McCall Asks Johnson for Halt to 'Filth'

By MATT McCORMIC and BARR FIELDS of the Register-Guard

It's not so much what you say as how you say it that counts.

This seems to be the majority reaction to the letter Gov. Tom McCall sent to Acting University President Charles Johnson Wednesday. There have been charges of political motivation in the publication of the letter.

McCall said several Oregonians had sent him copies of a handbill issued by students for a Democratic Society. The SDS handbill used "offensive" illustrations and language.

"This is the second mailing piece in this disgusting vein which has been brought to my attention recently," McCall said.

He said he understood the pamphlets were processed on a student body machine, and advertised every to be held in a University building including a floor festival featuring the Columbia University revolt, Boston draft resistance, Black Panther Huey Newton, a seminar on draft resistance, and a musical performance.

"This seems to imply acceptance by the whole student body. I know this is not the case and must insist that this kind of depraved mischief be stopped," he said.

"There's no one more fair on free speech than I, but after seeing its abuse in these and other recent incidents, I'm afraid your way-out people are inviting restrictive sanctions by the Oregon Legislature such as those adopted by the Ohio State Assembly.

"I plead with you to exert a measure of control so that

Jones To Speak

ASUO President Dick Jones will speak today at 12:30 at the EMU Free Speech Platform. The subject will be the recent controversy over obscenity on the University of Oregon campus. Jones said he will openly discuss the criticism recently leveled at the University.

generally excellent campus climate is not drastically altered through an ever-gathering backlash reaction," the governor wrote.

Roy Lieuallen, chancellor of the State System of Higher Education, said Saturday he objected to the method McCall used in protesting the SDS pamphlet.

Lieuallen said that McCall's letter was probably justified, but said he objected to making the letter public. "It's how one deals with the problem that counts," Lieuallen said. "And it's important that the solution be worked out without the appearance of political pressure."

According to a Register-Guard article, Lieuallen said the general reaction of the academic community will be to view any corrective action taken as a response to political pressure.

When asked to comment on McCall's letter, ASUO President Dick Jones said the governor's action clearly illustrates that the University is considered by many to be a political as well as an educational institution.

"The public has been misled by a pandering press and supposed political leaders in believing that the Oregon student body and faculty are represented by a stated position of only one of the many student organizations on this campus," Jones said.

Jones continued, "There are adequate policies at this institution and laws of the nation and the state which clearly outline the rules for the dissemination of literature, the effective freedom of speech, the freedom of the press and the bounds of obscenity." He said that he felt none of these policies had been violated.

Any new policies invoked by either the University or the legislature, he said, would be "definite censorship."

Acting University President Johnson was unavailable for comment.

Blaine Ackley, a member of SDS, told the Emerald, "It's a typical reaction of a politician to sensational journalism."

"SDS feels the controversy over our leaflet is ridiculous and deserves no mention," Ackley said.

In a release published in the Register-Guard, another SDS member, Paul Gratz, said "This is not vulgarity for vulgarity's sake. This is a political statement using, if you will, a vulgar cartoon metaphor.

"If Gov. McCall and the community outside the University feels this is illegal, then they should go ahead and arrest us and use the proper court channels. We just think it's a bunch of political talk right now," the SDS statement said.

The governor is now on a trade mission to the Orient. His administrative assistant, Ron Schmid, told the Register-Guard that "McCall decided to write the letter because he believed the situation at the U. of O. had absolutely gone too far." Schmid said "the letter was made public in Salem because McCall felt the public should know of his concern about the situation."

McCall said that he made sure that Acting University President Johnson would receive the letter before it was made public. However, Johnson's office said that as of Friday morning, when he left the city, he had received no letter from the governor.

Decision Pending On Fine Legality

A test case involving the collection of University parking fines was heard in Lane County Circuit Court Friday.

Paul Nolte, a University law student, and Wolf von Otterstedt, assistant attorney general and attorney for the state system, have agreed to submit the case in writing rather than

The statute goes on to state that proceedings to punish violators of these regulations must be held in district court.

However, the three judges of the Lane County District Court — Frank Alderson, William Buckett and William Bartle — have refused to hear the campus cases because they question

REMEMBER
CHICAGO!

The Day Time Began

By Eugene McCarthy

Our days were yellow and green
we marked the seasons with respect,
but spring was ours. We were shoots
and sprouts, and greenings,
We heard the first word
that fish were running in the creek.
Secretive we went with men into sheds
for torches and tridents
for nets and traps.
We shared the wildness of that week,
in men and fish. First fruits
after winter. Dried meat gone,
the pork barrel holding only brine.
Bank clerks came out in skins,
teachers in loin cloths,
while game wardens drove in darkened cars,
watching the vagrant flares
beside the fish mad streams, or crouched
at home to see who came and went,
holding their peace
surprised by violence.

We were spendthrift of time
A day was not too much to spend
to find a willow right for a whistle
to blow the greenest sound the world
has ever heard.
Another day to search the oak and hickory thickets,
geometry and experience run together
to choose the fork, fit
for a sling.
Whole days long we pursued the spotted frogs
and dared the curse of newts and toads.

New adams, unhurried, pure, we checked the names
given by the old.
Some things we found well titled
blood-root for sight
skunks for smell
crab apples for taste
yarrow for sound
mallow for touch.
Some we found named ill, too little or too much
or in a foreign tongue.
These we challenged with new names.

Space was our pre-occupation,
infinity, not eternity our concern.
We were strong bent on counting,
the railroad ties, so many to a mile,
the telephone poles, the cars that passed,
marking our growth against the door frames.

The sky was a kite,
I flew it on a string, winding
it in to see its blue, again
to count the chirling swallows,
and read the patterned scroll of blackbirds turning
to check the markings of the hawks,
and then letting it out to the end of the last pinched inch of string, in the vise of thumb and finger.

One day the string broke,
the kite fled over the shoulder of the world
but reluctantly, reaching back in great lunges
as lost kites do, or as a girl running in a reversed movie, as at each arched step, the earth
set free, leaps forward, catching
her farther back
the treadmill doubly betraying,
Remote and more remote.

Now I lie on a west facing hill in October
the dragging string having circled the world, the universe, crosses my hand in the grass. I do not grasp it,
it brushes my closed eyes, I do not open
That world is no longer mine, but for remembrance
Space ended then, and time began.

Did you know there's a Sasquatch lurking in the Cascade Mountains? We didn't either until Mr. Donald Hunter was the guest speaker at one of our Thursday night dress dinners. And did you know that there are over 200 holey red socks tossed in drawers, under beds, in closets, and knotted in corners, reminders of our fall term Red Sox Fireside? And did you also know there were over fifty pumpkins transformed into jack-o-lanterns on Halloween and taken to children at Sacred Heart Hospital?

And how many of you are serenaded nightly by the melodious voices of the ATO's? And how many of you can leisurely soak in a bathtub of bubbles after a tiring weekend of skiing? Did you dine with your "one and only" at a Valentine Date Dinner, singing between mouthfuls? Are you looking forward to capturing first place in Canoe Fete and Spring Sing after taking third and second places respectively, last year? Were you spirited enough to journey down to the Cal-Oregon football game and afterward still have enough enthusiasm to attend an ADPi function at the house of sisters in Berkeley?

If this is news to you and you've been missing out, you don't know the ADPi's well enough.

During January's snow storm, the brothers participated in a variety of activities while school was closed. Pushing cars from the snow was one of them.

An active dream girl court makes for a happier house—especially at 6 a.m. Brother Fuller is being awakened by Kay Winn, one of the six dream girls.
