Cover in Words

In the near future a gigantic drive will be launched to raise funds for the long dreamed of Student Union building. Plans and details will be announced in a future issue of Old Oregon. The cover shows the area and a rough sketch of the proposed building. When it is completed Oregon alums, at future Homecomings, will truly have "A Home for Homecoming."

Active Alumni Chapters To Start In Seattle, San Francisco, L. A.

To keep pace with the tremendous post-war growth of the University of Oregon alumni association plans are now being made to initiate active alumni chapters in Seattle, Los Angeles and San Francisco, it was announced recently by Les Anderson, alumni secretary.

Anderson and alumni officials feel that such groups are warranted because of the large number of former students who now reside in these cities. Once organized, they could be of valuable service to the University in its expanding educational, athletic and building programs.

Previously only Eugene, Portland, New York and several smaller cities have had active alumni chapters. The new Washington and California chapters will be organized along the patten of these groups.

Anderson will meet with small groups at each of the cities in conjunction with the Friday night alumni reunions that will be held preceding Oregon football games. They are at Berkeley on October 4, Los Angeles November 1 and Seattle November 16.

Luncheon meetings will be held to discuss the organizations, appoint committees and select temporary officers to serve until elections can be held along with the general election of the alumni association in December.

Suggestions for such organizations have come not only from alumni headquarters but also from alumni in all of the areas. They show a sincere interest in establishing active chapters whose service to the University would be immeasurable.

Don Davis, '21, is in charge of the San Francisco organization, Douglas Farrell, '24, Los Angeles and Marshall Hopkins, '30, Seattle.

They will contact the alums who will compose the groups to meet with Anderson and make the plans to include all of the alumni in the respective regions.

The sponsoring of reunions such as those being held this year would be but one purpose of the new organizations. The inauguration of the Student Union campaign later this year will probably see these organizations proving their true worth, mainly because of the facility with which the major portion of the alumni can be solicited. Other activities suggested have been the establishment of scholarship funds, gifts and contact work for prospective students. Since at least one athletic contest is held in these cities each year, the organized support that could be given to Webfoot teams would be extremely helpful.

It is also believed that closer contact with the University could be obtained since many faculty and staff members often stop in these cities on other business, and could very easily meet with small groups of alumni and keep them informed on the latest developments at the University. An active social program could be added.

WEBFOOT SPIRIT OF 'OLD DAYS' TO GREET ALUMS AT HOMECOMING

Written for Old Oregon
By JUNE GOETZE, '49

OREGON'S 30th Homecoming weekend, October 18, 19 and 20, will be back to the level of those in the "old days" before the war with the return of the noise parade, enforcement of traditions, and full-size frosh bonfire, promises Benny DiBenedetto, general chairman of the annual gay event.

This year's theme will be "A Home For Homecoming," with the emphasis on providing the long-planned student union building for the campus.

Selection of a hostess, under the direction of Sue Schoenfeldt, will follow the same lines that have been used in the past. After each girls' living organization has selected its candidate for homecoming hostess, the alumni executive committee, composed of John Houston '22, Charles Huggins '22, C. R. Manerud '22 and Gordon Wilson '25, will narrow the field down to five finalists whose pictures will be exhibited in the Co-op. University students' vote will select the hostess.

Beginning at 1 p. m. Friday afternoon, alumni will register at Johnson hall under the supervision of members of Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, and Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary.

After their meeting at 2 p. m. the alumni executive committee will judge the Homecoming signs.

That evening will mark the big noise parade, the first to be held since the war emergency cancelled such plans. Led by the rally squad under Tom Hazzard, yell king, and the band, the parade will wind its way from house to house, finally ending at the frosh bonfire on Nineteenth avenue.

THE houses whose entry makes the most noise in the parade will be awarded the winner's cup at the rally to be held in McArthur court at 8:45 p. m. Emceed by Bob Moran, part of the rally will be broadcast over local Eugene stations, according to Helen Hicks and Hazzard, co-chairmen of the entertainment committee. Plans are also being made to have the program carried over Portland stations.

Songs by Lynn Renick and a campus quartet and music by the University band and a jazz band will be included in the rally entertainment. Dr. Harry K. Newburn, University president, and Tex Oliver, football mentor, will greet the alumni and give predictions on the outcome of the big game. Bob Moran and Dick Savinar are collaborating on plans for a skit.

Saturday morning will see the freshmen hard at work performing their traditional tasks under the supervision of Order of O members. At 10 a. m. freshmen will paint the O on Skinner's butte by the usual method of application—sliding down the concrete oval with paint-covered pants. Another group will be busy at the same time polishing the seal at the front of Villard hall to a glistening finish.

Violators of campus traditions—such as those prohibiting smoking on the campus and walking on the lawns—will be punished promptly, according to Marv Rasmussen, who is in charge of traditions. The penalty for offenders will be a dunking in the Duck Pond.

Guild theater in Johnson Hall will be the meeting place for all alumni Saturday at 11 a. m.

Order of O members have planned their annual luncheon for 11:45 a. m. at the College Side inn. Other alums will lunch at noon, according to plans made by Beryl Howard.

The Oregon-Washington State football game at Hayward field at 2 p. m. will be preceded by the parade of Order of O members and dedication ceremonies. Entertainment will also be provided during half-time.

The evening's big event, the Homecoming dance, will begin at 9 p. m. with Jack Teagarden, king of the blues trombone, and his band providing the music. Members of Druids, junior men's honorary, and Friars, senior men's honorary, will be tapped at this time.

Winners of the sign contest will be awarded their cups and the official Homecoming hostess will be introduced at the dance.

Living organizations will serve dinner Sunday afternoon, followed by open house at the art, music and library buildings.

A complete list of committee chairmen, as announced by Benny DiBenedetto, general chairman, consists of: Bob Matteson, promotion; Marty Pond, dance; Gloria Grenfell, publicity; Wally Johnson, noise parade; Dorothy Rasmussen, housing; Beryl Howard, luncheon; George Alexander, bonfire; Don Dole and Janet Hicks, sign contest; Tom Hazzard and Helen Hicks, entertainment; Marv Rasmussen, traditions; and Sue Schoenfeldt, hostess selection.

Top: Pi Beta Phi sorority won the sign contest last year with this giant portrayal of a newspaper's front page. Signs that year will be planned on the theme "A Home for Homecoming."

Center: Last year's bonfire was only a miniature affair compared to the gigantic Frosh bonfire being planned for Friday, October 18, at Amazon flats. The bonfire will follow the revived noise parade, and in turn will be followed by a mammoth rally in McArthur court.

Bottom: Saturday afternoon the Webfoots will meet Washington State in the Homecoming game at Hayward field. The game looms as a strictly even affair with an offensive duel between the Cougars' Bill Lippincott and Oregon's All-American Jake Leicht.

Webfoots Win Opening Game

COACH Tex Oliver's University of Oregon football team was ready for the big guns of the Pacific Coast conference following its 7 to 6 victory over College of Pacific in the first game of the season at Hayward field.

The scant victory over Amos Alonzo Stagg's COP team could give Webfoot pigskin followers little cause for optimism, but the performance of the Oregon touchdown twins, "Lightning" Jake Leicht and "Fireball" Jimmy Newquist, definitely tabbed the Webfoots a power not to be reckoned with lightly in this year's race.

In the time they worked together Newquist and Leicht gave an inspiring offensive performance. The former tallied Oregon's touchdown with a six-yard sprint through right tackle, and Leicht, whose repertoire of tricks includes the ancient art of dropkicking, added the extra point which proved the margin of victory.

The duo also poked a deadly passing combination, and twice in the first quarter they led the Webfoots to the shadows of Pacific's goal line, only to be turned back by a staunch Tiger line.

Leicht suffered a badly wrenched and bruised knee in the second quarter and saw no further action, but fears that he would be out for a while proved unfounded. Newquist was also injured, but the halfback combination was all ready to carry the mail in Oregon's first conference test against the University of California at Berkeley.

Duke Iversen, who does everything so well he's hardly noticed on the field, turned in an outstanding performance at quarterback against COP. He constantly cleared would-be tacklers from Newquist's or Leicht's path, and shone on defense. Fullback Bob Koch, the fourth member of Oregon's "million-dollar" backfield, also played well. He averaged 49-yards on four punts, including one coffin-corner boot.

Backfield reserves also performed well. Don Shaffer, quarter back, did some fine blocking. Bobby Reynolds, letterman halfback, passed and ran well, and saved one COP score, nailing a Tiger ball-packer on his way to pay dirt. Ken Maine, a freshman fullback from Coos Bay, picked up yardage in his brief performance.

The Oregon line, considered weak in all pre-season estimates, looked exceptionally good on defense, but its offensive work needs a lot of attention. The ends showed strength, including Tony Crish. Wayne Bartholem, George Dugan and Hymie Harris, who recovered a COP fumble that led to Oregon's touchdown.

Chuck Elliott, Howard Frary, Don Stanton and Pete Miller all showed promise at tackles. At guards John Kauffman and Bill Murphy played stellar ball, and Center Brad Ecklund, who saw action through most of the game, turned in an outstanding job.

Eight straight conference games without a break face the Webfoots next. After California they return to meet Montana and Washington State in their last home games, then hit the road for five more.

Howard Hobson, Oregon basketball and baseball coach, who was recently appointed to the 1948 Olympic Games committee. He is pictured when he was an army sports instructor in the Mediterranean theater.

Howard Hobson Named To '48 Olympic Post

Howard Hobson, University of Oregon basketball and baseball coach, whose teams have made Oregon's name famous for the length and breadth of the sports map, reaped further honors recently when he was appointed to the 1948 Olympic Games basketball committee.

Hobson received word of the appointment from Asa Bushnell, secretary of the United States Olympic Games association. He will confer with Bushnell when the Webfoot basketball team goes on its annual eastern barnstorming tour in December.

The Oregon mentor is also vice president of the national basketball coaches association and chairman of its research committee.

A conference ruling does not permit basketball practice to start until October 21. Pre-season prospects indicate that this year's maple team will be the best since the famed "Tall Firs" captured the national championship in 1939.

A number of lettermen, some of pre-war vintage, will be on hand, as well as some outstanding new prospects and the most talented freshmen ever to enroll at Oregon.

Hobson announced recently that Oregon will have three basketball teams this year. In addition to the varsity there will be a junior varsity quintet. Some sources have advocated a Northern division junior varsity league with the teams playing a home and home series, the JVs to play on the road while the varsity is at home. However, it is doubtful if this plan will be arranged and the JV team will probably play a schedule against local independent and small college teams. The freshman team will play its annual four-game series against the Oregon State Rooks plus games with high school teams.

Warren Drills JV Gridders

JOHN A. Warren, whose tenure at the University of Oregon has included about every coaching job and a number of sundry assignments in the athletic department, finds himself with the most novel of them all this year. He's coaching the Oregon junior varsity team.

In ordinary years Warren greets freshman football aspirants the first day of school, grills them in fundamentals and Oregon style of play to make them capable varsity contenders, sends them through a short schedule which they win much more often than they lose, and then prepares to do the same thing over again next year.

But that's not quite the case this year. First of all, it's not a freshman but a junior varsity team, and its members include players not quite capable enough for the varsity squad. Some of the freshmen are on the varsity, some sophomore on the junior varsity, and they are interchangeable at any time until a player has appeared in a varsity game.

Therefore, from day to day, Warren doesn't know just who he has on his team. But he's doing his usual excellent job of directing the squad in preparation for a three-game schedule. Currently, a squad numbering about 44 men have been going through their paces daily to get ready for the first game on the schedule against the Oregon State junior varsity team at Corvallis Friday night, October 18. Other games are against Southern Oregon college of education at Ashland Saturday night, November 2, and a return engagement with OSC at Hayward field Saturday afternoon, November 16.

Hayward Grooms Harriers For ND Cross Country Meet

Colonel Bill Hayward, the veteran and beloved track coach of the University of Oregon, is sending Webfoot cross-country runners through their paces daily in preparation for the coming season.

Only meet scheduled thus far for the Oregon harriers is the Northern division championship to be held at Moscow on Thanksgiving day. George Stapelton, who competed for the Webfoots last year when the meet was held at Spokane, is the only returning member of the squad. Several others are working out daily in preparation for the big event.

Oregon track hopes for next spring are the best in years. Enrolled at the University are George Rasmussen of Bend, who won the state championship in the pole vault and is regarded as the best prospect in this event since George Varoff of Oregon was world record holder; and Merlin White, Tigard, state prep champion last year in the 100- and 220-yard dashes.

New Art School Dean, Sidney Wahl Little, Heads List of 42 Additions to Oregon Faculty

By VICTORIA UTZ, '48

THE Oregon school of architecture and allied arts has a new dean, Sidney Wahl Little, who will fill the place left vacant by the death of Dean Ellis Fuller Lawrence early last spring. This appointment, along with 42 others, was announced this summer by President Harry K. Newburn.

Dean Little received his baccalaureate degree in 1929 from Cornell university and his master of architecture degree at Tulane university in 1942. He also studied at Ecole Beaux Arts, Fontainebleau, France, and at the American university in Florence, Italy.

Since 1937, he has been at Alabama Polytechnic institute as an associate professor in the school of architecture and arts, except for the three years he spent in the army.

Discharged in 1945 as a lieutenant colonel, Dean Little served overseas with the office of strategic services and was in charge of all native and American personnel in S.E.A.C., India and China.

Dean Little is chiefly a designer and design critic, and is considered outstanding in his field.

The increased enrollment in the architecture school has necessitated the addition of five instructors to the school staff: Charles Bryan Ryan, Gerald Peter Landit, Freda Harshberger, Mark R. Spönenburgh, Fredrick H. Heidel and Chandler D. Fairbank.

A EUGENEAN, Ryan is a graduate of the University and did his early work here as an instructor in scientific drawing in the sociology department. Oregon also claims Fredrick H. Heidel, who did his graduate work at Columbia and spent several years abroad. Mr. Spönenburgh, who also studied abroad, has received four prizes for his sculptures and has several works on display in permanent collections in America and Paris. He will be an instructor of sculpture. Fairbank, a Portland man, has recently been connected with the firm of Thompson and Thielan, landscape architects. His early training was at Carlton college, the University of Michigan and Yale.

Dr. Irwin M. Newell, former staff member of the famed Oceanographic institution at Woods Hole, Massachusetts, has been appointed instructor in the University biology department. Dr. Newell received his baccalaureate and master's degrees from Washington State college and later received a master of science and doctoral degree from Yale university.

The chemistry department will have two new members, Dr. Hans Heymann and Dr. Donald S. Swinehart. Dr. Heymann formerly was private assistant to Harvard's Professor L. F. Fieser, as well as an instructor and lecturer in chemistry at the same university. Dr. Swinehart has been connected with the Los Alamos laboratories and the research labs of the Eastman Kodak company of Rochester, New York.

Lt. Col. Henry W. Hall Jr., who was a member of the University's ROTC staff for several years before the war, has returned to his former post. He has many friends among Oregon alums, having trained a number of Webfoot officers who served during the war.

THIS fall will be a homecoming for Dr. Paul Ellis, who left Oregon 13 years ago after receiving his master's degree from the school. He will return as an associate professor in the economics department. He has been an instructor at St. Helen's hall junior college, the College of the City of New York, and Columbia. Edwin Clyde Robbins, Jr., '38, who received his M.A. from Harvard, will also join the staff of the economics department.

A new professor of education, Dr. Paul Edward Kambly, will come to Oregon from the State University of Iowa, where he has been an associate professor of education. A graduate of Illinois State normal school in 1930, he received his master's and doctoral degrees from the State University of Iowa.

In answer to the enlarged English classes, the University English department has made 12 additions to its staff. Edwin L. Clark, a midwesterner, will be an instructor in the division of speech and drama, and Glennie Mae Early, an instructor specializing in English literature. Charles R. Boak, Norman H. Oswald, Maxine Louise Gordon, Martha Lucille McMullen, William John Stevens, E. Glen Bevard and Frank William Tate are also joining the staff as instructor.

Dr. John C. Sherwood, a graduate of Lafayette, and a former Yale student, will be a new assistant professor of English.

Shirley K. Anderson, '45, Phi Beta Kappa who received her M.A. in '46, is back this year as mathematics instructor.

Dr. A. U. F. Zieglachmid, authority on German folklore, history, religion and music, is coming to Oregon as an exchange professor from Northwestern university. Besides taking over the work of Dr. George F. Lussky, he will continue research on German folklore, material for which he expects to find in the Pacific Northwest.

Dr. Joel V. Barreman, who recently completed four years of government service, has been named an associate professor of sociology. In the political science department, Dr. Paul S. Dull of the University of Washington is a new assistant professor. A specialist in international relations and Far Eastern studies, Dr. Dull served during the war in the marine corps as a Japanese language expert.

Newcomers on the library staff are Miss Margaret William and Miss Anita Brown.

A regular army officer with 28 years of active service, Col. John E. McCammon, is to head the department of military science, replacing Major W. S. Averill. Lt. Col. Henry W. Hall, Jr., at Oregon before the war, has returned to the staff.

New members of the women's physical education department are Mrs. Jennelle Moorhead, Vernon S. Sprague, Mary Bowman, Jeannette Ann Masionis and Rose Sowa.

Charles Frederick Ziebart will join the business administration school as an associate professor. A Washington State alumnus, he did his graduate work at the University of Chicago.

A well-known artist of the opera and concert stage, Herman Gilhausen, has been added to the music school as an associate professor of voice. Milton Alie-trich of Chicago will be an instructor in cello and piano.

Dr. William L. Winter, Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the State University of Iowa, who comes as an instructor in history, is the final faculty addition.

Information Please Office In Johnson

Although office space on the campus is at a premium, a new office has been established to answer the unending questions of students. Because of the increased enrollment a general information office has been opened on the first floor of Johnson hall under the direction of Miss Barbara Beals of Eugene.

Registration information will continue to be handled from the second-floor office in Johnson hall.

Friendly hall, Room 6, now houses Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, University housing secretary, who formerly occupied the new general information office, Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration, who has recently moved from Johnson, and Miss Dorothy Doering, in charge of the office of graduate placement service.

THE EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES BOARD:

It Governs a Maze of Student Activities And Is Managed by Capable Dick Williams

Dick Williams, '41, educational activities manager of the University of Oregon, directs a maze of student activities from his office in McArthur court. An outstanding undergraduate, Williams assumed his position in the fall of 1941, saw three years of service with the navy and returned to his job last April.

UNDER the assumption that complete college education is not obtained solely in the classroom or library, the University of Oregon promotes a complete extra-curricular activities program under the guidance of an educational activities board.

The board conducts its maze of activities under the direction of an educational manager, but actually it is purely advisory to the president of the University, who is responsible for its functions.

A smooth-working organization at present, the board is an outgrowth of the now defunct Associated Students organization. It was created in the spring of 1936 when the Associated Students organization, badly in debt and poorly organized, went to Valentine C. Boyer, then president of the University, and said, in effect, "Bail us out, we're in a hopeless situation."

It was decided that the president was to have complete authority over all extra-curricular activities, but since this was too much for one man to handle, the athletic and educational activities boards were formed to act in an advisory capacity. This plan was approved by the state board of higher education.

In its first year of operation the board had various sub-committees on publications, lyceum and forensics, etc., but it found that the "off" committees didn't work. They were absorbed by the board and it evolved as it operates now. The board became free of debt in about six years and is now well in the black.

The first educational activities manager was Ralph S. Schomp. He was succeeded in 1937 by George G. Root, who held the position until 1941, when Richard C. Williams became acting manager. In efficient and hard-working Dick Williams the University chose an outstanding undergraduate. How Williams decided on the University of Oregon for his schooling is an interesting story as well as a fortunate quirk of fate.

Williams graduated from Hollywood high school in 1933. A bad case of pneumonia kept him out of school for a year, and he then attended Los Angeles junior college. This was at the height of the depression, and after knocking about at various jobs he decided a college education was a necessary thing.

Into a hat went the names of five schools—Washington, WSC, Arizona, OSC and Oregon—and out of it came the name of one—Oregon. In April, 1936, Williams left California with 22 dollars in his pocket, bent on an education at Oregon. He hitch-hiked to Eugene and arrived not knowing a single person.

Odd jobs kept him going, but among other things, Dick Williams knows what it's like to miss a meal. He took a job with the PGE in Portland, helping to install new trackless trolleys. He established his residency in Oregon and in September, 1937, entered the University.

A good student, Williams had an even better activities record. He was yell leader his sophomore year, won two letters in tennis and held membership in Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's service honorary; Friars, senior men's honorary; Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity; and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. His most outstanding achievement was holding the position of business manager of the Oregonian for three years, an unprecedented and still unequalled record.

In June, 1941, two days before he graduated, Williams married Miss Marjorie Jane Kellogg of Portland, a student at the University. They have three sons, Kenneth Gerrard, 4, Thomas Charles, who will soon be 3, and Robert Edgar, 1.

Williams entered the navy in the spring of 1943, and saw service in the Pacific, Japan and China. He went on terminal leave as a lieutenant junior-grade in March, 1946, and immediately reassumed his duties at the University.

The board controls everything extra-curricular in nature except athletics, Dad's Day and Mother's Day. However, the major share of Homecoming is handled by the alumni association.

Everything extra-curricular in nature takes in a wide range of territory. It includes all campus publications—Oregonian, Emerald, Pigger's Guide, Lemon Punch and Ore-enter—the band, orchestra, concerts, which are sponsored in a Greater Artist concert series in cooperation with the Eugene civic music association, educational motion pictures, Odeon, Homecoming and Junior Weekend.

In addition the board handles all student dances in cooperation with the classes and organizations that sponsor them. It stands back of all classes and all campus honoraries. It controls the check room and concessions. It works with the

Grads Passed On

A past president of the Oregon Dads' club, Rudie H. Hochuli, died of a heart attack at his Portland home September 19. Mr. Hochuli, new car sales manager for Arthur L. Fields Chevrolet Co., had been associated with the automobile business for 30 years. He was active in community projects including war bond and Community Chest drives.

His son, Major Robert Gunning Hochuli, '40, was killed August 12, 1945, while commanding a bombing squadron over Kyushu, Japan. Double funeral services were held for father and son.

Yosuke Matsouka, LL.B., 1900, former foreign minister of Japan who concluded the neutrality pact with Russia in 1941 and was a defendant in the war crimes trials, died June 27, 1946, at Tokyo Imperial University hospital. He had been suffering from tuberculosis for many months.

Robert C. Ingle, '40, a veteran of world war II, died August 14 in a Corvallis hospital. Burial was at the Mt. Crest Abbey mausoleum in Salem. Mr. Ingle was born in Corvallis April 15, 1917. He attended OSC before going to Oregon, where he belonged to Yeomen and played in the band.

Mr. Ingle was a member of the 123d observation squadron of the army air corps and flew over North Africa, Sicily and Italy. In April, 1943, he was hospitalized in Cairo with a blood infection. Recently he was retired from the army with the rank of captain. His widow, the former Melva Bull of Bakersfield, California, a two-year-old daughter, his mother, and three sisters survive.

Mrs. Margaret Warren, '29, wife of John Warren, '28, freshman athletic coach at the University, died suddenly of a heart attack September 11.

She was born October 4, 1908 in Portland, and was a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority and of the Eugene Welfare league. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Warren is survived by two daughters, Corlele and Susan, her father, A. W. Arnold of Portland, and her brother, Kenneth Arnold also of Portland.

Miss Marjorie Phipps, '43, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Phipps, '19, (Mary Cellars, '19), died very suddenly on June 8 of a cerebral hemorrhage, at the home of her sister, Mignon Phipps Michele, '40, in Milwaukie. Miss Phipps had been librarian in the junior high school in Coos Bay since her graduation from the University.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Mabel Howard Boynton on August 18, in Whittier, California. Mrs. Boynton was the wife of Dr. W. P. Boynton, who taught on the Oregon campus from 1903 to 1932, receiving an honorary degree in 1937. While in Eugene, Mrs. Boynton was president of the Women's Union of the First Baptist church. Surviving are a daughter, Dorothea Boynton Wegner, '22, who was married Commencement Day to W. R. Wegner, '22; and a sister, Mrs. H. E. Holmquist, of Cheney, Washington.

Once Lagging Student Interest Bogged Down Fun; Since Then--

Written for Old Oregon
By BARBARA JOHNS, '48

HOMECOMING with its thrills and gaiety is again facing eager Webfoots—the post war version. This traditional fall weekend has had ups and downs since its beginning in 1929. War and shortages have halted activity. Now Joe College has returned and is injecting a new spirit at Oregon and reviving old traditions. This is a time for reminiscing over past Homecoming weekends.

Ah, yes, back in the longer-than-long skirted days of 1933 an ultimatum was drafted insisting that traditional Homecoming signs would have to be abolished because of, mind you, lack of interest among students and uncertainty of the weather. Too much Duck dew. Oregonians substituted floats for signs and changed the Frosh-Flaming-O, constructed purely from fireworks on Skinner's butte, to the now-famous Frosh bonfire. Their designated aim in 1933 was more alumni participation. Jack Cate, '34, was Homecoming chairman that year.

That was merely the beginning. In 1937 Webfoots witnessed the largest bonfire in Oregon's history, and the Eugene Armory opened its doors for the first time for a grand alumni get-together.

WITH the slogan "Oregon Is Going Places" and the introduction of a new president, the late Dr. Donald Erb, and a new football coach, Tex Oliver, Oregon initiated its 1938 Homecoming with an old-fashioned noise parade down Willamette street. Paul Whiteman and orchestra were present, too, and helped dedicate Oregon's brand new half-a-million library. Galli-Curci, soprano, sang in the Igloo, and Friars, senior men's honorary, tapped. Also noted at this homecoming were the openings of the Murray Warner art collection, the museum of natural history, and the John Henry Nash collection.

On Armistice day weekend in 1939, alumni were called "Home to Honor Oregon." Burton Barr, '40, was in charge of the celebration, which was highlighted by a frosh torchlight parade, and a bonfire on the Amazon river flats. In the 1938 Homecoming parade, the winning float was the chassis of a model-T Ford mounted on a truck. Chains were tied to the rear wheels. When the motor was raced, the chains hit huge circular saws, and the students on the float drove compressed-air hammers against them.

"Come conscription, high water, or number seven," traditions of hello walk and millracing were revived with "Remember When" in 1940, with Joe Gurley, '41, as general chairman. Prizes were given for the largest registration of alums among the living organizations. Affording competition to the UCLA-Oregon game was the Frosh-Rook scrimmage, sponsored by the freshman and sophomore classes.

"Blitz the Beavers" was the homecoming cry in 1941 when an all-campus rally and mix was held. Past Order of the O men lunched in Gerlinger, and the game was dubbed "strictly a sell-out." The campus was decorated in green and yellow, and honoraries helped University buildings in sponsoring progress displays. Russ Hudson, '43, was general chairman.

WITH many Oregon men at war, students left behind greeted alumni in 1942 with "The Home Fires Are Burning." On the football field, Oregon defeated UCLA, but the Bruins made the Rose Bowl. A banner of red, white and blue was given to the organization with the most men in service. Tommy Dorsey, Dick Haymes and Joe Stafford entertained the Ducks in the Igloo. Also in the Igloo, students rallied to hear a campus talent radio broadcast. The general chairman for this homecoming was Pat Cloud, '43.

That was the end of homecoming activity until the Ducks were able to "Revive in '45" with a tilt between their 51-year-old rival, the Beavers. OSC won 13 to 12. Two highlights of the weekend, under the chairmanship of Bill McLennan, '46, were a Homecoming revival show and the half-time trek on Hayward field of 30 Order of the O men. The ROTC fired a 21-gun salute and the Oregon band sounded taps in a dedication ceremony for Oregon's world war II dead. Campus open houses followed the game, and Eddie Miller and his orchestra played for the Saturday night Homecoming dance at the Igloo. For the first time in three years McArthur court was capacity-filled.

And Homecoming for 1946? Approximately 5,500 students are now enrolled in the University. The war is over. Here we go!

Beech Trees Memorial Given

IN memory of the late Louis Forniquet Henderson, who was curator of the University herbarium until his death in 1942, a memorial is to be placed on the cross axis of the library mall, south of Condon hall. Six European beech trees and in inscribed oaken bench have been donated for the memorial by Mr. Henderson's daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Strong, and family, of Tacoma.

The curator came to the University in 1924, and in 1926 received an honorary master's degree. He was greatly interested in the native plants of Oregon, and discovered a number of them. Certain plants have been named for him.

Born in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1853, Professor Henderson received his baccalaureate degree from Cornell university in 1874. He taught in Oakland and in Portland, and as head of the botanical department in the University of Idaho before coming to Oregon.

During his student days at Cornell he was a member of the first grew crew of Courtney's. He was a member of the Portland Rowing association and of Mazamas. In addition he belonged to Sigma XI, national science honorary.

Besides being curator, Mr. Henderson was a professor of research botany. He was retired at the age of 86 as professor emeritus.

A Month on the Campus

Written for Old Oregon
By BARBARA GILBERT, '48

SEPTEMBER was busy on the University of Oregon campus. There was a hectic week of rushing—colored ribbons and bright new pins—a pledge dance. There was freshman week—conferences—examinations—meetings—parties. There was registration—endless lines—changing schedules—Saturday classes. There was moving—crowded quarters—new people—chow lines. There was organizing—elections—assemblies. And football was in the air. September was busy and the students hurried down the walks, dry, brown leaves crackling under their feet, intent on the business at hand and full of enthusiasm for a new year of work.

MANY PLEDGE HOUSES

Climaxing a rush week which marked the first formal rushing for fraternities since the war, 149 men and 239 women were pledged to Oregon fraternities and sororities. Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi led the list in number of pledges with 20 men each while the Alpha Chi Omega pledge class totaled 22 girls, followed by Chi Omega with 21. The large number of pledges meant that house quotas were nearly filled and there would have to be changes in plans for open rushing.

NEW ENROLLMENT RECORD

Registration began on Wednesday, the 18th, in McArthur court. On Monday it moved to Johnson hall where lines of registrants spilled out down 13th street from the second floor. On Thursday

President Newburn announced that enrollment had reached 5522—a total surpassing last spring term's all-time high of 3800. Many more were expected by the end of the month.

HOUSING STILL SHORT

An almost doubled student body meant added housing difficulties. Women were crowded five in a room at Hendricks and Susan Campbell halls and three units of John Straub were turned over to women. Approximately 400 veterans filled Hudson house No. 1, new veteran dormitory south of the education building, and another similar building was expected to house more men when it is completed winter term. The new dormitories are temporary buildings moved from the Kaiser shipyards in Vancouver but, according to Will V. Norris, supervising engineer, are well-designed, air-conditioned and contain air-circulating heat and adequate plumbing.

Residents of the new dorms were considering names for the buildings and seemed to favor the plan to name them after Oregon students lost in action during the war.

Married veterans and their families occupied the ever-growing community of pre-fabricated and trailer houses but hundreds were forced to give up school for lack of accommodations.

FEEDING NEW PROBLEM

Over-crowding also meant the problem of serving meals. Approximately 1200 students lined up for a block to eat at John Straub and those who had 11 and 1 o'clock classes didn't eat because lines were too long. Everyone was looking forward to the first of November when a cafeteria composed of two quonset huts, which will be connected to the two Hudson houses, would be ready to feed 1000 men. Meals at Hendricks were not being served this month for lack of help.

QUONSETS ADDED

To relieve the crowded classrooms, five quonset huts and two steel-craft buildings were under construction for use as English and mathematics classrooms and offices, an architecture laboratory and a geography laboratory. Steel-craft buildings were to be used by the music school for practice rooms.

FIRST ASSEMBLY HELD

Winding up a busy freshman week, ASUO president Tom Kay, '47, introduced Webfoot publication and honorary heads and other campus leaders to a packed freshman audience at the first ASUO assembly of the year, and students were given an opportunity to personally meet University officers, faculty members and outstanding students at the president's reception. Fashioned on the old pre-war lines, the traditional "Hello" dance featured the music of the "College All-Stars."

RALLY STARTS GRID SEASON

Oregon's first and largest post-war extravaganza, beginning with a rally and winding up with a "kick-off" dance, ushered in the 1946 football season. Led by Tom Hazzard, '45, yell king, a snowball rally aroused football spirit with songs and yells and introductions of members of the football team and Coach Tex Oliver. The combined choruses of Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Tau Omega, the University band and a special jazz combo provided music for the program.

Ending Kick-Off weekend was a victory dance in McArthur court with the music of Ted Hallock's new 14 piece orchestra.

RALLY SQUAD SELECTED

Exceptional interest in student activities was evidenced when ASUO President Tom Kay asked for petitions for positions on the rally squad from which four women were to be picked. Two hundred petitions came in and after days of interviewing and eliminating the new members of the squad were Hal Schick, Bob Lewis, Pattie Beaton, Barbara Vowles, Diane Mead and Marguerite Reardon.

STUDES HEAR NEWBURN

Turning to the serious side, students heard President Harry Newburn stress the importance of the academic phase of University life. With so many thousands of earnest veterans turned away from colleges and universities all over the country for lack of housing, he pointed out, it would be a shameful thing to be taking up valuable university space merely for the social life. He also predicted that because the student body was older and showed more seriousness and enthusiasm for their work than ever before, the coming year would be the most interesting, exciting and competent year since the founding of the University.

SERVING THREE GREAT GROUPS OF PEOPLE

From statement by Walter S. Gifford, President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, at 1946 Annual Meeting of stockholders

"It is not without significance that our Annual Report opens with the statement that 'The Board of Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company presents herewith the management's accounting of its stewardship for the information of stockholders, employees, telephone users and the entire American people who have entrusted to private enterprise the responsibility for carrying on this essential national service.'

"There is every reason for the management of your company to treat equitably each of the three parties concerned, namely, the telephone users, the employees and the stockholders. For in the long run, the interests of these three great groups of people, individually and collectively, are mutual and interdependent.

"More and better service at the least cost is as much in the interests of stockholders and employees as it is of the telephone users.

"Well-paid employees with steady employment; with opportunities open to all for advancement; and with reasonable protection against contingencies of illness, accident, death and old age are as much to the benefit of telephone users and stockholders as to employees.

"A stable and fair return on the money invested in the business—sufficient to attract the new money needed to develop and expand facilities—is as good for the telephone users and employees as it is for the stockholders."

1932—Mrs. Hope Shelley Miller (Mrs. Robert T. Miller), 1816 Silver, Logansport, Indiana.

Cal Bryan, '32, left last month for Washington, D. C., to take over duties as captain in charge of the food service division and as assistant in general supply in the army air forces. He will be with the air quartermaster's office in AAF headquarters in the Pentagon building. Bryan left the war as a lieutenant colonel and was appointed Lane county assessor some weeks ago but meanwhile the appointment as captain was received. Mrs. Bryan (Margaret Feulner, '36) and their two children will join him in Washington as soon as housing can be arranged.

William W. Knight, '32, who has been secretary of the Pacific Northwest Newspaper association since 1939, took over the position of business manager of the Portland Journal September 30.

A graduate of the University law school, Knight practiced in Roseburg. In 1935 he represented Douglas county in the state legislature.

1933—Mrs. Jessie Steele Robertson (Mrs. George H. Robertson), 6425 S.E. 40th, Portland, Oregon

Colonel Kermit D. Stevens, '33, commanding officer of Alamogordo army air field in New Mexico left in August for Maxwell field at Montgomery, Alabama, where he is attending the air command and staff school at the air university. The course will last nine months.

Dr. and Mrs. John F. G. Hicks, '33, (Sally Runes, '32) have been visiting in Portland during the summer, having flown here from Sao Paulo, Brazil. Dr. Hicks is a research chemist with the Corning Glass Works of New York, but the past year has been in Sao Paulo acting as technical and scientific consultant for Brazil's leading glass manufacturing company, an affiliate of Corning Glass Works of South America.

1934—Mrs. Frances Johnston Dick, (Mrs. William G. Dick), 260 East Wilson St., Salem Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Y. Thornton, '35 (Dorothy Haberlach, '34) began in mid-September a post-war vacation trip to Hawaii. They plan to remain six weeks and visit Oregon and army friends.

1935—Miss Pearl L. Base, 5732 N. Interstate, Portland, Oregon

Elinor Stevenson, '35, is back in Portland after receiving her discharge from the navy as a lieutenant junior grade. She was one of the few women privileged to wear the wings of naval air navigator. On her way back to Portland she visited with Mrs. Helen Jones Tennant, '37, who was recently released from the marine women reserves. Elinor reports that Helen and her husband are now attending the University of California.

Miss Valborg V. Anderson, '35 (MA, '38), has been named an instructor in the English department of Temple university in Philadelphia. Miss Anderson taught at the University from 1938 to 1943. She will be granted a doctorate from Brown university next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Mountain, 35, (Edith Clark, '37), are the parents of a daughter, Mary Wallace, born September 12 in Honolulu.

1936—Miss Ann Reed Burns, 2610 S.W. Vista, Portland, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Taylor, '36 (Martha Williams, '35) have moved from Seattle to Portland, where Mr. Taylor has joined the engineering firm of Moffatt, Nichol, and Taylor. The Taylors have two children, Sue, 7, and Fred, 3.

James M. Clinton, '36, has been appointed supervisor of personnel and training for the unemployment compensation commission of Oregon. Mr. Clinton served during the war as classification officer in the navy and later as a communications officer.

1937—David B. Lowry, Bear Creek Orchards, Medford, Oregon.

George Scharpf, '37, and William Scharpf, '43, have opened a retail building material store in Albany to be known as Scharpf Brothers.

1938—Mrs. Gayle Buchanan Karshner (Mrs. Don W. Karshner), Box 76, Arcata, Calif.

Clyde L. Walker, '38, has been chosen secretary of the "Donagh for Governor Drive." Another key position in this drive will be held by J. Boatner Chamberlain, '30, who will be vice chairman. Both men are veterans of World War II. Walker was an army officer who served through the Normandy campaign and Chamberlain saw action as an officer in the navy.

Colonel Robert P. Kidder, '38, has been appointed as chief of special services for the Roseburg veterans hospital. He will be in charge of recreation, athletics, library, chaplain and canteen activities, and also coordinate the volunteer services performed by the Red Cross, service organizations and other groups. Colonel Kidder is a veteran of World War II.

1939—Jean Homes, 174 Morris St., Sebastopol, Calif.

Mortimer Heinrich, '39, has been elected an instructor at Washington State college. He served during the war in the Pacific area as a member of the sixth army with the rank of second lieutenant in the intelligence section. He had previously served as a member of the Berkeley police department. Since returning from the service, he has been on the Eugene staff of the Commercial Credit corporation. Mrs. Heinrich (Elizabeth Onthank, '39) and their three-year-old son are accompanying him to Pullman.

Zollie M. Volchok, '39, has been promoted to Seattle district manager of Sterling Theatres, Inc., of Oregon and Washington.

1940—Roy Vernstrom, 2736 N.E. 8th Ave., Portland, Oregon.

Miss Mary Thatcher, '40, added championship honors to her medalist honors in a golf tournament at Columbia-Edge-water golf links in Portland August 9.

Wendell Brooks, '40, is in Dow City, Iowa, as publisher of the Dow City News. He purchased the paper last April.

Mary E. Hughes, '40, has been promoted to master sergeant in the Wacs, it was announced recently from Baltimore. Before joining the Wacs she was employed as librarian in North Bend high school for two years. She is a member of the American Association of University Women and the Evangeline Chapter of O.E.S. at Eugene.

After four years in the navy as a flight instructor, Bob Wintermute, '40, has returned to civilian life and gone into the importing and exporting business. He and Mrs. Wintermute (Katherine Babcock, '42), are living in Portland.

1941—Mrs. Majeon Glover Werschkul, 5460 N.E. Sandy Crest Ter., Portland 13, Oregon (Apt. 4).

Lifelong Incomes

when General Electric men and women retire

Every General Electric employee with a year or more of service will be eligible to receive a life income upon retirement, offered under the provisions of the company's greatly broadened and expanded Pension Plan.

This plan provides a pension for the years already worked, at no cost to employees. For this, the company pays the entire cost, estimated at $100,000,000.

To increase this retirement income as the years go on, employees and the company will jointly contribute to the fund. On the average, about two-thirds of future costs will be paid by the company.

This plan makes 100,000 more employees eligible under the company Pension Plan. Over 40,000 employees were already in line for pensions under plans begun by General Electric as early as 1912.

The new program—one of the most advanced in the industry—is part of General Electric's long standing objective to help employees provide security for themselves and their families, both through the years of productive work, and upon retirement.

It is another General Electric "job dividend" like employee insurance, profit sharing, and financial help in case of sickness or accident.

"Job dividends" like these help make General Electric a good place to work. They help to attract and hold the kind of men and women who are responsible for the company's growth and success. And they demonstrate General Electric's belief that making good jobs is an important part of making fine products.

HOUSING

... is a tough problem this year and Eugene is no exception. With a 5500 plus student body and a rapidly growing community, rooms are really scarce. The hotels hung out the "No Vacancy" sign for Homecoming months ago, but fortunately we were able to contact a few townspeople who are willing to open their homes to any alumni who are planning on coming for the week-end.

So if you do not have a room, write to us before October 10, to the Homecoming Housing Committee, Alumni Office, University of Oregon, and although we can't definitely promise you a room, we'll do our best for you and let you know the outcome well in advance.

Pacific Coast Church Leaders Engaged For Religious Week

Written for Old Oregon
By LAURA OLSON, '49

Religious Emphasis week, which will feature at least ten prominent Pacific coast speakers, will be held on the campus October 27 through November 1. Carl C. Webb, assistant professor of journalism, is general chairman of the event; Martha Thorsland, student chairman; and Dr. Harry K. Newburn, honorary chairman.

Prominent westerners in Eugene for the event will include Buel Gallagher, Dr. Donald Tippets, Bishop Karl Morgan Block, Dr. David D. Eitzen, Dr. Perry E. Gresham, the Rev. Howard Norman, Dr. Vere V. Loper, Dr. James Millar, the Rev. William Genne, Father Martin Dougherty and Rabbi Alfred Wolf.

Sunday, October 27, the visitors will occupy pulpits in Eugene churches, and appear in the evening at a union service in McArthur court. During the week they will hold forums, appear in classes, at living organizations and downtown.

They will also take part in a Thursday evening assembly.

Chairmen for each committee include a student and a faculty advisor, as follows: Martha Thorsland and Charles Howard, professor of law, programs; Barbara Johns and Dean Karl W. Onthank, arrangements; Barbara Fullmer and Donald Allton, assistant professor of organ and theory of music, union meeting; Tom Hazzard and W. A. Dahlberg, associate professor of speech and dramatic arts; Margery Skordahl and Quirinus Breen, associate professor of history, personal conferences; Joan William, Bill Barnum and Leavitt Wright, professor of Romance languages, hospitality and pages; Don McNeil and Marvin Krenk, instructor in speech and dramatic arts, publicity; Dr. Wesley Ballaine, associate professor of business administration, faculty arrangements; Dorothy Rasmussen, programs and rooms; Ellen Sutherland, book exhibit; Beverly Pittman and V. P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, arrangements for forums and classroom appointments.

Captain Cecil Hunt, left, and his son, Cecil Jr., a University of Oregon alum, were both killed in the war. A member of the class of '43, Hunt Jr. was posthumously awarded the silver star.

War Death Takes Both Father, Son

One of Oregon's greatest tragedies of the war was the death of Lieut. Cecil Hunt, Jr., '43. He was killed by shrapnel January 1, 1945, while serving with the army in Europe. Announcement was made recently of the posthumous award of the silver star to Lieutenant Hunt.

His father, Captain Cecil Hunt of the AAF, is also listed among the war dead. He was killed in the air explosion of a B-17 near Granada, Mississippi, April 2, 1944.

Lieutenant Hunt entered service April 21, 1942; while a senior at the University. Overseas in July, 1944, he was attached to the 71st infantry of the 7th army under General Patch. He was 23 at the time of his death.

His widowed mother, Mrs. Cecil Hunt, lives at Santa Barbara, California, and his widow, Mrs. Anne Brussard Hunt, at Breaux Bridge, Louisiana.

Student on Broadway

Bob Weston, a junior in drama at the University last year, and winner of the Theater Guild's award for the best supporting role of the year in "Out Flew the Web," is in the cast of "A Flag Is Born," a Broadway production by Ben Hecht. Weston accompanied Horace Robinson, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts on leave from the University, on a tour of various drama departments in the east. During the summer he participated in summer theater productions at the Riverside theater in Bridgeton, Maine.

Merle E. Chessman, '09, who recently announced his intention to resign from the state highway commission. He is editor of the Astorian Budget.

Chessman Resigns From Highway Job

Governor Earl Snell announced the first of October the appointment of Ben R. Chandler, Coos Bay bank manager, to succeed State Senator Merle R. Chessman, as a member of the state highway commission. Mr. Chandler, manager of the Coos Bay branch of the First National bank of Portland, took office immediately and will fill Chessman's unexpired term, which ends March 31, 1948. Chandler has lumber, logging supply and fishery interests in Coos county.

Last month Chessman had announced his intention to send his resignation to the governor.

Editor of the Astorian Budget, he was one of the three state legislators who were ruled by Circuit Judge George R. Duncan of Marion county to be holding positions on state boards and commissions illegally. However, it has been known for some time that Chessman has desired to quit his job and the court ruling has no connection with his decision to resign.

None of the defendants has taken an active part in the case, which has been fought out as a test case to determine constitutionality of the appointment.

Until a final decision is made on legality of their appointments in an expected appeal to the state supreme court, State Senator W. H. Strayer of Baker, a member of the state board of geology and mineral industries, and Representative Earl R. Hill of Cushman, who is a member of the state fish commission, indicated they would "sit tight."

"I accepted the highway appointment under protest and have not relished being placed in the position of seeming to fight for an office for which I was not a candidate and which entailed personal sacrifice," Chessman stated.

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

BENNY DI BENEDETTO

Homecoming Chairman, 1946

This year's Homecoming is being planned as the biggest and most important ever held. Heading the committee in charge of the weekend is hard-working Benny DiBenedetto. Because of this important position and his long activity record, Ben has been selected as October's outstanding student.

Homecoming Head DiBenedetto Named 'Student of Month'

THAT this year's Homecoming celebration will be the greatest in the University of Oregon's history is assured before it starts. Alums will be flocking back to the campus for no other reason than they haven't been able to do so since 1941.

However, the selection of Benny DiBenedetto as Homecoming chairman is double assurance that the event will be a success. DiBenedetto, who holds an outstanding activity record, has been named Old Oregon's "Student of the Month" by its board composed of Golda P. Wickham, dean of women; Les Anderson, alumni secretary; Dick Williams, educational activities manager; and Tom Kay, president of the ASUO.

Dark-haired, stocky, hard-working DiBenedetto first entered the University in the fall of 1940. A member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, he was chairman of the Beaux Arts Ball in 1942.

In June of 1943 he entered the navy, serving as a gunner's mate for three years. He saw virtually all of the world, serving in the South Pacific, Middle East and South America.

BACK at the University in January, 1946, he resumed his activities as publicity chairman for the Beaux Arts Ball. When Druids, junior men's honorary, was reactivated in the spring, DiBenedetto was chosen one of its members. He was also a member of the Food Conservation committee. When Junior Weekend rolled around DiBenedetto was publicity chairman. Last summer he was entertainment chairman for the Oregon picnic at Jantzen Beach park.

His crowning achievement came the last week of spring term when he was appointed Homecoming chairman. This year's Homecoming, falling at a much earlier date than usual, will present a number of problems, chiefly housing. Revived this year will be two famous traditions, missing since 1940. They are the noise parade and Frosh bonfire.

DiBenedetto is a graduate of Benson high school in Portland, where he was a letterman in track, football and wrestling. A senior who graduates next June, he is an architecture major and plans a future in architecture and contracting. He has worked as a civilian architect with the army engineers.

For recreation DiBenedetto likes hunting, fishing and for that matter, most sports. He also enjoys picnic and parties. He likes to be with people, and is known for his cheerfulness, good humor and hearty laugh. An enthusiastic Webfoot who likes everything about Oregon, Benny is 5 feet, 7½ inches tall. His dark hair is cropped close to his head.

MISS HOPSON WRITES STUDY OF MCKENZIE

Writing for her doctoral degree in natural history at Cornell university, Ithica, N. Y., Miss Ruth Hopson, '31 (M. A., '35), has made a complete study of the entire McKenzie river.

With the supervision of Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the University department of geology and geography, Miss Hopson wrote her thesis on all phases of the Oregon river, from recreation facilities to its geology. Dr. Smith considers her study on the Collier glacier, between the north and middle Sisters, the best record made of this largest glacier in Oregon.

Upon leaving Eugene, Miss Hopson studied at Oregon College of Education and San Jose Teachers college for two years. She then taught in Eugene public schools. Later she was with the Portland extension center.

SIGMA CHI'S REVIVE SWEETHEART CONTEST

The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi contest has been revived on the campus, and already two freshman girls from each living organization have been chosen for the competition. Banquets and dances to entertain the candidates are getting underway, and will culminate with a radio broadcast over station KORE on October 23. At that time the winning girl will be determined among five finalists. She will receive the Sigma Chi jeweled Sweetheart pin and be 'queen' at social functions of the fraternity.

Edward Bailey to Start
Law Office in Eugene

Edward F. Bailey, '13, president and title attorney of the Title Abstract Co. of Eugene, retired August 1, and after a two-month vacation, will open a law office in Eugene. He has announced that his specialization will be in the fields of real property, probate, federal and state taxation and their allied matters.

A native of Lane county, Bailey was admitted to the bar in 1915. He began his practice in the same year at Albany and continued until 1917, when he entered the armed forces. From 1921 to 1930, his law office was located at Junction City. In 1931, he was a member of the firm of Potter and Bailey, where he continued until 1934. From 1934 until 1940 he was state counsel for the Home Owners Loan corporation at Portland.

Active in public affairs, Bailey served in the state house of representatives in 1923 and the senate in 1927 and 1929. He was Democratic candidate for governor in 1930. In succeeding years he has been a member of the world war veterans state aid commission, the Eugene school board and the city council.

At the present time Bailey is president of the Eugene Shrine club, on the board of directors of the Rotary club, the American Legion and the marine corps league.

Dr. Asahel J. Hockett, '26, who was recently named medical director of the Wilmington (Del.) general hospital.

Teaches In Alaska

Miss Alice Spurgin, '30, of Eugene has been elected as teacher of English in the eleventh and twelfth grade in the Juneau, Alaska, high school. She went by plane from Seattle to Juneau early in September.

Miss Spurgin received her B. A. and M. A. degrees from the University of Oregon and attended Columbia university this spring term. For the past three years she had been an officer in the Waves in New York and Washington, D. C., receiving her discharge in March.

Newspaper Week Observed

In recognition of National Newspaper Week, the Oregon Daily Emerald Staff held open house one afternoon and evening in order that students and faculty members could observe the Emerald staff putting out an edition of the paper.

Dr. Hockett Named Medical Director

FROM Oak Ridge, Tennessee, where he was a consultant to the Oak Ridge hospital, Manhattan engineers, Dr. Asahel J. Hockett, '26 (M.D. '29) has gone to the Wilmington (Del.) general hospital as medical director.

Dr. Hockett served his internship in the University of Wisconsin hospital at Madison, and after a year in general practice at Enterprise, he returned to Madison to spend four years as chief resident physician. From 1935 to 1943 he was director of the Touro infirmary at New Orleans. Dr. Hockett was in Seattle for the next two years as director of the King county hospital system, and became vice-president of the Washington State Hospital association.

The medical man was a delegate to the International Hospital association meeting in Paris in 1937. Since 1940 he has been a delegate at large of the American Hospital association.

Besides writing numerous articles dealing with hospitals, Dr. Hockett was associate editor for eight years of Southern Hospitals, published at Charlotte, North Carolina. A Rockefeller research fellow in 1927-29, he also is a fellow of the American College of Hospital Administrators. On the latter he served two terms as regent.

Student camera enthusiasts will have a chance to see some of their pictures printed in the 1947 Oregoniana through a photo contest announced recently by Roy Paul Nelson, Oregoniana editor. Cash awards of $10, $7 and $5 will be made for the pictures which are most informal, interesting and usable. Deadline for the contest is November 15.

Shailer Peterson, '30, To Head Testing Program

Shailer A. Peterson, '30, will be in charge of a testing program for prospective dental students planned last spring by the American Dental Association to begin with the opening of dental schools this fall.

Peterson will retain his rank as assistant professor of education at the University of Chicago although he has assumed the full-time position of director of education measurements of the council on dental education.

Mental and manual aptitude tests designed to select students and to predict their success after entering will be given by the dental schools. The aptitude tests will not be used as a condition of admission to the schools but to provide basic data for a five-year study to solve the question of who should study dentistry. All schools have expressed their intention to participate in the undertaking and funds have been appropriated by the council of dental education.

Peterson will visit all of the dental schools on the Pacific Coast in October and plans to stop in Eugene to see the President and the Chancellor, as Oregon now has a dental school. A native of Minnesota, he earned his bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Oregon and his degree of doctor of philosophy at the University of Minnesota. He has served on the faculty at Oregon. He is presently engaged as research consultant of the U. S. department of agriculture, and has had numerous studies published in education and scientific journals.

Oregon Gets ROTC Air Corps Unit

The addition of an air corps unit to the University ROTC program open to advance students in military science was announced by Col. John E. McComman, head of the University military department.

The new program, handled by an air corps unit of three officers and three enlisted technicians, will make available commissions in eight categories including transportation, personnel management, administration, supply, maintenance engineering and statistical control.

Orientation flights of 25 hours will be given to advanced students with additional compensation for participation in flying. Opportunity to accept active duty to undergo training at a regular army flying school will be given selected students desiring to become pilots, navigators, or bombardiers, and selected students will be considered for commissions in the regular army air corps. The University of Oregon is one of ten western colleges and universities offering the reserve air corps program.

Also added to the military program is the advanced course of the ROTC offered for the first time since 1942. Completion of two years of the course by selected students qualifies them for commissions in the officers reserve corps as second lieutenants.

Famed Novelist Takes Year Leave of Absence

Nina Fedorova, mother of Nicholas V. Riasanovsky, '42, and author of the Atlantic Monthly prize novel "The Family" and its sequel, "The Children," has taken a year's leave of absence from Oregon State College, where she has taught courses in Russian culture and the Russian language for the past two years. During the time of her teaching, she commuted daily between her home in Eugene and her job in Corvallis.

Miss Fedorova, or Mrs. Riasanovsky in private life, is under contract to a Hollywood firm to write stories during her leave. This came about after a Hollywood trip regarding the purchase of film rights to "The Family." A third novel is partly finished. She has also done writing for Russian magazines in this country.

With her husband, Valentine Riasanovsky, the noted authoress has collaborated in a three-volume work in Russian, "A Survey of Russian Culture."

University Receives Gift Donations of $170,000

The University received $170,000 in cash gifts during the 1945-46 school year. Of this amount, $71,000 was donated for use on the Eugene campus, and $99,000 went to the University medical school in Portland.

The money was divided among the following funds: scholarships, $19,788.59; research, $46,960; prizes and awards, $1350.04; loan funds, $1524.67; library, $4747.07; instruction and lectureships, $59,975.20; buildings, $1785.99; hospitals and clinics, $30,459.40; miscellaneous, $4141.14.

Among the other gifts publicly acknowledged in the 69th annual commencement program were numerous books, periodicals, art objects and historical documents.

tor of Old Oregon, is working in Eugene as secretary to Carl Webb, manager of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers Association. She formerly worked for the Associated Press in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie J. Lyle, '44, (Joan V. Stinnette, '42) are back in Portland following his release from service. Mr. Lyle is working for the Penn Mutual Insurance company and she is employed at the War Assets corporation.

The "hottest" round of golf this season on the Eugene country club course, a 35-31-66, was shot by Rod Taylor, '45. He is now qualified to enter for the club's annual championship tournament.

Mrs. Vivian Martin Frazier, '44, has completed a thesis on the economy of an Eastern Oregon ranch as compared with a Willamette valley farm. She has been studying for her master's degree in geology at Columbia University and plans to complete her requirements at the University of Missouri.

1945—Arless Boone, 630 Darien Way, San Francisco, Calif.

Nancy Ann Boles, '45, who has been teaching at Redmond, Oregon, union high school, has resigned her position in the English department there to go to Mexico.

Ken E. Omlid, '45, a former Marine Corps navigator-bombardier, was awarded the distinguished flying cross and two gold stars in lieu of second and third air medals at ceremonies in Mayor Earl McNutt's office in Eugene last July. The medals were awarded Omlid for his "extraordinary achievement and meritorious acts in aerial flight against the enemy." He served at Saipan, Okinawa and Iwo Jima.

Mrs. A. H. Bailey (Edith Newton, '45), editor of the 1945 Oregana, is now in Columbia, Georgia, where her husband is connected with an insurance firm as an insurance adjuster. Mrs. Bailey is working as a librarian.

LeRoy Elliott, '46, was entertained recently with a party given by a small group of family and friends before leaving to practice law in Ontario. He will be joined later by Mrs. Elliott and their son, Jimmy.

Los Angeles Reunion

Arrangements have been made for an alumni reunion in Los Angeles on the eve of the football game between the Webfoots and Southern California.

The reunion will be Friday, November 1, from 6 to 9 p.m., 2961 Wilshire Blvd. In charge of arrangements for the affair is Douglas Farrell, '24.

Mr. Farrell announced recently that invitations for the affair will be sent out October 15. If alums in the Los Angeles area do not receive them they should contact him at BR 2-1171. Admission will be one dollar per person and will cover the cost of hors d'oeuvres. The outside terrace will be used if weather permits.

Oregon football coach Tex Oliver and his staff will attend the reunion, as well as Les Anderson, alumni secretary.

HOPE FOR MILLRACE

Hopes for the return of the mill-race were renewed when Mayor Karl L. McNutt announced that if the city of Eugene acquired the race to use as part of a highway right-of-way, the city council could repair its headgates so water would flow through it again from the Willamette river. The mill race, now owned by the Eugene power company, has been dry since last winter's floods destroyed the headgates.

THEATER SEASON TO OPEN

George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" was scheduled to open the University theater's 1946-47 season with production set for late October. Otilie Seybolt, associate professor of dramatics and director of the University theater, will direct the play.

OREGANA MEMBERS PICKED

Four equal-ranking upper staff members were picked by Editor Roy Paul Nelson, '45, to direct work on the 1947 Oregana. The staff included Fred Kuhl, '45, managing editor; Joan Hickey '48, associate editor in charge of activities; Bjorg Hansen '48, associate editor in charge of schools; and Warren Miller '48, associate editor in charge of living organizations.

TRAFFIC CAMPAIGN STARTS

A campaign to have the city of Eugene relieve the traffic situation on 13th street was begun in earnest when a freshman student was slightly injured when struck by a car on her way to an early morning class.

Social Schedule Crowded

With so many more people to fit into campus social events, scheduling a dance is not as easy as it used to be. This year the social calendar will be divided into two equal parts, the first one ending February 8. Each living group may schedule a house dance on each section of the calendar. Another new scheme is that of alternating weekends for men's and women's house dances.

assembly committee and sponsors lectures. It handles ASUO administration. The board also has grants-in-aid. Last year it contributed $200 to the house library fund, and this year the amount will be $300.

Since the board was formed the Oregon has been a consistent All-American yearbook. It won a pacemaker award in 1936, and each year since, with the exception of 1938 when it was ranked first class, has been All-American. The Emerald won pacemaker honors in 1933 and 1938, first class in 1943 and has won All-American honors every other year. There is not another school in the country that has a better record for publications.

The educational activities board is headed by Earl M. Pallett, assistant to the president, who has been chairman since its inception. Its secretary-treasurer is Orville Lindstrom, business-manager of the University. He is a non-voting member.

The other members are Theodore Kratt, dean of the school of music; Charles G. Howard, professor of law; Dan E. Clark, professor of history; Tom Kay, president of the ASUO; Ted Hallock, secretary-treasurer of the ASUO; and Bea King, president of AWS. Williams is an ex-officio member and does not vote. Marguerite Wittwer and Roy Paul Nelson, Emerald and Oregon editors respectively, are also ex-officio members. George Turnbull, dean of the school of journalism, sits in as advisor during spring term for selection of publication heads.

Though it now handles every conceivable student activity outside of athletics, Dad's Day and Mother's Day, the board plans expansion of its program to meet the needs of a greatly enlarged student-body.

HOGANS ATTEND DAV CONVENTION

The national convention of the Disabled American Veterans brought two prominent Oregon alumni, Capt. and Mrs. Cicero F. Hogan, '12 (Beatrice May Locke, '16), to Portland recently. Their home is in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Captain Hogan is assistant national adjutant of the DAV, and Mrs. Hogan is national commander of the DAV women's auxiliary.

Giving up his law practice in Oregon, Captain Hogan began work with the DAV in 1932. When he was appointed to his present post, six years ago, with headquarters in the Middle West, the couple moved to Cincinnati.

While in Portland, the ex-lawyer and army officer stressed the importance of such organizations as the DAV, American Legion or Veterans of Foreign Wars. He declared that their active interest in veterans' affairs, both locally and nationally, is extremely influential.

Professor Moll Goes To Australia For Year

Professor Ernest G. Moll, an outstanding Australian poet, left the University campus late last month to return to Australia, the land of his birth. He plans to remain in Australia for about a year, during which time he will write a book of verse about Australian aborigines.

Most recent of Professor Moll's accomplishments was the publication of six of his poems typifying Australian life since the year 1901. These poems appeared in the "Anthology of Australian Poets." The selection of Professor Moll's works were made by the acknowledged dean of Australian critics, George Mackaness.

Professor Moll has the distinction of having the first book of original poems, "Cut From Mulga," to be published under the Commonwealth Literature Fund, an organization administered by a group of critics and scholars in Australia. This book is one out of seven that Mr. Moll has had published.

"One of the finest things that could be done would be to set up an exchange system to enable both students and professors to learn about other countries. This is conducive to real understanding and better relations," said Professor Moll.

Professor Moll's wife and daughter will remain in the states, his son enrolling at Harvard this year.

At Drake University

Mrs. Mary Jane Irvine, who did graduate work in the University medical school, has been appointed laboratory assistant in biology in the liberal arts college, Drake university, Des Moines, Iowa.

DR. WALLACE RETIRES IN EAST

Dr. George B. Wallace, who attended the University in 1890-91, retired August 31 after 44 years on the medical faculty of New York university. A professor and chairman of the department of pharmacology, he has also been, since 1928, professor of pharmacology at New York university college of dentistry.

Dr. Wallace is noted for his research on alcohol, caffeine and anaesthesia and more recently for his work in the field of water metabolism.

For several years he was managing editor of the American Journal of Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics. He directed the publication in 1944 of "The Marihuana Problem in the City of New York. For many years he served on the public health committee of New York City, the committee on drug addiction of the bureau of social hygiene, and as chairman of Ex-Mayor La Guardia's committee on marihuana.

Also included in his varied experiences are service in the Spanish-American war as acting assistant surgeon in the Philippines, and in world war I as chief medical officer of an overseas hospital.

Night Enrollment Up

Night extension classes at the University this fall are expected to reach new enrollment highs this fall. Registration for these classes began September 30, and classes will continue through December 13.

MRS. EASTERLY DIES AT SCRIPPS COLLEGE

The death of Mrs. Virginia Judy Easterly, 64, former University of Oregon dean of women, occurred in Pomona, California, last May. Mrs. Easterly had been on the faculty of Scripps college since 1934. At the time of her death she was assistant to the president.

She was at Oregon from 1924 to 1931. Recently she headed a group of women educators studying how to train women for national service.

Chinese Girls on Campus

Two of Oregon's newest students are two sisters from Singapore, Alice and Agnes Tan. They are the daughters of Tan Chen Lock, England representative to the strait settlement of British Malaya.

In Malaya the sisters attended the Methodist Girl's school which is connected with Cambridge university in England. Before coming to America they toured the European continent, spending a winter in Switzerland, and attended Westfield college in England for a term.

End coach for the football team this year is Dick Reed, '24, who has done this job before. A former star Oregon player himself, he works as a fulltime assistant, and has been helping the head coach and the line coach map plans for the Duck team.

Charles B. Ryan, '39, of Eugene, has joined the staff of the University architecture and allied arts department this fall. He was an instructor in scientific drawing in the zoology department from 1939 to 1941. After his service overseas, he was art director at Firenz, Italy, in the university training center of the army ground forces.

1942

The architecture department has announced that Charles Walker Endicott, '42, has joined the faculty of that department. Since his graduation he has been associated with Bethlehem Steel Co., various building contractors, the Austin Co. of Seattle, and Pietro-Belluschi, Portland architect.

The highly reactive acetoacetic esters, long a favorite of organic chemistry professors, have assumed a new importance in modern industry. Two reactions which indicate the many possibilities of these compounds in organic synthesis are shown here.

Both methyl and ethyl acetoacetate are available in commercial quantities. Other esters, such as butyl and methyl-amyl can be supplied in research amounts.
