3. Sophomores one night; Freshmen none. Frosh may get around this by having him call up their room-mates.

4. No girl shall leave the house after nine P. M. If she and.....are spending the evening on the porch they may leave at any time.

5. No men shall be entertained in or about the houses before noon. Fixing the furnace, moving the piano or trunks, not regarded as entertainment.

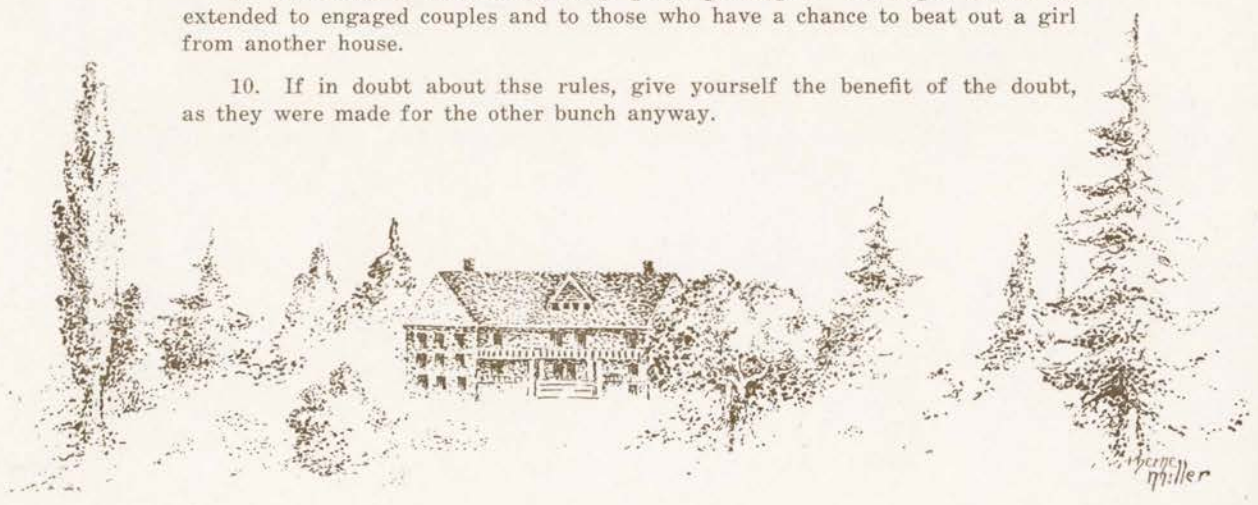

6. Single couples must be off of the mill-race at 9:00 P. M. Double couples may stay out until 1:30, unless they get separated, then any time will do.

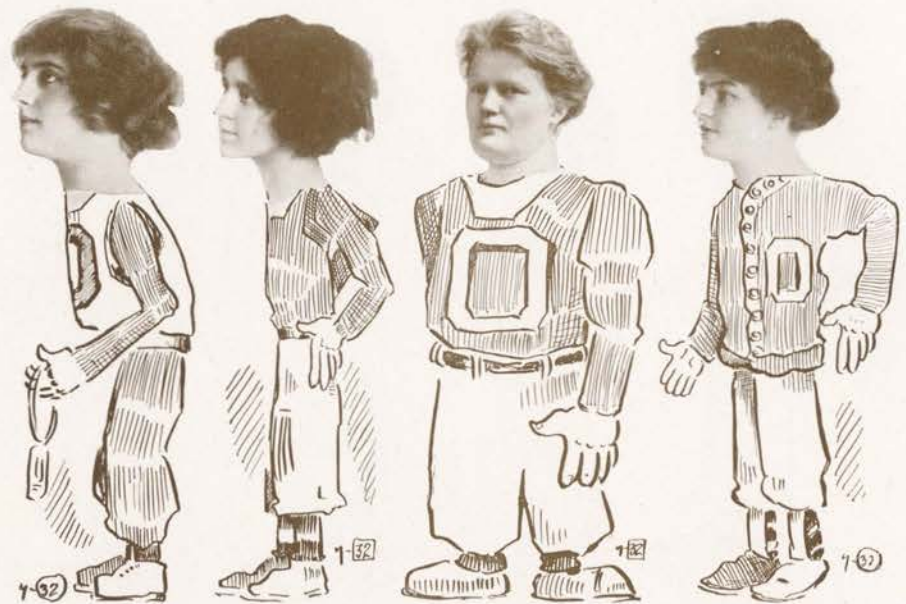

7. Underclassmen shall be home from the Library at 9:15 P. M. If you can leave the Library at 7:15 this will give you two hours.

8. Music and entertainment of all kinds on Sunday shall be of a quiet nature. Anything else done on Sunday must be on the quiet.

9. The head of each house may grant privileges. Privileges should be extended to engaged couples and to those who have a chance to beat out a girl from another house.

10. If in doubt about these rules, give yourself the benefit of the doubt, as they were made for the other bunch anyway.

Maxims of the Mill Race

By an Old Grad.

I, who in seasons now vanished,
 On the campus found a place,
 Who herded with "hobo piggers,"
 And dwelt on the old mill-race,
 Out of experience peddle to you
 These maxims sage anent the canoe—
 That you may flourish and prosper,
 Attend them with fitting grace.
 Selah!

I.

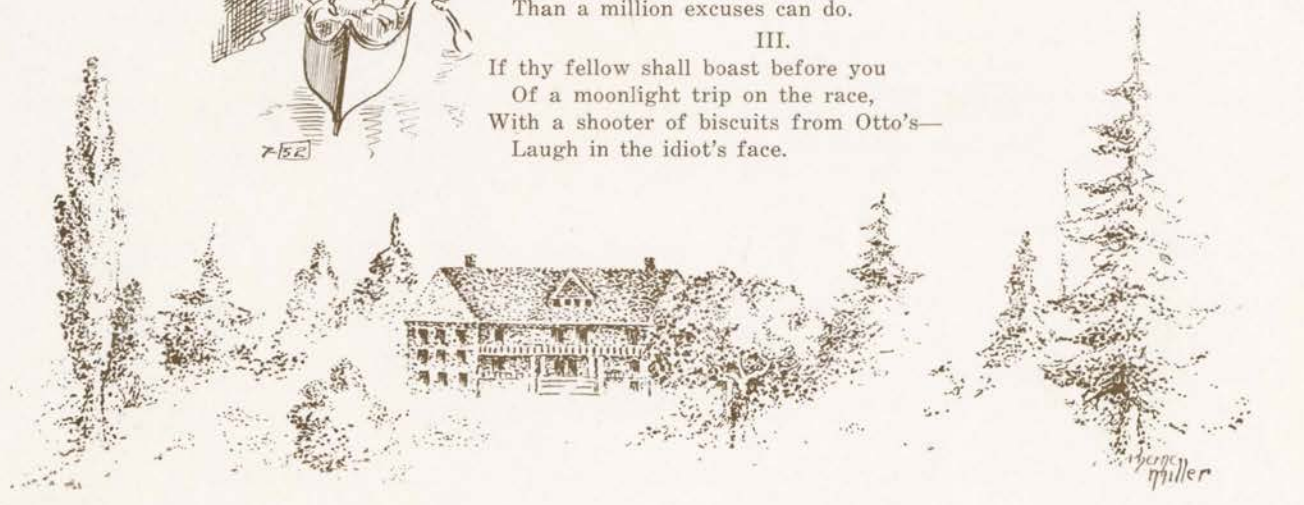

Wise is the Frosh who boneth;
 Lo, he shall cop the grades;
 Wiser, who tackleth football,
 Or mixeth in rooter parades;
 Lo, he may get a sweater
 And wear an "O" on his chest,
 And many an humble minion
 Shall hurry at his behest.
 Wisest is he who hastens,
 While the tint on his cap is new,
 To size up the situation
 And purchase himself a canoe.
 Lo, he may come nigh flunking,
 Lo, he may have no "O,"
 Lo, he may fail of office,
 But through the four years or so,
 That he lingereth round on the campus,
 Where co-eds do come and go,
 The intimate lore of the mill-race
 And things that do there befall,
 Which are hidden to common mortals—
 Lo, he shall know them all.

II.

My son, if occasion offers,
 Take the House Mother in thy canoe.
 Thereafter, infraction of house rules
 Shall cause little trouble to you;
 For a stand-in with her more availeth
 Than a million excuses can do.

III.

If thy fellow shall boast before you
 Of a moonlight trip on the race,
 With a shooter of biscuits from Otto's—
 Laugh in the idiot's face.

Miller

Full soon in the co-ed's parlor
 Shall his be a vacant place.
 The wise man who wooeth the hasher
 Boasts not, but closeth his face.

IV.

My son, as you drift in the evening,
 From the island, down on the race,
 If your lips ponder rash declarations,
 And you deem her a vision of grace—
 Remember the moonlight alway
 Is kinder than light o' the day
 To the lines of a maiden's face.

V.

Though your heart may burst with emotion,
 Be wary, my son, of your speech,
 For who may establish the distance
 A vow—even whispered—may reach?
 A thousand tongues hath the mill-race,
 And ears; and the words you say
 On the solitudes of its waters,
 Are loose on the campus next day.

VI.

The Athletic Maiden who paddles
 May paddle and do her part—
 But she who loafs on the cushions
 Ensnareth the Freshman's heart.

When safe in the cosy corner,
 At anchor, ere word be said,
 Look well, my son, through the branches,
 To the cosy corner ahead;
 And if other canoe and couple
 Be anchored, be silent instead,
 Or talk a bit on the weather,
 Or the latest book you have read.

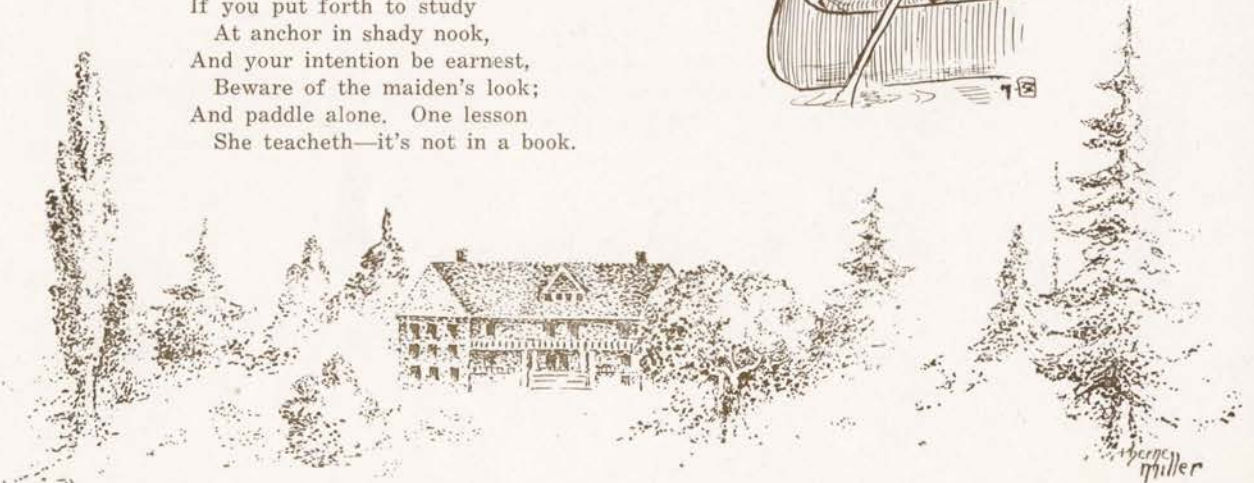

VII.

VIII.

If She canoe with a rival,
 Groan not, nor shed a tear,
 But seek ye straightway another
 For ballast, and gaily steer—
 They all look alike in mem'ry
 When you're off of the campus a year.

IX.

If you put forth to study
 At anchor in shady nook,
 And your intention be earnest,
 Beware of the maiden's look;
 And paddle alone. One lesson
 She teacheth—it's not in a book.

Thorne Miller

X.

anchored at night on the mill-race,
 Await for the far-off chime
 Of the clock—he storeth up trouble
 Which soon he will catch
 Who striketh a match
 To look at his watch, for the time.

XI.

If She be fair to look on;
 Complexion of perfect hue;
 Coiffure in all points perfect—
 My son, don't rock the canoe;
 Who knoweth what wreck of illusions
 A plunge in the mill-race may do?

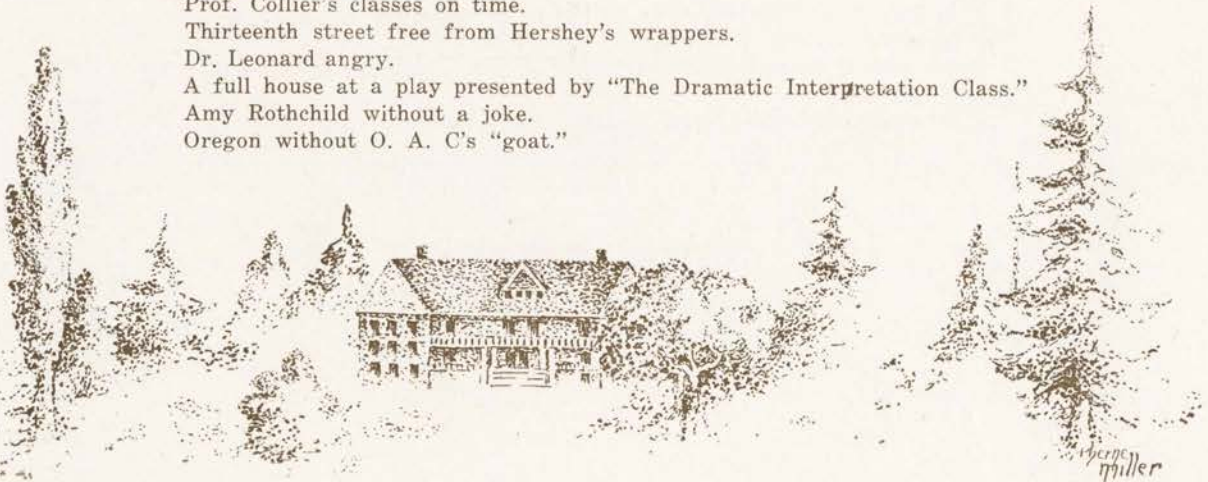

XII.

My son, if in future season,
 Free for a day or two,
 I come again to the campus
 Once more to disport with you,
 With my blessing you shall be laden,
 And you will deserve it, too,
 If you introduce me a co-ed—
 And lend to me your canoe.
 Bismillah!

Associate Sufferers—Pearl Horner, Lucile Davis.

Campus Pests

The chronic pigger who hangs around the entrance to a class-room until his affinity blows out.

The knocker who can't see anything ahead for Oregon but an awful massacre before every game.

The social climber who dates up a keen girl for the Junior Prom in September to play safe.

The professional collector who tackles you for your class dues on the Library steps while the crowd is going by.

The Y. M. C. A. evangelist who tries to persuade you to come into the fold and be saved, when you want to walk with your lady friend.

The smoker who hasn't anything but the habit, and depends on his friends for the other necessary articles.

The naughty flirt who blocks the traffic on Hello Lane to beef with a Freshman queen.

The would-be comedian who entertains the class with his vaudeville specialties.

The jewelry collector who makes a show window out of his vest for the display of his various pins.

The spectacled prodigy who sits in the front row and tries to show up the rest of the class with his superior knowledge.

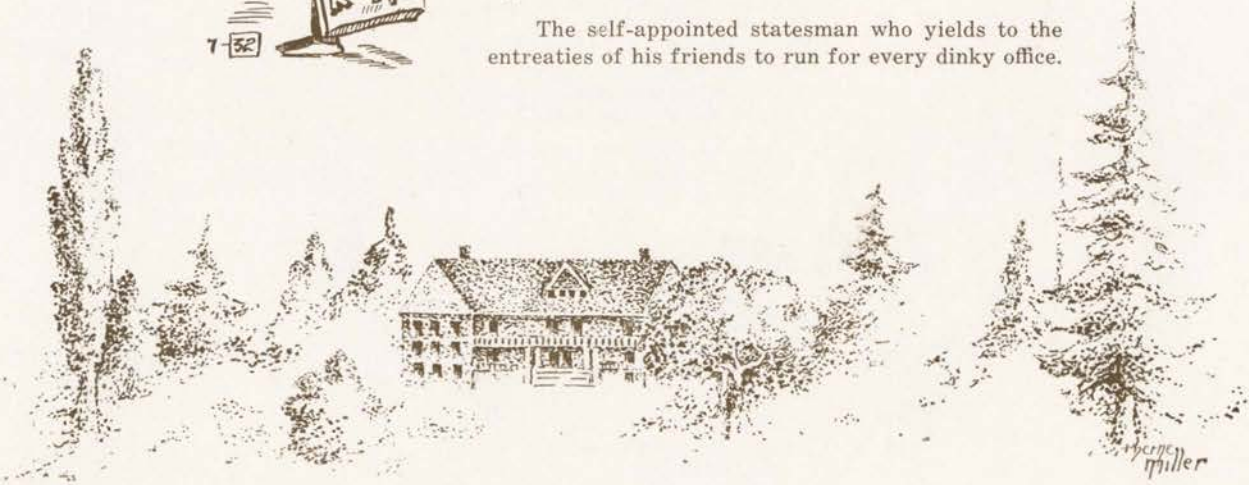

The female Marathon runner who says she is "just crazy to dance" when you want to sit out an encore.

The orator who kicks in with a few speeches at every class meeting.

The sorority mail-carrier who flits around the Library distributing the morning's crop to the waiting sisters.

The self-appointed statesman who yields to the entreaties of his friends to run for every dinky office.

Wasn't It Hell

Far be it from the purpose here
To use profanity,
But I wish to make a few remarks
With which you'll all agree;
And when I've made those same remarks
Will someone kindly tell
What wrong I've done to merely ask,
Say, wasn't it awful?

The legislature of this state
Once pungled o'er the seeds
With which this University
Might satisfy its needs,
And build a shrine where Knowledge fair
With decency might dwell.
Did we get that coin? Ask Parkison.
Say, wasn't it fierce?

Last fall we had a football team
Which no one could defeat;
On paper all the other schools
For us were easy meat,
We thought we'd cop the conference rag,
But think of what befell
Our champs when they met Washington!
Say, wasn't it disappointing?

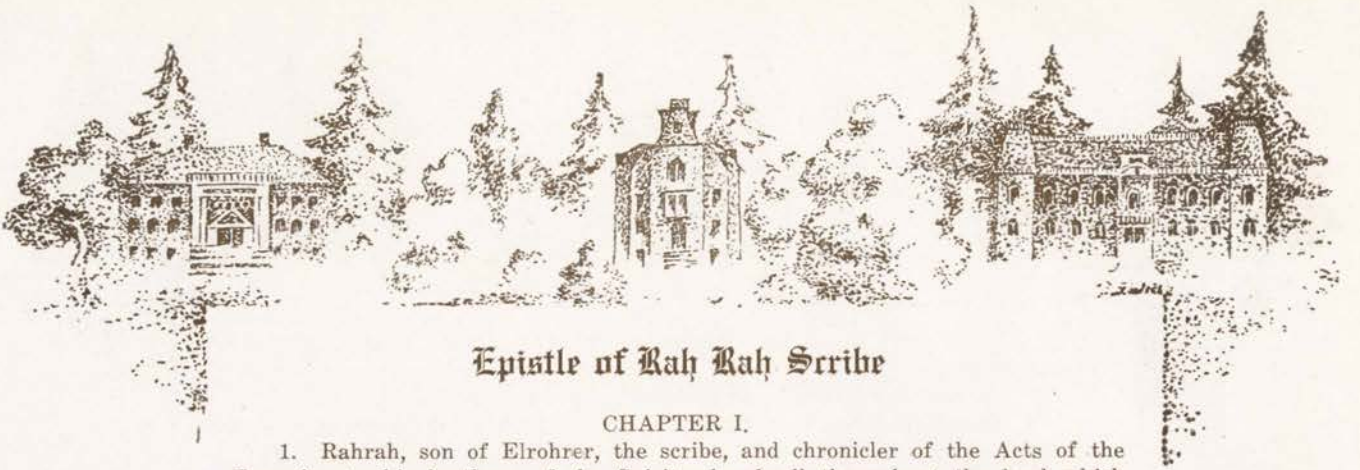

We all went down to Albay
With O. A. C. to mix;
We thought there'd be a friendly fight,
But Prexy murmured "Nix."
And so, though "wicktery vas ours-s-s!"
All we could do was yell;
They hauled us quickly home again.
Say, wasn't it exasperating?

Last fall, about Thanksgiving time,
When peace and quiet reigned,
The faculty got busy and
Dealt us a jolt which pained;
For in the anti-cutting rule
Each student heard his knell.
What had we to be thankful for?
Say, wasn't it deplorable?

Before examination time
Our spirits were depressed,
And so we planned a small blow-out—
The reader knows the rest.
Just as our saddened hearts began
With hope and joy to swell,
The powers that be shut down the lid.
Say, wasn't it lamentable?

Epistle of Rah Rah Scribe

CHAPTER I.

1. Rahrah, son of Elrohrer, the scribe, and chronicler of the Acts of the Eugenics, to his brethren of the Spirit who dwell throughout the land which is tributary to the mighty Oswald:

2. Grace and peace be multiplied unto you, my brethren, even as in the day when the referendum was not, and the voice of the Legislature was heard in the land.

3. Know ye that in the latter day the word of the prophet hath been fulfilled, in that he saith,

4. Behold, the time cometh, and the hour draweth nigh, when thine enemy shall rise up against you, and wax exceeding strong, and peradventure shall prevail against you,

5. And the elders and wise men, yea, even the learned scribes who record the chronicles of the wars of McCredie and Cal Ewing, and the strife of the giants of Reno and Colma, shall lament in sack cloth and ashes, saying,

6. Hahn hath slain his thousands, but Dolan his ten thousands;

7. And hath not Hahn, king of the Marcusites, sore beset you, and prevailed against you, and sorely stricken thy giant in battle, even the mighty Carl, of Dallas?

8. And furthermore hath not Hahn been overthrown, and his cohorts withered even as the seven lean ears of Joseph, or as Aaron's rod on the second day?

9. And hath not this thing been done by Samuel the Kerrite, surnamed Dolan, who hath even given battle to the mighty hosts of the north, and thrown into them one Gehenna of a snare?

10. Know ye then, that when his cohorts come down against thee, they will surely prevail against thee, and beat thee up woefully, and utterly destroy thee, and take much rich spoil—yea, even thy cuff-links shalt thou soak for the shekels wherewith to return to thy city.

1. For so it is written in the book of the Dopesters.

CHAPTER II.

1. Now the glorious happenings of the latter days, which men call the spilling of the dope, came about in this wise:

2. When that Arthur, surnamed Geary, which meaneth, Containing Many Cog-wheels, came to hear that of which the scribes had written,

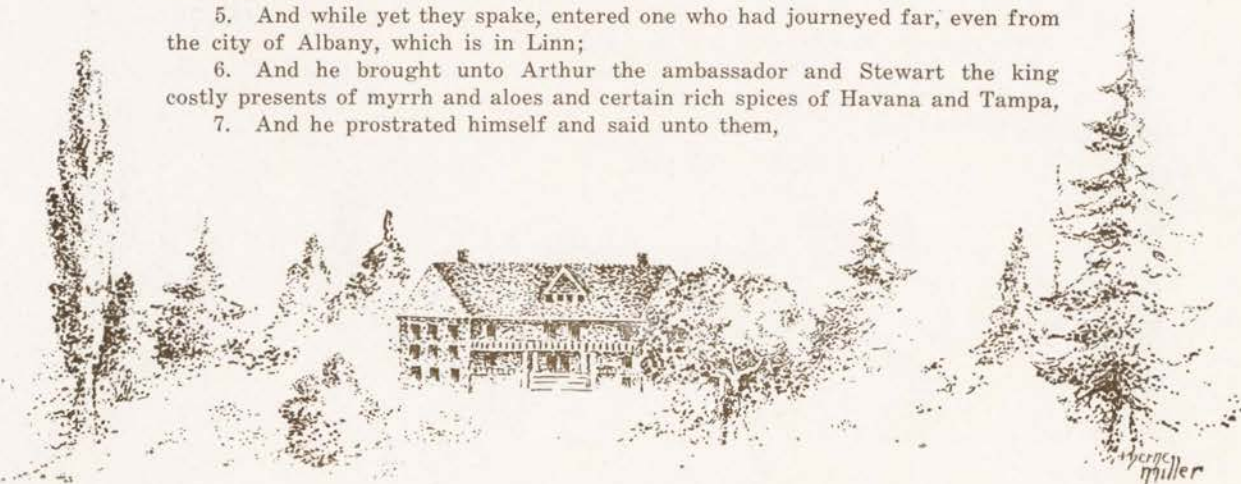

3. He girded up his loins in much haste, and wended his way northerly, even unto the borders of the land of Benton, and the capital city thereof,

4. And he went in unto the mighty king Stewart, where that he sate on the throne of the Agrics, and spake many words with him; yea, long and earnestly did they chin one with the other.

5. And while yet they spake, entered one who had journeyed far, even from the city of Albany, which is in Linn;

6. And he brought unto Arthur the ambassador and Stewart the king costly presents of myrrh and aloes and certain rich spices of Havana and Tampa,

7. And he prostrated himself and said unto them,

Miller

8. Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for behold, I come to bring you good tidings of great joy.

9. Whereat spake Arthur and the king, thusly,

10. Speak, we pray thee; unfold to us thy proposition; haste thee to get it off thy chest.

11. Then answered he of Albany, saying,

12. Seek ye not a place of settlement, wherein to foregather, that each of thy tribes may get into each other, even as the cats of Kilkenny?

13. And Stewart and Geary answered as one man,

14. Yea, verily, seek we such; but, as sayeth the parable, can anything good come out of Albany?

15. Nevertheless, after the man of Albany had sware that his proposition was not the abiding place of flies, was it even so arranged.

16. And in this manner was it doped out, that the cohorts of Samuel, the Kerrite, should meet the brethren of Rahrah (who were known in those parts as the Highbrows), in array of battle on the plains nigh onto Albany of Linn.

17. For is it not so recorded in the Book of the Dopesters, even upon the sporting page thereof?

CHAPTER III.

1. On the seventh day of the third week of the month of harvest were gathered on the plains nigh onto Albany multitudes of peoples, from Dan to Beersheba, and from Medford even unto Astoria.

2. And men of divers race and divers occupation, yea, even of no occupation, were there.

3. And they who ran the caravans throughout the valley, both steam and electric cars and every other creeping thing, did a rushing business.

4. And of the Kerrites came abundance of men clad in khaki and gaiters, of whom it has been written,

5. Behold the tillers of the field; they toil not, neither do they spin; yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

6. And over against the other side of the depot were gathered the hosts from the upper valley,

7. And they were robed in garlands even as the spring narcissus, nay, as the fruit of the citrus belt were they adorned.

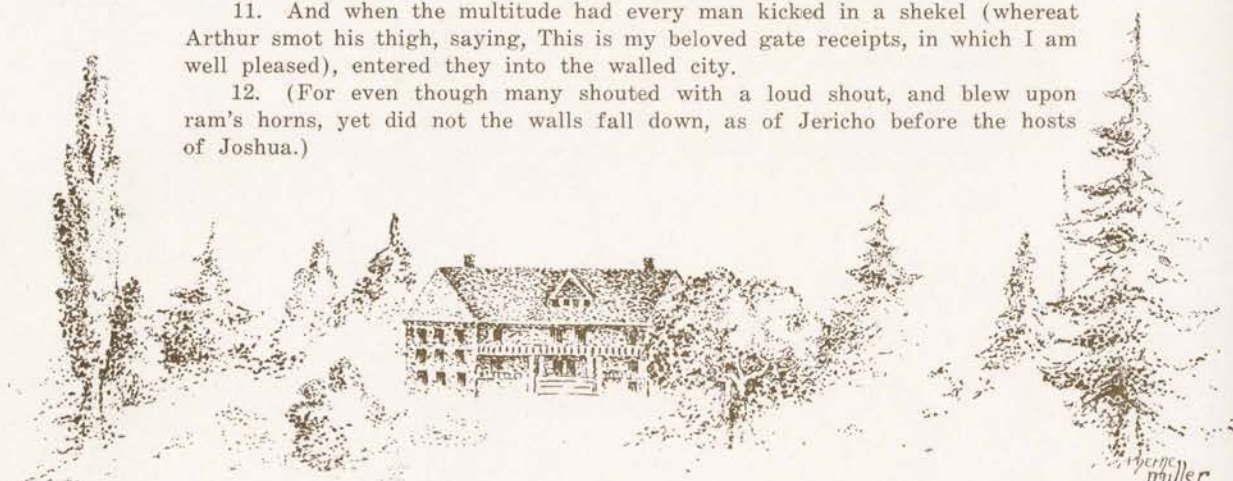

8. And in the high places were set up kings of all the tribes of Oregon, which were foregathered at Salem; even the mighty king Oswald and divers of his counsellors did hold down a box.

9. At the third hour came forth the fighting men of the Agrics, even as the Asyrian came down like the wolf on the fold;

10. And they that bore arms for the Eugenic came forth; yea, even they that had a slim chance to get into the strife came forth.

11. And when the multitude had every man kicked in a shekel (whereat Arthur smot his thigh, saying, This is my beloved gate receipts, in which I am well pleased), entered they into the walled city.

12. (For even though many shouted with a loud shout, and blew upon ram's horns, yet did not the walls fall down, as of Jericho before the hosts of Joshua.)

Thames
Miller

13. And it came to pass that when the multitudes were seated, the warriors gathered themselves into battle array, and entered into the combat.

14. Now when that the battle was begun, stood apart one of the fleetest of the sons of Eugene, even Ercel, of whom it was said,

15. Verily he is fast, even as the lightning, or as the vanishing of a fat check when the house bill falls due.

16. When that the Kerrites had kicked off, it came to pass that the ball fell into the hands of one Dean, that was the captain of the sons of Eugene,

17. Who runneth mightily, until such time as he gathered a goodly start, when lo, he droppeth the pigskin;

18. Whereat were the brethren of Rahrah sad at heart,

19. For what profiteth it a man to gain twenty cubits if he lose the ball?

20. And the Kerrites, when they saw that which had happened, shouted with a loud shout, saying,

21. The battle is already ours; for are not our enemies even now arisen into the atmosphere? Yea, bo!

22. And now was the derrick applied to the swift Ercel, for, saith Louis,

23. Our adversary hath even trumped our ace; thy time hath not come; no chance.

24. Now was it the time of the Kerrites to press the battle; yea, even to buck the line.

25. And right merrily did they prepare; for the field seemed already to be delivered into their hands.

26. And when they had bucked three times, they who cast up the yardage did discover a loss of three cubits.

27. Then, saith the wise men, even in that time was the day lost and won; yea, even so quick was the angora of the Kerrites browsing upon the tin roof of Deady, where he stayeth to this day;

28. For it is easier for a needle to pass through the eye of a camel than for a Farmer to enter through a hole in the Oregon line.

29. When that they had essayed a place kick, of which they gat no good, was the ball given to the men of Eugene.

30. Now there was sent a man from Portland, whose name was John; even that John Parsons, who had come unto the Eugenics with a rep.

31. And when the whistle was blown, lo, a great shout arose,

32. And when the dust was settled, behold, that same John had torn off twenty cubits.

33. Thereafter did the tide of battle surge backward and forward,

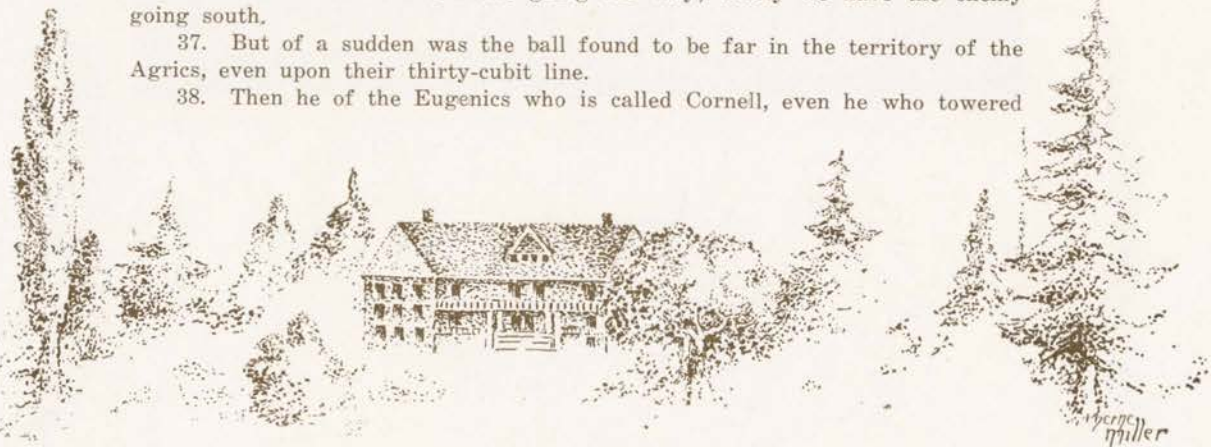

34. And men performed great deeds of valor, both before the gaze of the multitude, and when the referee was not looking.

35. And the hosts of the Kerrites and the Eugenics did raise many a joyous paeon, singing,

36. Now indeed is the battle going our way; surely we have the enemy going south.

37. But of a sudden was the ball found to be far in the territory of the Agrics, even upon their thirty-cubit line.

38. Then he of the Eugenics who is called Cornell, even he who towered over the mighty giants of the Agrics in not such a manner as to be noticeable, called for a placement;

39. Whereupon did the mighty Carl of Dallas step back three paces.

40. And when he had looked long upon the goal posts before him, was the ball snapped.

41. And even as the stone from the sling of David smote Goliath between the eyes, so did the pigskin pass between the posts; yea, even as Joab pierced the inwards of Absalom whilst he hung in the midst of the oak.

42. And when the sons of Eugene had shouted to the heavens, nay, had shot off their lungs to the utmost of their capacity,

43. Only then did they cast up the score and say,

44. Hoopla! The score is three to nix.

45. And even so did it stay until the close of the battle.

46. And when they of the Eugenics who had taken a chance had collected the talents of gold and of silver that were coming to them, they who had not backed their judgment admonished themselves, saying,

47. I knew it all the time; yea, even as the foolish virgins, did I pass up a chance to make a rich killing.

48. And when all were gathered again in the tabernacle which is called Obak's, did they lift up their voices, and sing;

49. Sound the loud timbrel o'er Egypt's dark sea,

50. For surely is the dope spilled.

51. And such a spilling was there, my countrymen! Selah!

Lucille

I am growing old and gray;
The fires of life burn low,
And yet the night is still made bright
By gleams from long ago,
The blessed rays from bygone days,
The gleams from long ago.

Alone am I in my old age,
My cheerless heart is sad,
But in my dreams, I see these gleams
And once again I'm glad.
I visit thee in reverie,
And once again I'm glad.

The raptures of my youthful life
Then once again I feel.
I see the face time can't erase,
Thy haunting face, Lucille.
It lights the gloom of my room,
Thy haunting face, Lucille.

It slips the leash of memory,
Recurring scenes come fast,
The mystic maze of student days,
It conjures from the past,
That golden time of joy sublime,
It conjures from the past.

I see thee as I saw thee first,
A brightly radiant star,
And I below feel not thy glow,
But watch thee from afar.
Unknown to thee and silently
I watch thee from afar.

And then I see thee nearer come,
And feel thy subtle charm.
I know the thrill of yielding will
That makes the life-blood warm,
I know the fire of mad desire
That makes the life-blood warm.

And now the scenes crowd thickly in,
A thousand pictures merge.
Not sea and sky, but thou and I,
Are in that rushing surge,
Together we in ecstasy
Are in that rushing surge.

I walk with thee on moonlit eves,
And talk in whispers low,
Or peace enfurled, hid from the world,
Watch the fire's soft glow,
Alone with thee and dreamily
Watch the fire's soft glow.

The New Imperial Hotel

Extends greetings to the Faculty and Students of the University of Oregon, and extends you an invitation to make the Imperial your headquarters while in Portland. The Imperial is most centrally located, and equipped to meet all demands consistent with good service.

Phil Metschan & Sons, Proprietors

Thy murmured voice is in my ear,
My heart leaps from control,
Thy languorous eyes, like summer skies,
Melt deep into my soul,
The kindling rays of thy soft gaze,
Melt deep into my soul.

Thy being vibrates close to mine,
My will no more restrains.
The surging flood of love-hot blood
Pounds madly through my veins,
A raging beast, the tide released,
Pounds madly through my veins.

In thee I feel a kindred pulse,
I crush thee to my breast.
Upon thy face in that embrace
The seal of union's pressed,
In ling'ring bliss, a burning kiss,
The seal of union's pressed.

The clouds of doubt dissolve from view
And Paradise reveal,
And we are there, a God-sent pair,
For aye and aye, Lucille.
A man and wife confessed for life,
For aye and aye, Lucille.

—o—
The voice of fate breaks rudely in,
"Thy memory deceives,
"Thy cherished dreams, thy fancied scenes,
"Confuse realities.
"Thou wert not wed, thy hopes long dead
"Confuse realities."

"Alone thou wert, alone thou art,
"And ere shall be in truth.
"Thou seekest in vain to rekindle
"The ashes of thy youth,
"Aged o'er with mould, they lie all cold,
"The ashes of thy youth."

Ah, ruthless voice to break the spell
That frees me from my woes;
To call me back to torture's rack
To suffer endless throes,
To bend my knee to misery,
To suffer endless throes.

I've drunk of every bitter cup
Prepared by God above,
And of them all, the blackest gall
Is life without a love,
The deepest pain of all to drain
Is life without a love.

But hell alone that yearns for me,
To count my toll of sin,
Can 'clipse the rays of bygone days
Of that which might have been.
I'll dream in death to my last breath
Of that which might have been.

—Merle R. Chessman, '09.

Mu Mu Mu Pan Hellenic Formal

Scene: Tri Mu House—Meeting evening.

Time: Monday, April 1, 1913.

Curtain rises with girls purring at one another.

Chairman presides.

Chairman—"Girls, we must now discuss our list for the Pan-Hellenic Formal. We'll take the fraternities in alphabetical order. What A. T. O's do you want on the list? Vernon Motschenbacher is there already, and of course we'll have Mr. Ash; and how about Karl Onthank?"

Chorus of mews—"I should say not. He's just crazy about Ruth McClaren. He's never been very excited about us anyway."

Chairman—"So much for them. The next list is Beta Theta Pi. Hal Broughton, Karl Martzloff and Charlie Reynolds are on. We might have Herman Oberteuffer if he were not so terribly monopolized. Who else?"

Ann Taylor—"You girls don't have to have Hal just because he's my cousin."

Chorus (clawing the air)—"H'm, I gues there are several of us bidding for him, but we're losing out, we fear, to Rita Fraley."

Chairman—"Remarks overruled. Kappa Sigs next."

Flo Cleveland—"Be sure Glen is down."

Mildred Waite—"Of course we'll have brother Fen, and how about Del Stanard? Hazel would appreciate it if we asked him."

Freshman—"Gavin Dyott has been just too sweet the last two weeks, trying to get a bid. Let's sting him."

Chairman—"All right. No other Kappa Sigs? How about the Phi Delts?"

Maud Mastick—"Girls, you will be awfully surprised. I am going to ask Ray Giles."

Chairman—"Fijis next."
 Many Voices—"Ray Sweeney, Allie Grout, Bill Ryan, Henry Trowbridge, Ralph Cake—"
 Chairman (interrupting)—"Silence! We can't have so many Fijis. Who shall we cut out?"
 Voice—"Ralph Cake. He's so crazy about Gretchen Sherwood anyway."
 Chairman—"Sigma Chis."
 Anne McMicken—"He isn't a Sigma Chi, but I'm going to ask Mason Roberts. Why don't some of you girls ask Mr. Buchanan?"
 Freshman—"I don't think he likes girls. He's been asked over here at least a dozen times, and always turns us down."
 Chairman—"How about it, girls?"
 Dead silence.
 Chairman—"No nominations? Well, that's the end of the Sigma Chis."
 Agnes McLauchlin (absent-mindedly)—"I forgot you said Sigma Chis. I've already asked Paul, you know."
 Ethel Tooze—"Girls, I just can't decide who to take. Can't you help me?"
 Chairman—"Maybe we'd better put several on the list for you, and let you choose the one you want later. You know it is a month before the event. Sigma Nus."
 Mildred Healy—"Do you suppose it would make Bob Bean sore to go with a guest?"
 Lucile Davis—"Maybe Wallace would be willing to take one. I'll ask him."
 Joe Moorhead—"We simply must have Everett Stuller. They do say he's engaged, but I think we ought to know him better. Don't you?"
 Chairman—"We'll stag him then."
 Freshman—"Have Dean Walker. They call him the Chi Omega chaperone, but—"
 Voice—"Yes, he never takes any of us, though."
 Chairman (frantic)—"Zeta Phis."
 All in unison—"Willard Shaver, by all means. He's so keen."
 Chairman—"Ten o'clock, and the list far from complete."
 Bess Wagner—"I move we leave the naming of the others to the committee. I've got a date with Joe Jones after meeting."
 Chairman—"Meeting's adjourned."
 Clamor—"I wish we could have more Kappa Sigs. We have so many Fijis. The Betas have done so much for us, we really ought to have more of them."

Stearns-Knight

The most discriminating buyers in both Europe and America own cars equipped with the famous Silent Knight Motor. They demand the best and they get it. The heart—the very soul—of every automobile, is the engine. Examine in detail every high grade car you can and tell us, if you can, in what single detail any one of them excels the STEARNS-KNIGHT. Then study the Knight Motor, which no other car in the Oregon market has, but which is now everywhere sweeping the field as the greatest engineering triumph known to the automobile world, and there can be but one conclusion. Ninety per cent of your automobile trouble is in your engine, and the largest percentage of that is valve trouble, which is entirely eliminated by the KNIGHT MOTOR.

ROYAL

STANDARD

With Two-Color Ribbon Tabulator Back-Spacer
Hinged Paper Fingers Tilting Paper Table

All the final touches of typewriter improvement are found at their best in the new Model 5 Royal, including several features found on no other machine.

Not the least of the many Royal features are its SIMPLICITY and DURABILITY. We have yet to learn of a Royal that has worn out in reasonable service.

The Royal is the machine of ECONOMY—not in the first cost alone, but also in the money it saves through years of perfect operation and practically repairless service. Read the Royal Guarantee; that's the basis upon which we want you to consider the Royal.

Get "The Royal Book"—
also Free Demonstration

We want to show Royal features and Royal superiority in your own office—and its unique fitness for any typewriter requirements however exacting.

$75 same as for Model 1 with Tabulator. No extras.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley Says:

"Pure food must be the foundation upon which the health of the nation is built, and you have one of the best illustrations of what can be done in feeding the people along the right lines with the right kind of food here in the Northwest in the dining service of the Northern Pacific Railway.

"The food served and its preparation should be a model for every railroad and hotel in America. It is superior to anything I have ever before found in a public eating place. Most of the food which they serve comes from their own model farms, and the way in which it is prepared should be copied by others who wish to serve the public food that is healthful. I travel a great deal and I am compelled to eat all kinds of food or go without, and it is a pleasure to praise when I find a cafe that makes every effort to serve healthful food, as is the case with this railroad and some of the hotels I have visited on this trip. All railroads of America should by all means copy the policy of the Northern Pacific."

One of Eugene's latest and most important industries is the manufacture of concrete SEWER PIPE, DRAIN TILE, PRESSED BRICK, BUILDING BLOCKS, BURIAL VAULTS ETC.

All concrete products are made from clean crushed rock and washed sand, combined with the proper amount of Standard Portland Cement.

The Sewer Pipe has been thoroughly tested and approved by the Engineering Department of the University, and is being laid in the city's extensive new sewer system.

To the Faculty of the University of Oregon:

Gentlemen:—I, A Strong Pigger, respectfully ask permission to register for the second semester, for the following reasons:

My time has been constantly occupied with my studies. Every day there is some class which demands my attention. Being very versatile, I have taken up many different subjects. I always spend my evenings in studying and in this way have picked up several little things which have been very dear to me. I am devoted to all my subjects and am always busy with them in the Library. They are so fascinating that I can't tell which one I like best. I trust you will not tear me away from them at this interesting stage and will reward my perseverance by a favorable consideration of my case.

To the Faculty of the University of Oregon:

Gentlemen:—I, Guzell de Booze, respectfully ask permission to register the second semester for the following reasons:

My poor work has been due to the fact that I had to carry too heavy a burden last semester. In my eagerness to drink at Wisdom's fountain, I fear I overloaded myself. I was intoxicated with what I was taking and stewed so much that my brain was continually in a whirl. My way was so difficult that I often staggered over the rough places and the assistance of my friends was required to help me along. But I can go no further. I am too full for words. Therefore I appeal to the sumpathies of my professors, who may have at some time been in the same conditions themselves.

To the Faculty of the University of Oregon:

Gentlemen:—I, Wood B. Starr, cannot see why my work has not pleased the faculty, when it has been so generously applauded by my fellow-students. I feel that I have covered a great deal of ground and have worked hard toward the goal for which I was striving. The cuts which I have received from my professors are almost more than I can stand. I beg the faculty not to end my promising career, for if I am allowed to remain, I know that I will become one of the shining lights of the college.

THE LIBRARY—IN APRIL

The lazy spell of Spring on all,
Our thoughts will wander from the book
That lies before us; if we look
Away a moment from the page
Our eyes will catch the sight of blue
Through open windows, and the call
Of All Outdoors comes drifting through
And lessons are forgot.
The walls around us seem a cage,
The sleepy sunshine lures us on
To dreams of—Surely that is not
The second bell for class! Great Scott!
Now one whole hour is gone!

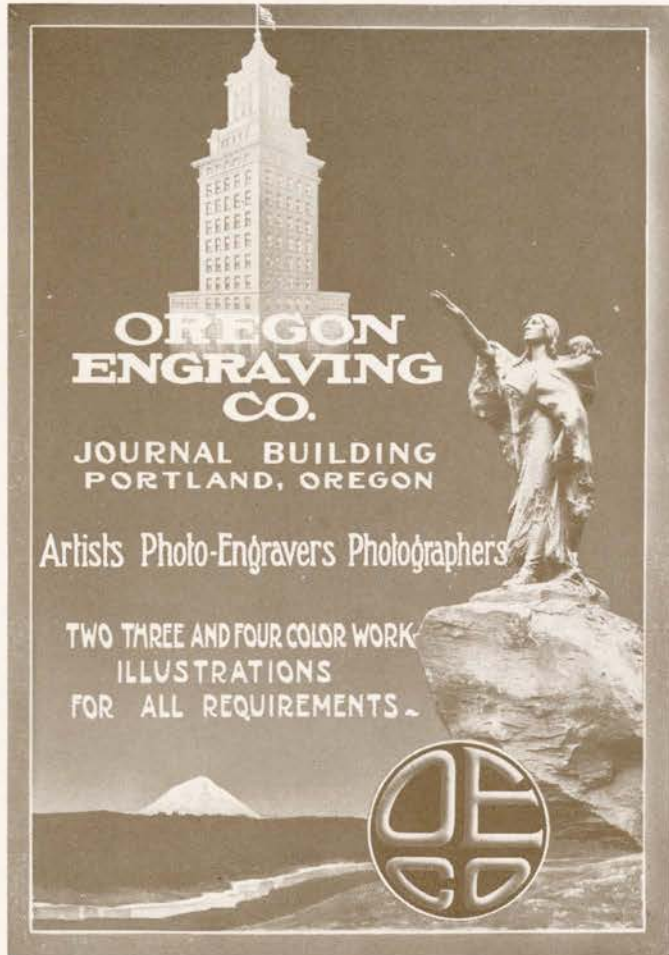

—Benson, '14.

FIVE EVENTS OF THE COLLEGE YEAR

November 3—Oregon, 3; O. A. C., 0.
January 6—Ralph Cake doesn't walk home with Gretchen Sherwood at noon. Reason:
Because it was Saturday.
April 1—Prokus passes into the Great Beyond.
April 3—Prof. Schmidt sends a pupil out of one of his classes for whispering—the first time this has happened for ten years.
May 11—We quit work—the Oregonians.

Prof. Cloran—"Who knows the best way to keep young? Why, by taking French, for I find by looking over our lists that some are just the same age that they were a year ago."

Congratulates the Student Body of

Oregon University

Because of the Unusual Worth of the ANNUAL FOR 1913

The officers of this company have pride in the splendidly efficient men and women Oregon University is giving to Oregon.

Before the school year of 1914 shall begin, the Portland, Eugene and Eastern Railway Company will have broadened the scope of the usefulness of the University by our construction of 340 miles of Electrical Interurban Railway, and the beginning of a service which will make the college available to the residents of all sections of the Willamette Valley.
